The weather at Portland, and in fact all through the Willamette valley, has been exceptional this spring. For the past six weeks there has been no rainfall, and the phenomenon of dust in February and March has been experienced. Yesterday Portland was visited by a light shower, and now that the dry spell is broken, it is probable Mr. Pague may be able to dish up the regular old standard-gauge Oregon weather once more. It is needed by the farmers, for that matter everybody, in their business.

Four Indians from the Warm Springs were lodged in the city jail this morning by Marshal Blakeney. They were in a state of somnolence, drunk to a finish, and were loaded in a wagon like so many skewered sheep and hauled unresistingly to the skookum house. They gave their names as Winston, Charley Quinn, Sam Tussey and Charley. They denied having drank any whiskey, but stated that they bought five cents worth of cider, and that it paralyzed the whole lot. This is probably true, for instead of whooping and glorifying their aboriginal ancestry, as they usually do under the influence of whiskey, they just lay down and quit. The power of the Oregon apple was fully proved. The Indians expressed a desire to go home, which they will probably be allowed to do—sometime.

The woman mentioned several days ago, as being here from Salt Lake and trying to regain her two children, who were given away by her husband a short time since, is having a hard time of it. The husband, it seems, quarreled with his wife and in a moment of anger took the children and came here. One of them was given to parties living at Caleb, and the other left some place in Washington. The husband finally went back to his wife and told her what he had done with the youngsters and sent her after them. She is here, out of money, but determined to gather her little brood. Had she delayed starting on her journey long enough to have clubbed her husband to death, public sympathy would have been much greater. We understand a collection will be taken up to assist her.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. A. M. Barrett came up from Cascade Locks yesterday.

Mr. E. Hansen of Nansene is registered at the Umatilla House.

Miss Grace Hindman of La Grande, is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. S. Davis.

John W. Hinrichs, O. B. Hartley and Robt. Wright, all of Hood River, are in the city.

Mr. A. Noltner, the Nestor of Oregon newspaperdom, came up from Portland last night.

Mrs. E. J. Haynes of Hood River took advantage of the Union Pacific time card, to pass an hour with friends here today.

Mrs. C. B. Cushing, Mrs. B. S. Huntington and Mrs. H. S. Wilson were passengers on the Regulator this morning.

Geo. Anderson, the original sailor, who came around the Horn in the Mayflower, and who has been ornamenting the cities of Klickitat county for eight months, is again with friends here.

Independent Workers Anniversary.

Monday evening, March 18th, was the first anniversary of this I. O. G. T. lodge and a large number of the members were present, together with many visitors from The Dalles, Frazier and Fairfield lodges. All seemed happy and expressed themselves as enjoying the birthday party given this occasion.

Under good of the order a very pleasant program was given. Music by Mrs. Varney. History of the past year, E. H. Merrill. Essay on society, Miss L. E. Snell. A comic recitation by Wilbur Varney. Music Miss Randall. "A Toast by a Woman on Man," Mrs. Robinson. "The Dying Trooper," Miss Lillian Snell. "Sad Changes in Twelve Months," Mr. Buschpe. Music by Mrs. Varney. After which coffee and cake were served and all took part in this part of the program and performed their parts very well.

It has been a successful year and we believe the lodge has better things for the future than in the past. Friends of temperance can not spend a more profitable evening, once a week, than with us. Remember we hold our meetings on Monday evenings, in Fraternity hall, over Kellers. Come and be one with us. Know Nothing.

Common Council.

An adjourned meeting of the common council was held in the council chambers Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock p. m. Present—Hon. Frank Menefee, mayor; M. T. Nolan, G. C. Eshelman, A. R. Thompson, S. B. Adams, C. Lauer, H. L. Kuck, R. B. Hood, S. S. Johns, W. S. Shackletord.

The mayor read his message to the council, touching on the financial condition of the city, with proper recommendations, and this was accepted and placed on file.

The petition of H. L. Kuck and others, asking for fire hydrant at the corner of Fourth and Laughlin streets, was read and on motion was referred to the committee on fire and water.

On motion it was ordered that the recorder draft an ordinance prohibiting placing wires on poles at a less distance than 25 feet from the ground.

The recorder was instructed to communicate with the secretary of state, and ascertain whether or not the copy of the charter forwarded to the council is a true and correct copy of the house bill as passed by the legislature, as apparent errors are contained therein.

On motion it was ordered that putting telegraph poles in the city be referred to the committee on streets and public property.

On motion the council adjourned.

Lord Rooney Tonight.

The attraction at the opera house tonight is the laughing festival "Lord Rooney," a side-splitting farce comedy, which will be presented by the Pat Rooney Comedy Company, comprising the members of the late Irish comedian's family, Mattie, Josie and Master Pat, and a number of able and popular comedians and metropolitan favorites. In this era of trashy farce comedies it is refreshing to meet with a meritorious novelty in this particular branch of dramatic construction. This is what is claimed for the laughing festival, "Lord Rooney," which is something akin to a revelation in this line. The author, in the compounding of his mirthful play, has departed from all the former time-worn standards, and by doing so has produced a play entirely fresh and original. From the rising of the curtain to the falling of the same the interest never flags, the humor never loses its piquant flavor, and the entire piece goes rippling merrily onward to an uproarously hilarious termination. The situations throughout are of a cyclonically mirthful nature, and there is a perfect embarrassment of riches in the number of catchy specialties introduced. The company engaged to illustrate "Lord Rooney" is, by long odds, one of the best combinations of the kind ever formed. Seats on sale at Blakeley & Houghton's. Curtain rises promptly at 8 o'clock.

Wants Information.

Two or three days ago, Col. Sinnott received a letter from some enterprising man down towards Astoria, stating that he was going to start a frog ranch, that he desired to start with the best variety of frogs, and that he had been informed by a gentleman that he met on the boat that he, Col. Sinnott, was the best posted man in the state on frogs, and had a herd of regular old fashioned bull-frogs, with voices like fog horns, and hips like a mansard roof. The correspondent then went on to ask if the colonel would sell him a few Clydesdales or Norman Percherons, for starters, or if he did not feel like parting with any of his pets, if he would send him a couple of quarts of spawn. And then he desired all sorts of information as to the best time to set the frogs, at what age they got ripe, and many other technical points. The beauty of it is, that the letter was evidently written in good faith, and the colonel hardly knows whether to feel flattered at this tribute to his piscatorial knowledge, or to hold it up against some of the traveling men. As a matter of fact the Col. hasn't owned any frogs since—well, not since he went into the salmon business.
