There has already been an emissary here from Los Angeles, where the nucleus for the new silver party has come into existence, whose mission has been to ascertain the temper of leading populists, and such members of the republican and democratic parties as might be induced to affiliate with the movement. This gentleman is Alva Udell, a land attorney of Los Angeles. He has performed his task, and is now ready to report to the executive committee of the Silver League.

"Movements like ours are being initiated all over the country." said Mr. Udell. "We expect, of course, that a national movement will be developed out of them all, and if the national movement is true to this paramount issue of money reform, we shall co-operate with it as the distinctively silver party in this state."
