IT WAS NOT PASSED.

A subscriber recently wrote to the New York World as follows:

"I want to get the names and addresses of the members of the senate and the house who voted in favor of the bill to demonetize silver; also the names of the chairmen of the committees that recommended it, and the date of the passage of the bill.

F. N. M.
Marquette, Mich.

No bill was ever passed "to demonetize silver." Silver was demonetized by a trick, and not more than three men in the city of Washington knew when it was done or within a year thereafter, even, that it had been done. This demonetization was the result of a combination among half a dozen of the leading gamblers of the Gold Board, which had its ramifications abroad. The coinage committee of the house reported a "bill to codify the mint laws." The necessity for that codification was well known, and the chairman explained that no change had been made in any of the laws, but that the different acts bearing upon the mint had been brought together under one section. The bill was not even read except by title. It was passed without one dissenting vote. In the section enumerating the different lawful silver coins of the United States the word "dollar" was omitted, beginning "the half dollar," etc. No one noticed the omission. Even a careful reading of the bill by every member of congress would not have revealed the trick to any one of them. No one was thinking of the demonetization of silver. No human being on the face of the earth had ever suggested such a thing. The silver dollar was at three cents premium over the gold dollar, and when the gold dollar was quoted at 116 the silver dollar was quoted at 119. The word had been stricken out by some member of the committee without the knowledge of his unsuspecting colleagues; but who did it has never been discovered. In after years each member of the coinage committee expressly disclaimed any knowledge of the trick or that he knew or had heard that the word "dollar" had been omitted. The bill went to the senate, was referred to its committee on coinage, examined perfunctorily, reported by Mr. Sherman (the chairman) to the senate, and passed by the senate on Mr. Sherman's assurance that it made no change in the law, only bringing all the different laws together. After the bill was passed the secret that silver had been demonetized was carefully kept. No member of the government knew it. Six months after, and again a year after, President Grant, not knowing that silver had been demonetized, advocated the coinage of more silver dollars. At that time there were some in the country. The secretary of the treasury also advocated the same thing. To their intense astonishment they were shown the report of the director of the German mint, in which he stated that America had demonetized its silver coinage. The statement had been laughed at as the blunder of a foreigner, but upon the examination of the mint laws as codified under the act of the year before, it was discovered that silver had been demonetized for a year. Every effort from that moment to this to take the back track has been defeated.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Charles H. Dodd, a Portland millionaire, and the balance of the committee "appointed by the governor to devise ways and means for presenting the battleship Oregon a suitable testimonial," are out in an appeal to the people of the state, said appeal filling a column of Friday's Oregonian. The argument the committee makes as to why the testimonial shall be made is not applicable to the subject; in fact does not concern it. They go into the question that a navy is a grand thing, which is of course admitted by everybody; but just why it is necessary for the state to present the ship a silver service is not so plain. Yet if it was, the people, the common, every-day, poor people, are not the ones to provide it. Some of the rich people should do that; some of those who look upon silver as utterly valueless, for instance, might give freely, since it costs nothing.

Another feature of the "appeal" is that to the "school children of every district and parish." The committee, with far-seeing eyes, realizing how difficult it would be to make a full grown, sensible man subscribe to the fund, has designs on the nickel and the dime that erstwhile found its way into the missionary box, and sometimes got as far out of the country as New York. In speaking of the glorious opportunity offered the children to come forward and exemplify the old proverb about a fool and his money being soon parted, the committee says: "The lesson of patriotism could not be better instilled in the mind of the child or citizen than that each and everyone within our borders shall have a patriotic personal and financial interest in this ship." The adult citizen already has a financial interest in the ship, and the youngster growing up will soon learn all the lessons of patriotism that can be taught by taxing him. The citizens of Oregon pay their pro rata of the salaries of the officers and men.

The name Oregon is a pretty one, but only loaned to them. There is a good deal in a name, too. For instance, if Mr. Dodd would lend us the use of his for a few minutes, we will present the cruiser a $10,000 memento in the name of the state, and not fish the nickels from the guileless youngsters. If the committee will head the list, however, something may be done; but its members must not expect to get off with just passing the hat.

THE ONWARD MARCH

of Consumption is stopped short by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If you haven't waited beyond reason, there's complete recovery and cure. Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience. Address: WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.
