THE INCOME TAX.

The income tax question is settled, the supreme court of the United States having declared it unconstitutional, by a vote of five to four. While this decision interferes seriously with the revenues of the government, that matter can be easily remedied. Congress can easily provide for more revenue when it meets, but it can never restore confidence in the supreme court of the United States.

For more than a hundred years our supreme court has been looked upon by the entire civilized world as the most independent, the most upright and the most perfect judicial body in the world. The recent decision besmirches that grand reputation. It is not that the decision was against the income tax that does this, but the manner in which that decision was reached. It will be remembered that Justice Shiras, at the first trial of the case, was in favor of the constitutionality of the tax, but upon the second hearing of the matter, when it was certain that Justice Jackson would throw the weight of his opinion in favor of the law. Justice Shiras suddenly reversed himself, thus making the court five to four against the law, instead of five to four in favor of it, as the decision would have been had he stood by his expressed convictions. Uncharitable people; people who are acquainted with the ways of politicians, people who know how the great aggregations of wealth accomplish their purposes, will find but one explanation of Justice Shiras's sudden flop, and that is undue influence exerted in such a manner as to increase Justice Shiras's income. The decision is but another step towards anarchy and strange as it may seem that step is deliberately taken by the highest tribunal in the land. The common every day man will find some difficulty in following the niceties of distinction made by the learned legal lights who ornament the supreme bench. The common every day mind is incapable of grasping the intangible essence of the law, that finds it constitutional to levy a tax under the name of internal revenue on the direct product of the soil, as it does in the case of tobacco, and in the same breath finds it unconstitutional to levy a tax under the name of income when the income is derived from the rents and profits of the lands upon which the tobacco is grown. The common every day citizen cannot recognize the distinction between a tax levied directly on incomes, and a tax levied indirectly as it is in the tariff.

The United States raises $600,000,000 annually by a tax. How? By customs duties she taxes articles of consumption, and the higher duty the greater tax she levies on the incomes of the consumers. The result is the same as a direct tax on incomes, only the tax is levied in proportion to the amount consumed.

The supreme court decision is, however, final and must be submitted to. The proper thing now to be done is to at once take the initial steps for submitting an amendment to the constitution, providing for the taxing of incomes. The system by which the government raises its revenue is a bad one, in that it taxes a man not according to his ability to pay, not in proportion to the benefits he derives from the government, but just in proportion to the amount he consumes. It is a per capita tax, pure and simple.

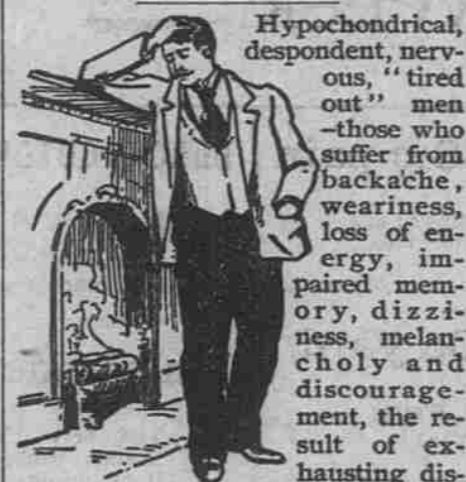

Nat. Blinn has arrived in Portland and is ready to testify in the cases against James Lotan and others, charged with smuggling. He will not testify against Dunbar because that very shrewd gentleman, having been found guilty of robbing the United States out of $100,000 at least, was let go on bonds in the sum of $5000. Of course while waiting for the supreme court to decide the matter Mr. Dunbar, with commendable wisdom, removed his non-astral body from the jurisdiction of the courts, so that after all the only question for the supreme court to decide was whether the $5000 should be forfeited to the United States, or not. The money was all the court had jurisdiction over. The decision of the court makes the bond forfeitable and U. S. District Attorney Murphy has begun proceedings to corral it. By the way the case of Cy. Mulkey, who was also convicted, seems to have been lost sight of. Will Mr. Murphy please explain why nothing is being done with that light fingered gentleman?

The justices of the United States supreme court who voted against the income tax law were, Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Gray, Field, Brewer and Shiras. For the law were Justices Harlan, White, Brown and Jackson.

Wheat is steady and advancing in the markets of the world. It is good news to growers who have been selling on a very narrow margin or at a loss.

Hi-Three Reasons.
 "Take something to drink?" said his friend.
 "No, thank you."
 "No! Why not?"
 "In the first place," said the party in question, "because I am secretary to a temperance society that is to meet today, and I must be consistent; in the second place, this is the anniversary of father's death, and out of respect to his memory I have promised never to drink on this day, and in the third place I have just had something."—Boston Herald.

Hypochondriacal, despondent, nervous, "tired out" men—those who suffer from backache, weariness, loss of energy, impaired memory, dizziness, melancholy and discouragement, the result of exhausting diseases, or drains upon the system, excesses, or abuses, bad habits, or early vices, are treated through correspondence at their homes, with uniform success, by the Specialists of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. A book of 136 large pages, devoted to the consideration of the maladies above hinted at, may be had, mailed securely sealed from observation, in a plain envelope, by sending in cents in one-cent stamps (for postage on Book), to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, at the above mentioned Hotel. For more than a quarter of a century, physicians connected with this widely celebrated Institution, have made the treatment of the delicate diseases above referred to, their sole study and practice. Thousands, have consulted them. This vast experience has naturally resulted in improved methods and means of cure.
