The Dalles Daily Chronicle.

Entered as the Postoffice at The Dalles, Oregon as second-class matter.

10 Cents per line for first insertion, and 5 Cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Special rates for long time notices. All local notices received later than 3 o'clock will appear the following day.

Don't forget to read all THE CHRONICLE. You will find interesting local matter everywhere. Some papers have only a page devoted to local news, but THE CHRONICLE cannot get along with one and has it on every page.

THURSDAY - - - JUNE 6, 1895

BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Additional Local on Fourth Page.

Frank Williams is reported better this morning. It is now four days since the accident and there is more hope of his recovery.

A ride on the Regulator, fine music and a moonlight night; what a combination, and all for 50 cents, Friday evening, June 7th.

The upper river fell slightly last night, except at Lewiston, where it rose a trifle. The river here will begin rising by Sunday noon and continue rising.

Dr. Ford's lecture Monday night will well entertain all those who can go. Admission 25 cents. The subject will be "American Conflict, or who shall educate our youth."

The Regulator yesterday took a cargo of Indians for Hood River. They were huddled together on the lower deck in a way that required ingenuity on Purser French's part to tell what was afloat and what was not.

Two carloads of berries were shipped last night from Hood River. This expression may seem stereotyped, but every carload means lots of money to shippers this season. The baggage car was well filled with crates.

The four-inch pipes necessary for laying the main on Fourth street, arrived last night from Portland and work will be begun at once. The contract for laying the pipes was let to W. E. Brown for 8 cents per foot. The pipe was furnished by Mays & Crowe.

D. P. Ketchum shipped four carloads of sheep to the Union Meat Company at Troutdale last night. A big shipment of probably twenty cars of sheep will be made from this point about the 20th of the month. The Dalles is growing in importance as a shipping point and the yards present a lively appearance every day.

Seldom has the wind blown as hard early in the morning as it did today. At sunrise the river was lashed into a fury and the angry white caps stretched across the water till it did not require much imagination to picture from the scene, an ocean storm. Better the wind than the sickening heat of the Eastern states.

Senator Mitchell had a conference with the secretary of the interior and secured a rescission of the order issued by the department prohibiting sheep from running at large on the Cascade timber reserve, and there will be no such prohibition of grazing sheep on the reservation.

The First Anniversary.

A year ago today the great flood of 1894 was at its height. For days previous the waters were steadily rising and no one pretended to say when it would stop. THE CHRONICLE of a year ago today says: "Mr. Brooks gives us the reading of the gauge this morning as being 59.5 at 9 o'clock, a rise since yesterday at 7:30 of 1.1."

The center of all business was on Washington street. The business of the whole town was huddled in a small space. New buildings sprang up with a mushroom growth. Branners restaurant, a representation of the Umatilla House, and six or eight other buildings were put up within a day. All kinds of ingenuity were shown in selecting places of refuge, and business men lost no time in at least having a place for their signs. Such a time was never seen before, and we hope no eyes may ever look upon the like again. A chiseled mark in the old Chronicle office, on the corner of Second and Washington streets, tells a mute story of how the waters rose and covered the land.

HON. A. J. DUFUR DEAD.

The Passing Away of an Aged Pioneer—He Was Prominent in the State—A Useful Life Is Closed.

Last evening at about 6 o'clock Attorney E. B. Dufur received word that his father was dying at Dufur. The messenger gave no further particulars, and Mr. Dufur hastened to reach the bedside of his father before death should come. Leaving town with all haste, he had just reached the top of the Benson grade when another messenger met him saying his father, Hon. A. J. Dufur, was dead. The end was not unlooked for, as the aged gentleman had long been ailing, though there had been nothing noticeably of late to give any premonition of death. Yesterday afternoon he did not feel as well as usual, and lay down. Soon it was seen the end was near, and all the children were summoned. Mr. Dufur lingered unconscious for some time, and died at about 6 o'clock last evening. His children, with the exception of Mr. E. B. Dufur, were present at the bedside. Several years ago Mr. Dufur received a stroke that left him in an enfeebled condition. He has lived with his daughter, Mrs. Slusher, in Dufur, but has always been more or less at the homes of his other children.

In the death of this venerable gentleman there passes away one of Oregon's sturdy characters. Mr. Dufur was born in Williamstown, Vermont, September 17, 1815, and was thus in his 80th year at the time of his death. He has always been a farmer by occupation, and has held many important places in public life. In 1855 he moved to Wisconsin, and two years later was elected a member of the Wisconsin legislature. In 1859 he crossed the plains, and settled on Columbia Slough, near Portland. Here he remained till 1872, when he removed to Wasco county and with his sons founded the present town of Dufur. His property interests near Portland kept him a part of the time there, but for the last ten years he has resided continuously in Eastern Oregon. He leaves three sons, E. B. Dufur, of The Dalles, and Andrew and W. H. H. Dufur of Dufur. Mrs. Arabelle Slusher, at whose house he died, was his daughter.

Mr. Dufur served in the Oregon legislature in 1862 and afterwards for two terms was president of the State Agricultural society.

In 1876 he was appointed commissioner for Oregon at the Centennial exposition in Philadelphia and ably represented the state. Mr. Dufur was a highly cultured and kindly gentleman and his peaceful death was a fitting close to a useful, well rounded life. The friends of his earlier days have passed away and he has joined them. His memory remains a priceless heritage to his children.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow at Dufur. Rev. A. J. Brigham will deliver the sermon. The final interment will take place in Lone Fir cemetery, where his remains will be beside those of his wife, who died five years ago.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. C. J. VanDuyn of Tygh Valley is in the city.

Mrs. R. Booten went to Portland by boat today.

Mr. Geo. P. Morgan returned home this morning by the Regulator.

Messrs. T. H. Johnston and M. J. Anderson of Dufur came into town today.

Mr. A. D. McDonald, of Sherman county, came into town by train this morning.

Mr. J. E. Sorbin, a prominent merchant of the Locks, was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. E. M. Aldrich returned to Cascade Locks this morning, after a day's visit in The Dalles.

Alvah Patterson, of the Heppner Gazette, passed through town today on his way home from Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Myers were passengers on the Regulator this morning to spend the day at Hood River.

Mr. Hugh Glenn went to Portland this morning and THE CHRONICLE office has lost its best neighbor till his return.

Mr. James Cunningham, a prominent wool grower of Bickleton, Wash., is in the city disposing of this season's clip.

Mr. S. B. Adams went to Portland today on the local train. He will be back tomorrow evening.

Miss Lillie Bernardi, who has been spending the winter and spring in The Dalles, returned to her home in Salem this afternoon.

The Misses Olivia and Allie Rowland were passengers on this morning's train for Salem, where they will spend some time visiting relatives.

Mr. I. N. Day of Cascades came up last night from the locks. This morning in company with Mr. Aldrich, he made a journey towards Celilo.

Miss Nellie Butler, who was recently elected a teacher in our public schools, has sent in her resignation. Mrs. Roche was chosen to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Horatio Fargher of Kingsley is in the city today. He says the sheepmen are being aroused over the Cascade reservation question and that some action will soon be taken.

W. D. Jones, W. Bolton, J. E. Shearer, and G. H. Dunn arrived today from Antelope as witnesses in the Cochrane vs. Tunny sheep case, which will be tried tomorrow in the circuit court.

Mr. and Mrs. Pease arrived on the local today to visit Mr. Edward C. Pease. They have been on an extended tour in the Eastern states and are now on their way to their home in San Francisco.

Miss Julia Chamberlain, sister of Miss Ellen J. Chamberlain, formerly preceptor in the Wasco Independent Academy at The Dalles, was married yesterday in Seattle to a Mr. Schultz, one of the tellers in the large banking house of Dexter, Horton & Co.

In the Ditch.

Train No. 21 west-bound was derailed yesterday at Biggs station. The wind, which had blown hard all day, had caused the sand to drift and the rails were partially covered. The engine, with Engineer McCune, went off the track but no cars followed. No one was hurt. The accident happened right at the station, so although the road was blocked, the side track was clear, and trains moved without any delay.

The Academy Park.

The school directors are making arrangements to thoroughly renovate the Academy Park school and put the grounds, which are capable of being made very beautiful, in good condition. New floors are to be placed in the building and a cleansing process applied to the walls and woodwork. The trees on the campus are to receive a coat of whitewash. The building stands in a beautiful situation and the grounds are very picturesque. The directors of the old academy labored hard to make the site a pretty one and the results of their efforts come down to the school district. The writer well remembers when a lad at school of seeing Mr. D. M. French, Mr. Brooks, Mr. J. W. French and other gentlemen, who were interested in the school, make frequent visits to the grounds and spend much time in planning means of making the campus attractive. Prof. Gatch used to assiduously lecture the students on the necessity of having a proper respect for the building and grounds and used to point with commendation to the pains the directors took in the appearance of the school. Very rarely was a scratch seen upon the walls. It is a lamentable fact that the academy did not survive, but we can rejoice that if it had to go, it has fallen into such good hands and will continue to be a power in the community for good and progress.

When your heart pains you and unusual palpitation is frequent, accompanied sometimes with shortness of breath and low spirits you are suffering from a disordered state of the liver, digestion is imperfect and there is wind on the stomach. If allowed to remain the trouble will ultimately reach the kidneys and then become dangerous to life. Steps should be taken to stay its progress on the appearance of the first symptoms. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm is especially adapted for dis-orders of this kind. Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by Snipes-Kinersly Drug Co.

Sealed Proposals.

Bids will be received, by the Water Commission for digging a ditch, from Liberty street to the residence of Dr. Shackelford, on Fourth street, sufficient to lay a four inch pipe, and for filling the ditch after the pipe has been laid, at the office of the Water Commission in this city, until noon of May 31, 1895. For plans and specifications and full information apply to the superintendent of the water works.
