WHAT THE FUTURE WILL BE.

Wasco county is but throwing aside its swaddling clothes. Although one of the oldest counties in the state, and one whose jurisdiction formerly extended from the Cascade range far east, over the deserts of the plains almost to the Rocky mountains, yet its real development is just beginning. In early days we depended on traffic to pour its coffers of wealth into our laps; and so it did. When the long line of pack trains ceased wending their way from our city, the days of the railroad boom came, and everything centered at The Dalles. When the shops, with their large pay roll, left us, it seemed as though a crushing blow had been struck; but all the time a development of the country was going on unconsciously; so gently, in fact, as to be hardly noticed. The hills, which had been stripped of their luxuriant bunchgrass by grazing stock, had been transferred into wheat fields; along the creek bottoms orchards were being carefully planted and nurtured; stock farms had been located in places advantageous because of good ranges, and altogether the transition from a wild frontier to a settled country, with a steady commercial development, was completed.

But we are in our infancy. The fish interests have probably reached their full development. The stock raisers may not increase their stocks and herds in the same proportion as in the past, but the wheat growing country has not nearly reached its capacity, while the fruit industry has yet its full life to live. Hood River is getting a world-wide fame for its apples and berries. The Dalles is shipping cherries, peaches and other fruits to markets, where these products command the highest price. The orchards growing at present only show the possibility of the future. The hill land is now being urged as superior to the creek bottom for large fruits, while soil that has been looked upon in the past as almost worthless is today held at a good value.

The prospect is bright for this favored portion of Eastern Oregon. When the eyes of the immigrant are turned towards Oregon they will rest upon the place they have long been seeking. Let us make an effort to get a larger population, for the more that come the better it will be for those that are already here.

The Oregon Scout comes to our table this morning in a handsomely illustrated edition. We are surprised and pleased at the beauty of the illustrations, which reflect much credit on the enterprise and artistic judgment of the publishers. The scenes are mainly views of Eastern Oregon and accompanied by well-written articles of description. A picture of Bridal Veil falls is especially praiseworthy. THE CHRONICLE congratulates the publishers of the Scout upon their success, and hopes their enterprise will be in every way rewarded.

PRODUCTIVE DRY HOLLOW.

A Ride Through the Orchards Close to The Dalles—A Growing Industry.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Emil Schanno kindly invited the editor to take a ride to the orchards in Dry Hollow. Mr. Schanno, as a member of the State Horticultural Commission, is thoroughly conversant with the fruit growing of this section, and it is a pleasure to have him explain the different varieties of fruit and the progress and needs of fruit culture in Wasco county. Driving up the road past the fair grounds, and over the hill into a little valley, the orchards of Dry Hollow are in view.

But a few years ago, where now the green trees make the whole country a beautiful picture, was a soil supposedly barren. People who prided themselves in being well informed, said that nothing could ever be raised on such land, and hooted at the idea of a person spending time and money in planting trees. Were they to take a ride similar to that of yesterday, these same pessimists would receive some knowledge that would be a sure blow to a belief in the infallibility of their judgment. Such a sight as the trees, laden with fruit of all description, gives sure evidence of this country's future.

The first place that was passed belonged to the family of the late Rev. E. P. Roberts, and the large orchard, covering the hillside, is well kept and shows every evidence of prosperity. Mr. W. H. Taylor, whose place is the next one up the road, was not at home; but a drive through his orchard was a revelation to the writer. Its size cannot be told from the road, and the long avenues of closely planted trees, all showing a healthy growth, reminded one of the pictures of the California orange groves. The ground between the trees has been carefully ploughed and rolled, and might be said to be as clean as a parlor carpet. Most of Mr. Taylor's trees are about six years old, but some of them were planted four years ago. The limbs are so heavily laden with fruit that they will have to be stripped, in great part, to save them from breaking. Mr. Taylor is just building a large Christmas dryer, which is nearly completed.

The next place visited was that of Mr. Robt. Cooper. Mr. Cooper moved to this country in the latter part of the sixties, and selected for his home the place which he has made into a magnificent fruit farm. His land lies on both sides of the road, and the best trees grow on the hilly part. The cherries are just beginning to ripen, and the trees are loaded. Three men were in the orchard stripping the trees of the overplus of fruit. Mr. Cooper, in planting his trees, placed them twelve and a half feet apart, but has thinned them out till there is now a space of twenty-five feet between most of the trees.

These farms, which for lack of time were the only ones viewed, are well worth a visit, and the gentlemanly owners are very kind to show a stranger many things of interest. The orchards represent a great outlay of labor and expense, but no one who looks upon the long lines of trees, with their luscious burden, can think it a poor investment.

Mr. Henry Klindt, a pioneer resident of Wasco county, whose place is a short distance below town, brought THE CHRONICLE office today some wheat hay of remarkable growth. The hay was planted last fall on ground which the water covered and measures six feet in height. The river left a sediment of about twelve inches on Mr. Klindt's field and the hay crop upon it this year will be enormous. Mr. Klindt has been for many years a resident of this county, but he says never before has he seen so much hay raised on a piece of land as will be gathered on his place this season. Everyone knows how rich the land in Egypt along the Nile is made by the overflow of the river and it is not to be wondered at that some thing should happen along the banks of the Columbia. The sample now at THE CHRONICLE office would be an excellent specimen of Wasco county's resources to send abroad.

Constable A. A. Urquhart has just returned from Wamic, where he arrested a man named Northrup, charged with the larceny of some oats from the farm of Sheriff Driver. He is also accused of killing a pig belonging to Miss Mamie Driver. Northrup has the reputation of being a bad man and when Constable Urquhart went to arrest him, he found him in the brush with a loaded Winchester. Northrup finally concluded that it was best to come without too much delay and is now in the county jail. The people of Wamic settlement are much worked up against Northrup and his reputation in that community is not of the best.

ON THE ROAD

to recovery, the young woman who is taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In maidenhood, womanhood, wifehood and motherhood the "Prescription" is a supporting tonic and nerve that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening and curing the derangements of the sex. Why is it so many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Because beauty of form and face radiate from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air and exercise coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription."

If there be headache, pain in the back, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, or if there be nervous disturbance, nervous prostration, and sleeplessness, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It dispels aches and pains, corrects displacements and cures catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, falling of the womb, ulceration, irregularities and kindred maladies.

"FALLING OF WOMB."

MRS. FRANK CAMPFIELD, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "I deem it my duty to express my deep, heart-felt gratitude to you for having been the means, under Providence, of restoring me to health, for I have been by spells unable to walk. My troubles were of the womb—inflammatory and bearing-down sensations and the doctors all said, they could not cure me."

Twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's Wonderful Favorite Prescription has cured me."

"Disfigured For Life"

Is the despairing cry of thousands afflicted with Unsightly skin diseases. Do you realize what this disfiguration means to sensitive souls? It means isolation, seclusion. It is a bar to social and business success. Do you wonder that despair seizes upon these sufferers when Doctors fail, standard remedies fail, And nostrums prove worse than useless? Skin diseases are most obstinate to cure or even relieve. It is an easy matter to claim to cure them, but quite another thing to do so.

CUTICURA REMEDIES Have earned the right to be called Skin Specifics. Because for years they have met with most remarkable success. There are cases that they cannot cure, but they are few indeed.
