HE WAS PROSTRATED.

Western Oregon's summer is a godsend to the poor man. There is no day in which the laborer cannot perform his usual duties without danger of heat prostration, while there are few days during the hot season that the toiler out of doors east of the Cascades is not threatened with sunstroke.—Telegram.

The Evening Telegram is about as inaccurate in respect to the climate of Oregon east of the Cascades as it is in many other matters about which it endeavors to enlighten the public. When the Portland Sun recently referred to the people of Fossil loading their products upon boats at the wharves of Fossil and shipping them to Portland without reshipment we thought the editor of one paper published in Portland was densely ignorant concerning the eastern portion of the state. To draw it mild, the Telegram is more ignorant than the Sun of what the state of Oregon really is. We suspect that it is not ignorance in this instance, but international misrepresentation, the purpose of which we are unable to guess.

There never was a day in Eastern Oregon when laborers could not work out of doors in the sun with perfect safety. We never heard of a sober man being prostrated with heat in Eastern Oregon. We suppose the writer of the above clipping may have some time been prostrated in Eastern Oregon, but the cause of it was other than the heat of the sun. We frequently see men prostrated here, and in Portland also, and the writer of the above clipping would perhaps call it heat prostration; but people who call things by their proper names have another name for it. We will be charitable; and suggest that possibly the aforesaid Telegram writer was prostrated when he wrote those lines.

NEW DISEASE AMONG SHEEP.

A disease called anthrax is reported to be prevalent among sheep in Australia, and proves very fatal, baffling the skill of doctors. A large quantity of Australian wool is being received in this country and if no worse result than competition is felt it is quite bad enough; but if an incurable disease is imported with it, every democratic sheepman, if there are any now, will more than ever rue the day his party was empowered to remove the tariff on wool.

This disease is ascribed to the presence of a rod-shaped bacteria, which causes an enlargement of the spleen. The spores of this animal constitute the contagious matter, and the disease is one hard to cure or check. The same disease is common to cattle, and is sometimes called splenic fever. The owners of sheep have had trouble with their spleens ever since the Wilson bill was passed, and now the poor sheep themselves are threatened.

Let's restore the tariff on wool; that will cure or prevent many ills with which the country is now suffering.

BETTER ROADS BY THE USE OF BROAD TIRES.

Pennsylvania has recently adopted a law which provides that those owning and using draft wagons with tires not less than four in width for hauling loads of not less than 2,000 pounds, shall receive a rebate of one-fourth of their road tax. Michigan has had for about fifteen years a similar law, and the effect is very apparent. Roads are more easily built, and they keep themselves in repair, except the removing of loose rock.

We believe in view of the light soil of this and Sherman counties, the farmers would find it economy, even without legislative encouragement, to use such wagons. This state could well afford to follow the example of Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Several of our streets could be greatly improved by the use of a rake, a shovel and a dump cart, all operated by an energetic and practical combined street commissioner and city marshal. The removal of the loose rocks would be the labor of a few days only, and everyone who rides the streets, either in a carriage or bicycle, would return thanks. What candidate for the office of marshal and street commissioner will pledge himself to keep the streets free from debris? When he makes the pledge, he will get our support.

It is now difficult to find a comfortable dwelling in this city for rent, and there is not a single vacant room, suitable for mercantile business, unoccupied. A ride about the outskirts of town dis-closes a remarkable number of small dwellings now being built or just completed, while nearer the business portion of the city several nice dwellings are being erected. We have no boom, and we don't want any; but there are few towns on the coast which are suffering less from the depression in business.

An interesting sight was to be seen last evening at the East End. The warehouses are crowded to outer edge of the sidewalks with bales of wool; a half-dozen teams blocked the front of the Wasco warehouse, all heavily loaded with wool, having just arrived from the interior; a large band of sheep filled the stock yards, and another of about the same size was camped at the head of the grade. All these sheep were awaiting car accommodations to be transported to Chicago.

Mr. Ed. Boynton, second son of Mr. E. L. Boynton, of Kingsley, died last night of phlegmon, a swelling in the throat. Mr. Ed. Boynton was born in Clackamas county, April 5, 1870. He has lived in The Dalles and vicinity for a number of years and was highly respected and liked by all who knew him. For the last few years he has been connected with the different stage lines running out of the city. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. M. E. Briggs has just received a fine line of M. Heminway & Sons, also Brainard & Armstrong art silks, filloeselle, Roman floss, etc. The colors are perfectly shaded and great care has been given to the selecting of colors, to have them suitable for the now popular lines of embroidery that requires careful and accurate shading. YOUNG SPIRITS, a vigorous body and robust strength follow good health. But all fall when the vital powers are weakened. Nervous debility and loss of manly power result from bad habits, contracted by the young through ignorance of their ruinous consequences. Low spirits, melancholia, impaired memory, morose or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity and a thousand and one derangements of body and mind, result from such pernicious practices. All these are permanently cured by improved methods of treatment without the patient leaving home.

A medical treatise written in plain but chaste language, treating of the nature, symptoms and curability of such diseases, sent securely sealed in a plain envelope, on receipt of this notice, with 10 cents in stamps, for postage. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.
