WHAT THE BOAT LINE HAS DONE FOR WOOL MEN.

If there ever was an enterprise that demanded the undivided support of the people of The Dalles and tributary country, it is the Regulator line of steamers. The D. P. & A. N. Co. have again been instrumental in regulating the wool rates, and have even reduced them below last year's tariff, the through rate from The Dalles to Boston now being 95 cents per one hundred pounds.

Though the freight charges on wool is an important factor to the buyer, the wool grower also gets the benefit of the low rates, and it is to their interests to see to it that the present low rates are maintained, which effect not only The Dalles, but Pendleton, Arlington and Heppner also. What has been said of wool, can be said of wheat. Before the boats were put on, wheat was $3.40 per ton; now we believe the rate is to be but $1.25 per ton.

In addition to the reduced rate on freight, there are other accommodations that people between The Dalles and Portland enjoy. The local train, in all probability, would not have been put on had their been no boat line.

We cannot be too enthusiastic in our praise of the D. P. & A. N. Co—the biggest little transportation company in the United States.

SCANDALS AMONG ARISTOCRACY.

Again the English and American press is advertising the peculiar characteristics of the Prince of Wales. For many years it has been all a woman's reputation would stand to receive any attention from the prospective ruler of the greatest commercial nation on the globe.

The time is coming, even in England, when the royalty and the aristocracy generally will be driven to decency, if not to virtue, by public sentiment. Royalty stands upon too uncertain footing to withstand the threatening storm. It is a maxim of the common law that "the king can do no wrong."

Every person who chances to differ with the free silver orators and press is a "sordid conspirator," "traitor," "plutocrat," and "enemy of the people." With such a vast number of that kind of people in the country, silver is apt to fare hard. We do not believe there is anything to be gained, or that anyone will ever be convinced by the style of oratory which characterized the convention in Memphis yesterday.

The mass meeting at the courthouse last evening for the nomination of candidate for city officers, was the smallest meeting of that kind held in The Dalles in ten years. The heaviest taxpayers were conspicuous by their absence, which evidences the fact that they are entirely satisfied with the management of the city's affairs as now administered.

The constitutional convention of Utah has completed its labors and adjourned. Polygamy, the evil which has so long kept Utah from statehood is forever prohibited, and the present plural marriages are to remain in force.

Not a Candidate.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE: Inasmuch as there seems to be a great deal of talk concerning my probable candidacy for recorder, I desire to say that I have been recorder Dalles City for two terms and have tried to perform my duties as such faithfully.

Sincerely thanking the people for the high trust they have reposed in me, I am Respectfully, DOUGLAS S. DUFUR.

Latest in the Circuit Court.

In the circuit court today the following proceedings were held:

Judgment by default was entered in the cases of Pease & Mays vs. H. E. Moore, Pease & Mays vs. J. W. Moore and French & Co. vs. H. E. and J. W. Moore.

Motion for new trial was overruled and judgment entered on the verdict in the case of P. M. Cochrane vs. J. D. Tunny. The case of Urquhart vs. Urquhart was referred and a referee will be agreed upon later.

Mr. Northrup, whose case has just been on trial before Justice Davis, called on the editor today and wished to make an explanation. He says the statement in this paper several days ago did him much injustice, and that he did not intend to resist the officer with a Winchester.

The demurrer to the indictment number one against Ed Martin was sustained on the ground that two crimes were charged. The demurrer to the remaining indictments were overruled. The defendant refused to plead, and consequently the judge entered a plea of guilty, and sentenced the defendant to two years in the penitentiary for each indictment, to which the demurrers were overruled. Exceptions were served and the case will go to the supreme court.

The various wards will meet tonight to [nominate] councilmen. The first ward, which comprises all that part of town north of Third street, will meet in the council chambers. The second ward, comprising that portion south of Third street and east of Court, will meet in the county courthouse upstairs.
