ROSEBERRY RESIGNS

New Prime Minister to Be Called.

WHICH ONE OF THREE MEN

Salisbury, Balfour and the Duke of Devonshire are Mentioned—News From Abroad.

LONDON, June 22.—It is a requirement of official etiquette that upon resigning, a ministry shall give no hint of such intention until it has first been announced to the queen and to the house of commons; but there is practically no doubt that the Rosebery government, after a cabinet council of five hours, determined to resign, and that Lord Rosebery, who had already been "commanded" to dinner at Windsor, will use the occasion to surrender his office. It is also the custom for the prime minister to recommend to her majesty his successor. Lord Rosebery may name Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour or the duke of Devonshire.

It is etiquette for the queen to send first for the person named. If it is Lord Salisbury, he may decline and suggest Mr. Balfour or the Duke of Devonshire, or vice versa. In any case it seems to be the general impression that even the conservative party will not again risk a poor premier, and that Mr. Balfour will be chosen. But any one of the three or any other conservative may decline. Then Lord Rosebery will retain office and be in a stronger position than before. He has defeated and offered the opposition control of the government; they declined, therefore, they confess that he has the real majority as representing the effective lower house.

If a conservative leader accepts, there is no real doubt that he will find a majority, even if small, against him. He cannot dissolve parliament until the supplies have been voted, and a liberal majority can prolong the session for months.

Soon after the council broke up for lunch, at 1:30, Postmaster-General Arnold Morley and Campbell-Bannerman were summoned to confer with Lord Rosebery. This started the rumor that the ministers will finally decide to resign and cast upon the opposition the responsibility of the government, and make it select a time for the dissolution of parliament.

The cabinet finally rose at 5:45 p. m., and Rosebery started for Windsor to inform the queen of the decision of the ministers, which will not be announced until Monday.

It is asserted the Irish members are largely responsible for the present situation as their action in compelling the chancellor of the exchequer to rescind the vote for the erection of a statue to Oliver Cromwell seriously undermined the government. The Westminster Gazette says: "The Irish are strongly opposed to dissolution. They declare: 'If the government resigns we have been betrayed. We must have the land bill. It would be a blunder and crime to defraud us of it.'"

AMERICANS DELIGHTED.

Our Vessels to Remain Some Time Longer in German Waters.

KIEL, June 22.—The officers and men attached to the American squadron are delighted with their visit here, and they expect to remain some days enjoying the hospitality of the German and other fleets. After the banquet of last night the American officers were all presented to Emperor William and the Duke of York. The former was extremely affable. He cordially shook hands with the American officers and had a friendly word for each. During his conversation with Admiral Kirkland Emperor William referred to the interest shown in American naval matters. He mentioned Captain Mahan's book on "The Influence of Sea Power in History." Of this work he spoke in words highly eulogistic, adding:

"I have told all of my officers to study Captain Mahan's book well—to sleep with it under their pillows."

The men injured by the explosion of a boiler of steam launch of the San Francisco (not the Columbia) have all returned to duty, their injuries being slight.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Admiral Kirkland has cabled Secretary Herbert that Emperor William has expressed a desire to visit the United States cruiser New York, and the cruiser will remain at Kiel to afford the emperor an opportunity. Secretary Herbert cabled the admiral to have the vessel remain for that purpose.

Edmiston, the banker who is charged with having received money after knowledge of the insolvency and failing condition of the Walla Walla Saving bank, the motion for a new trial was denied and the defendant sentenced to two years imprisonment. A motion for an appeal to the supreme court was entertained, and bonds named in the sum of $2000.

The Moro Observer Answered.

THE DALLES, Or., June 22, '95. EDITOR DALLES CHRONICLE:—In your issue of today, I find under the heading of "Wasco County Roads" an article from the Moro Observer, regarding an accident that befell Mr. C. W. Fairchild of Grass Valley, some weeks since near the junction of the so-called Miller and free bridge roads in this county. Now, while we have no desire to speak adversely of articles that are published for the purpose of awakening interest in the improvement of any and all roads, yet we do feel that when such articles are published, facts should be stated that they might have some weight for good and not appear to the public as mere attempts to throw adverse reflections on those not deserving them. In the case on hand the man who met with the mishap would have given a truthful statement for publication if requested to do so.

Now we do not deny that the point at which the accident occurred was a narrow curve in the road, as is the case at many points on the roads of Oregon, but to use the language of Mr. Fairchild himself, "It was no worse than it had been for years," and he had been over the same ground many times. We feel certain that a man of Mr. Fairchild's judgment and ability would not have attempted a passage at the point in the road alluded to, had he not felt competent to make the turn with a coupled team, as many others have done before and since the accident, but the true cause of the overturn of Mr. Fairchild's team, as stated to us by himself, was the breaking of an axle-tree of his leading wagon, which happening just at the curve in the road, caused the upset into the ditch, which instead of being 60 feet deep, as stated by the Observer, was 10 or 12 feet deep; nor did the horses allow themselves to be pulled off the road, but kept it and as to the demolished wagons, the cost of repairs was about $17, after which we saw the same wagons with their load of wool, on their way to this city.

Now, Mr. Editor, I wish to say that while we know of the accountability of counties for damages under certain circumstances; we have no anxiety about any later results from this accident, other than that the makers of the wagon, (which was a new one), should in our opinion, make good to Mr. Fairchild his loss in full.

Hoping this article will remove any fear of accident from the minds of those who the Observer's article may have frightened into using other routes to and from this city and without any remarks as to the best route to Southeastern Oregon, we shall endeavor, as we always
