A METROPOLIS IN EASTERN OREGON.

Nothing would contribute so much to the prosperity of this and adjoining counties as the building up of a metropolis with a population of 10,000 to 20,000. We already have excellent markets and economical methods of reaching them for products which bear shipping; but we are now prepared to produce much which, without a local market, is of little profit. Everything points to The Dalles as the place for such a city. The surrounding country stands by us well, and we appreciate their treatment. We, on our part, must stand by the producers about us by attracting a population of consumers. To do this we need a payroll. We have all the essential conditions for a woolen factory. With this there should be a first-class clothing factory. These industries would suggest others, and the population would come without urging.

With a climate and soil conducive to pleasant living, there is no reason why we should not be a city of 20,000 inhabitants within the next ten years. But the men who own the property and have the means must lend a hand and pull together; otherwise little can be gained.

PROTECTIONISTS CONSISTENT.

The Dalles Chronicle, a protectionistic newspaper, says, "the opening of every new market is a benefit to the producer." This is true, but who would suppose that this would be admitted by a believer in protection which closes markets to producers and puts barriers in the way of producers entering them. The world as a market means everything to producers and little, if anything, to manipulators, who prosper to the extent that they are able to control markets by protection and restriction.—East Oregonian.

Every one knows that protection is a necessarily selfish policy and in seeking new markets for our productions we do not imply an advocacy of opening the markets of this country, on articles which can be raised at home, to the competition of the world. Protection is the patriotic policy which seeks to build up America rather than benefit other countries at our expense.

OUR MUTTON MARKET.

Reports from the southern portion of the state indicate that mutton is a drug on the market, the buyers offering only $1.25 per head. Thousands of mutton sheep have been sold here this spring and summer at from $1.65 to $2 per head. The reason for the difference is obvious. The Dalles is a competing point for all the transcontinental roads. We market our sheep in Portland, on the Sound, British Columbia, in Kansas City, Chicago and other eastern centers. Southern Oregon sheep go south almost exclusively and compete with California sheep in a limited market.

There is probably no city in the Northwest so favorably situated as respects both the producer and the markets, as The Dalles, and for this we are indebted to the men who organized and have maintained a water transportation line. There is no reason why this city should not become the largest trading point in the state outside of Portland. All we need is concerted action on the part of our business men upon questions of commercial importance. The most prominent of these is the transportation question.

Receiver McNeil is doing much to restore the O. R. & N. Co.'s road to its former good condition, and indeed to make it better than before Union Pacific mismanagement. Reduction in rates and permanent improvements are the best indications of prosperity, and the prosperity of transportation lines is the best evidence of a prosperous country.

The Cornell boat crew received a true English welcome. They were derided upon every hand, and treated, not as honorable competitors, but as contemptible rivals. The English may beat the Yankees at the oar, but we could teach them much in the way of courtesy and common politeness. There are some other sciences in which we have heretofore taught them lessons.

The Iowa republicans have held their state convention and adjourned. Questions of finance caused no trouble, and the party in that state stands squarely upon the principles of the national platform. This is a safe position, and there is every prospect that the ticket just nominated will be elected by the time-honored Iowa majority. Republican principles are, in their essentials, permanent, and we predict that the state conventions in all the states will plant themselves solidly upon the Minneapolis platform as Iowa has done.

Contests in the Land Office.

Register Moore and Receiver Biggs of the land office have heard and decided a large number of land contests. The time for appealing in most of them has not yet passed so it is not known whether the decisions as rendered in all the cases will be the final ones. Following are the names of the contestants, the decisions and the property in dispute:
 Aldrich vs Phillips, decided in favor of Aldrich, ne 1/4 sec 34, tp 3 n, r 18 e.

Owing to an accident in the Stampe's tunnel in the Cascade mountains, through traffic on the Northern Pacific is blocked. Their trains are being run over the O. R. & N., and pass through The Dalles. The east-bound passenger left Portland this morning after 1 o'clock, and passed through The Dalles at 5. The west-bound passenger went through town a flying at 8:30 this morning. There were ten coaches, including a diner. Engineer Hayes was at the throttle, and as the train can do no local business, it will make rapid time to Portland. The damage to the tunnel will probably be very great, as the wood work is on fire and a lot of rock will fill portions of the tunnel. The Stampe is one of the most famous pieces of railroad engineering in the country.

"We had an epidemic of dysentery in this vicinity last summer," says Samuel S. Pollock, of Briceland, Cal. "I was taken with it and suffered severely until some one called my attention to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I procured a bottle and felt better after the first dose. Before one-half of the bottle had been used I was well. I recommended it to my friends and their experience was the same. We all unite in saying it is the best." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Drug-gists.

Last night Lee Morehouse, a prisoner in the county jail, made an ineffectual attempt to escape. It is Jailer Fitzgerald's custom to go through the jail every evening to assure himself that everything is as it ought to be. Morehouse secreted himself in the cell nearest the door leading into the sheriff's office and intended as soon as the jailer retired to make a break for liberty. Mr. Fitzgerald, however, looked into that cell first, and discovered Morehouse with his shoes in hand ready to run. He was bent on going and it took something more than moral persuasion on the jailer's part to convince him he had better stay. Morehouse is in jail waiting the grand jury on the charge of the larceny of a horse and bridle.

We recommend De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure because we believe it a safe and reliable remedy. It's good effects are shown at once in cases of Cholera Morbus and similar complaints. For sale by Snipes-Kinersly Drug Co.
