Additional Local on Fourth Page.

The weather prophecy for tomorrow is fair and warmer.

The latest new bicycle and riding hats have just arrived at Mrs. Phillips. **

Frank Reynolds of Lyle is lying seriously ill at the Umatilla House. He is being cared for by the Knights of Pythias Lodge of The Dalles.

At the annual session of the Great Council of Red Men held in Astoria, W. H. Butts of The Dalles was elected great Mishneewa.

Miss Clara Condon, a daughter of Prof. Thomas Condon of Eugene and a former resident of The Dalles, has been chosen teacher of the kindergarten in the academy at Pendleton.

W. H. Taylor, whose fruit farm is close to town, shipped 150 boxes of peach plums in the car that goes East tonight. This is the last of Mr. Taylor's shipments and makes 737 boxes he has sent altogether.

The Dalles wants the world to know that the first carload of peach plums which left Oregon for the East, went from this place. The warehouses are adding up the amount of wool which was shipped this season from The Dalles and are running short of figures.

Two civil cases were begun in Justice Davis' court today. One was brought by G. Comer against Niel Boyer and Albert Davis, for $39.50, the balance claimed due for labor, while the other was entitled F. P. Taylor vs. L. L. Hill and the amount at issue is $21.

Union services of the Methodist and Congregational churches will be held both morning and evening tomorrow in the Congregational church. Rev. W. C. Curtis will occupy the pulpit. On account of the absence of Rev. J. H. Wood there will be no preaching services in the Methodist church.

A merry party of journalists and business men passed through The Dalles last night, the editors returning from the Press Convention at Newport. In the party were G. B. Small, editor of the Baker City Democrat; Frank J. Parker, of the Walla Walla Statesman; J. T. Donnelly, cashier of the First National Bank, Baker City and H. R. Sibley, Ex-Deputy U. S. Marshal.

H. F. Jackson of Cascade Locks was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Driver on complaint of J. F. Trana, charging Jackson with keeping a bawdy house. There are other parties connected with the establishment, who may possibly be arrested. Jackson was taken before Justice Birnie and after listening to the complaint plead not guilty. The defendant wishes time to secure counsel and with the consent of Dep'ty Pros. Atty Phelps, the case was postponed till Tuesday. Jackson was placed under $500 bonds, which he furnished, to appear at the appointed time.

Now that the Japanese war is over the Chinese in The Dalles have aroused some civil dissension in order to keep things up to the proper pitch. The mercantile house of Lee Moon, doing business under the name of Qiong On Tai, whose store is in the old Snyder building, on Front street, was attached yesterday by Lee Long Gin Ark and Hong Ping, partners under the name of Qiong Song Wa. The amount sued for is $289.85, which covers the purchase price of goods sold to the insolvent firm. Deputy Sheriff Kelley took possession of the store and placed it under charge of a keeper.

George H. Williams, as successor in interest to O. D. Taylor and Sarah K. Taylor, redeemed this morning the farm known as the Lair Hill place. This property was sold at sheriff's sale several days ago upon a judgment obtained by J. C. Flanders and was brought in by J. A. Johnson of Buffalo, New York. Mr. Williams gave W. H. Wilson, attorney for Mr. Johnson, a check for $6249.84, which covered the original amount and interest since the date of sale. It is probable the Wilson place, which was sold at the same time, will be redeemed also in a few days.

At the Locks.

The situation at the Cascades continues very satisfactory. The names of over 550 men appear this month on the pay roll, though, of course, not all of these are working at once, but more laborers are continually being employed. The interior of the canal between the bulkhead and the outside lower gate is entirely free from water and fast becoming dry. A large hole has been made in the bulkhead and men are working on both sides taking out rocks and dirt. Heavy blasts shake the ground during the hours when the men are not at work. The bulkhead will soon be entirely demolished and the heavy excavation can be said to be done. Two walls of masonry remain to be built about the middle of the canal and considerable riprap work has yet to be done in the place where the bulkhead has stood. The upper gate is fast being placed in position and is a huge affair. Every rivet has to be driven by hammer and is said over 11,000 rivets are in the gate. The water still fills the lower part of the canal below the gate and the upper part above the bulkhead, but at the rate the river is falling these portions will soon be sufficiently clear for men to work upon them. By the aid of electric lights night is turned into day and the work divided into night and day shifts. The contractors seem to be bending every energy to hurry the completion of the works.

Mr. Monser Lectures on Novels.

A small but select audience filled the Christian church last night to hear a lecture on "Novels and Novel Reading" by Rev. H. E. Monser. The speaker made a bright opening and easily had the audience in sympathy with the lecturer and his theme. In continuing his address, Mr. Monser said it was estimated there were now issued an average of five novels a day in the English language. The novel, which can be called a picture of human life, is divided into the realistic and idealistic and of these divisions the idealistic is much the better for people to read.

He then showed the different kinds of readers and compared them to the bee and fly. The bee getting honey wherever it went and the fly receiving poison, so readers get poison or honey, according to their natures, from the novels they read. History, biography, sciences, and geography should go along with novel reading. The society novel, Mr. Monser declared, was demoralizing in its effects, and in its pages human life was misrepresented. Children should begin by reading Fairy Tales, books like Little Lord Fauntleroy and other similar works. They should be taught to read correctly and get all the good out of the story. The good novel, what is called the standard, was the outcome of some of the greatest minds the world has known. All well educated persons must read novels to be well informed. In closing, the lecturer gave the following list of novels which he considered the very best. These, he declared, were classic and no one should attain any great number of years without being acquainted with the works. David Copperfield, Ivanhoe, Scarlet Letter, Uncle Tom's Cabin, Ben Hur, Adam Bede, John Halifax, Last Days of Pompeii, Little Lord Fauntleroy and Vanity Fair.

The speaker was as fluent and eloquent as in the previous lecturer and those who attended were pleased and instructed. The only regret is that the house was not better filled.

One on Conductor Mitchell.

Conductor Mitchell met with a mishap last night, which since it did not turn out seriously, will be a cause of much joking among his friends. When the east bound passenger pulled into Cascades last night it was found the conductor was not aboard and considerable excitement prevailed until a telegram came from Bonneville announcing Mr. Mitchell was safe and sound, walking up and down the depot platform and muttering some vehement words in a forcible manner. Engineer Curtis pulled the throttle and with Schuyler Miller, the brakeman, started for Bonneville with all haste. The engine tore over the track along the waters of the Columbia, which flow swift and solemn through the narrow pass where the Bridge of Gods lies broken. The run to Bonneville was made in not much longer time than it takes to tell about it and soon the conductor was returned to his train. About a half a mile this side of Bonneville Mr. Mitchell missed his footing and fell and luckily escaped any injury worse than a general shaking up. Unfortunately there was a party of newspaper men aboard the cars and each one will have something to say regarding the number of cigars it cost Mr. Mitchell on the way up.
