BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The weather bureau says fair weather with a stationary barometer for tomorrow.

The smoke still continues dense, though the time for rain in the mountains is close at hand.

Jackson Engine Company will have a special meeting in the council chambers tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

An old-fashioned gold bar breastpin, with cameo in the center, was picked up by a little girl on the hill yesterday. The owner can have the same by calling at this office.

The pile driver is now in position and the piling has arrived. Work will probably begin some time tomorrow. An experienced man in such work has been sent for from Portland to take charge of driving the piles. It will take, according to calculations, about three months to complete the undertaking.

The Regulator brought up a heavy load Saturday. On the front deck were a huge threshing machine and two horse powers. It was a task to get the cumbersome machinery around the portage without any accident, but it was safely accomplished. The machines were billed to Johnston Bros. Dufur.

It is reported that the O. K. T. Company, which gave a musical entertainment some time ago in The Dalles, has disbanded. From The Dalles they went toward the East and while there, the rumor says, the expense of advertising proved too great for the home company to stand. Several of the members were well known in The Dalles.

Frank Reynolds, who for nearly two months has been very sick in the city, has recovered sufficiently to allow his being taken home to Lyle landing. Mr. Reynolds was accompanied by E. H. Merrill, who has been acting as nurse for the greater part of the time. The Knights of Pythias lodge has attended to all the sick man's wants.

The Regulator made a landing at Rockland this morning and loaded 250 sacks for shipment to Portland. The wheat was of this year's yield and shipped by Geo. W. Smith, the pioneer farmer of Klickitat county. Wheat shipments from now on will go regularly and in a few days the market can be expected to open. The boat line expects to carry a large portion of this year's harvest.

The race horses from Eastern Oregon are being got ready for the state fair meeting at Salem next month. This morning Andy Allen, the veteran trainer, started on the Regulator with Grover, belonging to Mr. Bennett, and Balty, owned by J. P. McInerney. These horses have made good records wherever they have appeared and their owners look forward to see them lead their class in Salem.

Ed. Howell, the popular baggage man at the depot, and Mr. Smith, the night operator, went hunting down towards Mosier this morning. They borrowed a railroad velocipede and slipped out of town in the early hours before the people were astir. If some tramps don't take their vehicle away from them and leave the hunters footsore and weary between stations, they will be back this evening loaded with game for their friends.

Yesterday was the second of the dry Sundays in The Dalles. A good many bibulously inclined took the opportunity of going to Cascade Locks, where the cheering fluid can be obtained in large or small quantities without resorting to back doors and necessitating the laying in of a supply the previous day. The law seemed to be generally in force in The Dalles, though there were some who claimed that the knowing ones could obtain, without much trouble, all the liquor wanted.

The members of the city council met in an informal caucus Saturday evening to consider matters of special importance to the welfare of the city. It was not a regular meeting and no official action was taken on any subject. The matter of Mrs. Obar's suit was discussed and it was thought wise to have a committee appointed to confer with Mrs. Obar and see if a settlement can't be arranged. If the matter cannot be adjusted the city will have to stand a suit. Sunday closing was also discussed but no direct action was taken regarding the procedure.

Mrs. Augusta Weggenman, an old resident of The Dalles, died suddenly Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Weggenman had not been feeling well for several days and her absent daughter was sent for, arriving several days ago. Saturday the sick lady felt no better, but nothing serious was expected. Her daughter spoke to her and then turned her attention to other things. When she returned, her mother was dying. Mrs. Weggenman was 47 years old and lived in The Dalles for many years. Her husband was hunting in High Prairie at the time of her death and was summoned by special messenger. The funeral services took place this afternoon from the Congregational church.

The excursion to the Locks yesterday from Eastern Oregon was not so widely attended as the promoters expected it would be. There were not over 200 people, including those from The Dalles, who came from east of the mountains. The attendance from Portland was much larger, the crowd from that place being very great. The day was spent by the excursionists in looking over the government works and viewing the beauties of the Cascades. The promised address of Major McNeil did not occur, nor were there any exercises of such a character. A special train left The Dalles at 7:30 a. m., carrying about forty people. It returned at 8:30 in the evening. The Eastern Oregon excursionists' cars were attached to the through train.

Every day something that causes admiration for man's inventive genius is called to attention. This morning a CHRONICLE reporter spent an interesting hour in Dr. Doane's office looking through a magnificent microscope, which the doctor has just received from St. Louis. Some specimens from natural history were viewed and the curious structure of a fly's eyes was plainly visible through the lens. One of the spectators was a martyr to science to the extent of sacrificing a drop of blood for inspection. The action of the different corpuscles was very interesting and could be seen very plainly, when magnified by the microscope. The instrument is a very fine one and those who have never looked through a microscope of high refractive power would find it a very pleasant diversion.

Improvements in Our Schools.

In company with Mr. William Glasius, the efficient janitor of our public schools, a CHRONICLE representative paid a visit to the various school buildings in town. There is no subject in which parents are more greatly interested than the surroundings in which their children are placed during years of education. There is no city in the union of the same size as The Dalles which has better educational facilities. A great many improvements have been made this season under the present board of directors. The Union street school and brick building on Court street have been thoroughly renovated. Fresh paint makes the walls look bright and new, while the floors have all been oiled and the desks varnished. The stairs and hallways have been painted and the blackboards received proper attention.

Although the buildings down town have received a great deal of attention, it is the Academy Park school which shows the most improvement. The building looks as if it were built but a few months ago. Instead of fourteen years. Every portion of the structure has been put through a cleansing process. The hallways have been oiled, the wainscoting varnished, ceiling calcimined; the roof has received a fresh coat of paint, even the belfrey and the flag-staff have received due attention. In the yard also a great deal of work has also been done. The trunks of the trees have been whitewashed and the tops neatly trimmed. The weeds have been cut down till the place looks like a city park. When the students return from their joyous vacations and settle down to work, they will find themselves in clean, airy, attractive surroundings, conducive to the best possible work.

The directors are to be praised for the work they have ordered done, and due credit should be given Mr. Glasius, for a more industrious and intelligent overseer it would be difficult for the district to obtain.

Misses Lennah and Nellie Bain came up on the midnight train Saturday, and are the guests of Miss Charlotte Roberts.

Mr. Frank French, purser of the Regulator, spent yesterday visiting at Stevenson. He came up on last night's train.

Mrs. D. T. Robertson and her mother, Mrs. S. P. Angell, returned Saturday from a two weeks' visit among relatives at Enderby.

F. Faulkner, W. H. Hobson and F. W. Bayley, who have been hunting and fishing on 15-mile creek, are expected home tomorrow.

Mr. Homer H. Halleck, a prominent newspaper man of Pendleton, was among those who passed through The Dalles on the excursion yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wilson, Judge Bennett, Mr. F. A. Senfert and N. Wheelon were Dalles people who visited Goldendale Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Booth came up on the Regulator Saturday from Cascades, where they have been spending several days visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hobart.

P. T. Sharp returned from Portland on the noon train. He reports that his daughter Grace is improving rapidly, and her recovery is now almost certain.

Mr. C. S. Jackson, editor of the East Oregonian, and Mr. John Lathrop, a representative of the same paper, passed through The Dalles on the excursion yesterday.
