A Big Job

It would be a big job to tell one hundred people every day anything that would interest them in your goods.

It's Dead Easy

If done the right way. This paper will tell several thousand at once.

THE DUTY OF CITIZENS TO ONE ANOTHER.

What the citizens of The Dalles need is to rally to one another. An example was given in this city Saturday night, which showed that there was a lack of this needed loyalty. Reference has already been made in THE CHRONICLE to a foreign medicine aggregation which had captured the town, and that reference, though unmistakably true, was the cause of a bitter harangue against this paper and those connected with it. Saturday the proprietor of the medicine show went to one of our business men and tried to sell him some of his medicine. The merchant refused to buy or handle his goods. What his reasons were we do not know, and it makes no difference what they were. The same evening after the merchant refused to be cajoled into buying what he did not want, the proprietor of the medicine lectured to a crowded opera house and made an unwarranted attack upon the offending merchant. Some of the epithets used were such as one gentleman should never use to another, yet the audience listened to the attack with no expression of dislike. Such speeches as that made Saturday night are unwarranted, and should not be received without a show of resistance upon the part of those who hear them. When a newspaper tells the truth, and the truth is unpleasant, it expects to be reviled, and in a public capacity can defend itself; but when a private transaction is brought before a public audience, and a merchant of this town made the object of such an harangue as that of Saturday night, it is time to call a halt. There are people in this town who bought medicine from this company who owe doctors' and druggists' bills of long standing.

We are sorry the incident mentioned did not happen till Saturday night, as the medicine aggregation has left town, and this piece may be construed as striking a man when he is gone. But the man of medicine, who has won his way to the hearts and pockets of our citizens, leaves The Dalles in an extremely good humor, carrying with him several hundred dollars of our good money. He takes the cash, and our merchants get the abuse.

A GOOD MODE OF DISCUSSION.

The most interesting article in the twenty-fifth anniversary number of The Century magazine is a presentation of the political situation of the day. The republican side is made by Theodore Roosevelt, the bravest man in all the land, whose name will do to conjure with in days to come. His views on the tariff, the financial depression and the relation of the Wilson-Gorman bill thereto; on free silver coinage, and most especially of the historical relation of the republicans to these topics, so provocative of discussion, are most fearlessly expressed, as might be looked for. Beside they will come as near to exhibiting the thought of the great majority as perhaps is possible for any statement.

The democratic side is displayed by Ex-Gov. Russell. He says at the outset that the American people like politics, and most aptly adds: "The few like to run the machine; the vast majority to smash it." He distinguishes between statesmanship, leading by principal for the public good, and bossism, controlling by tactics, and with an iron hand and for its own purposes. Both of these writers seem full of hope; no pessimistic spirit is visible in the lines, or between them. This is not the place nor time for any personal expression of the relative merits of this grave discussion. Both will be found next June. But it may be said that the spirit and manner of this discussion augur well for the future welfare of our body politic. That country cannot but prosper whose grave interests are met in the spirit indicated as possessed by the writers of the articles here referred to.

Mr. J. H. Cradlebaugh has retired from the editorship of the Times-Mountaineer and will devote himself to other pursuits during the winter. Mr. Cradlebaugh is a brilliant writer, and one of the work of whose pen is known and recognized throughout the Northwest. He is one of the bright ornaments of journalism, and the members of the craft wish him success in whatever he undertakes.

In another column is published a communication regarding the improvement of the road leading from The Dalles to the free bridge. The letter presents the matter exactly as it is and the county court will do well to turn their attention towards the betterment of this highway. Economy is a good thing and the improving of much travelled roads is the best kind of economy.

BUSINESS POINTERS GATHERED FROM OREGON PAPERS.

From the Hood River Glacier: Mr. Morris came down Wednesday from his Klickitat ranch, twelve miles west of Goldendale. He reports good crops in his locality, but the prices obtained left the farmers very little for their work. He recently sold a lot of hogs for three cents a pound.

According to the Baker City Democrat, the new depot building in that city is now in the hands of painters, and will soon be ready for occupancy. It is more modern in architecture than the former structure, and the matter of convenience has been looked to at every point.

The La Grande Chronicle says: It now looks as though the meeting next Monday night for the purpose of organizing a commercial club will be a success and largely attended. Business men and citizens are now taking a lively interest in the affair, and realize the necessity of such an organization.

The Antelope Herald has announced a meeting of their union to be held at that place on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 16th, for the purpose of discussing ways and means of getting the Cascade reservation repealed, or the orders prohibiting the grazing sheep thereon rescinded.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gauderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Snipes-Kinnersly Drug Co.

The diseases of thinness are scrofula in children, consumption in grown people, poverty of blood in either. They thrive on leanness. Fat is the best means of overcoming them. Everybody knows cod-liver oil makes the healthiest fat. In Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil the taste is hidden, the oil is digested, it is ready to make fat.

When you ask for Scott's Emulsion and your druggist gives you a package in a salmon-colored wrapper with the picture of the man and fish on it—you can trust that man!
