CHAPTER BY INGALLS

What the Kansan Remembers of Garfield.

NOT AN UNWILLING CANDIDATE

This Clearly Shown by His Attitude Before Nomination—He Was Incapable of Intrigue.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—John J. Ingalls, of Kansas, has added a chapter to the history of Garfield's nomination, a history that Senator Sherman's book is drawing from the lips of American statesmen and politicians. When asked if he had any personal recollections of incidents connected with the Garfield episode, Mr. Ingalls said:

"I happened to be in Washington on business when Garfield died in September, 1881, and was one of the senators named to attend the remains to Cleveland. Mr. Sherman was also a member of the committee, and the train had hardly left the city limits when we fell into conversation about the dead president and discussed his career. Mr. Sherman spoke with intense feeling, and the impression left on my mind was that he believed that he had been betrayed by the men chosen to advocate his nomination."

"Have you any personal knowledge of anything that would tend to show Garfield's attitude prior to his nomination?"

"For weeks before the convention of 1880, vague, mysterious, intangible rumors and whispers of Garfield were in the air around the capitol at Washington. I was sitting one day in May in the senate restaurant with a senator now prominently mentioned as a candidate for the presidency. We were talking about the contest then approaching and agreed that, considering the bitter rivalry among the aspirants, the nomination of Garfield appeared to be a not improbable outcome."

"Just at that moment, by a singular coincidence, Garfield entered the room. We called him to our table and he joined in our repast. We mentioned the prospect about the devil and his horns, told him what we had been talking about, and jocularly tendered him our congratulations and best wishes for his success."

He made an embarrassed attempt at repartee and turned the conversation, but his tone and manner left no doubt in my mind that the subject was not repulsive to him. He was then a representative in congress, United States senator-elect, and a delegate to the national convention, an extraordinary accumulation of honors, unique in political history. He was justified in regarding himself as a favorite of fortune and child of destiny. As I recall that conversation, it seems like an incredible climax of romance that within less than 18 months he was nominated for the presidency, elected, assassinated and embled.

"I was in college with Garfield," continued Mr. Ingalls, though not in the same class, and our relations were cordial and friendly until his death. He was incapable of intrigue, treason or stratagem, but his temperament was emotional and ardent, and his sensibility was excessive. His mind was capacious and his nature generous and sincere. The fatal defeat in his character was an infirmity of purpose that made him like clay in the hands of potter and disqualified him for administrative or executive functions."

Union Pacific Affairs.

New York, Nov. 28.—S. H. H. Clark, president and receiver of the Union Pacific, is here for a few days. A meeting of the receivers will probably be held in a few days. Speaking of the general situation, Mr. Clark said:

"The present general business of the Union Pacific is slightly better than at this time last year. I should say there will be a further improvement. Some benefit is derived indirectly from the Cripple Creek gold fields. Corn will begin to go forward in December. While the crop is large, the market price is low and farmers will be disposed to hold their corn for higher figures. The prices for hogs and cattle will be affected relatively by the price of corn. The price of corn also will have a bearing on transportation rates. The showing of the Union Pacific for the calendar year 1895 ought to be ahead of 1894, and perhaps equal to 1893."

A Railroad Chairmanship.

New York, Nov. 28.—It was stated here that the chairmanship of the board of directors of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway system has been offered to Edward King, president of the Union Trust Company, who has the offer under advisement and will probably make reply Friday when the reorganization executive committee next meets.

GOOD FOR EVERYBODY

Almost everybody takes some laxative medicine to cleanse the system and keep the blood pure. Those who take SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR (liquid or powder) get all the benefits of a mild and pleasant laxative and tonic that purifies the blood and strengthens the whole system. And more than this: SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR regulates the Liver, keeps it active and healthy, and when the Liver is in good condition you find yourself free from Malaria, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick-Headache and Constipation, and rid of that worn out and debilitated feeling. These are all caused by a sluggish Liver. Good digestion and freedom from stomach troubles will only be had when the liver is properly at work. If troubled with any of these complaints, try SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR. The King of Liver Medicines, and Better than Pills.

zation executive committee next meets. In case Mr. King accepts, Wallace Walker will be made second vice-president. Should he refuse, Mr. Walker will be made chairman, and Paul Morton, who was recently made third vice-president, will be made second vice-president.

For a Scientific Expedition.

New York, Nov. 28.—The schooner yacht Corona, owned by D. Willis James and his son, Arthur Curtis James, which defeated the schooner yacht Dauntless in a midwinter race across the Atlantic in 1886, and which has since sailed around the world, is being fitted out at South Brooklyn for a scientific expedition to the coast of Japan. On the afternoon of August 9, next, at 3 o'clock, there will be a total eclipse of the sun which will not be visible in this part of the globe, and it is for the purpose of observing this phenomenon that the expedition is fitted out. The chief observer of the expedition will be Professor David B. Todd, the eminent astronomer of Amherst college.

San Francisco's Horse Show.

New York, Nov. 28.—While the horse show was in progress a delegation from San Francisco came to this city. The California delegation was to make arrangements for their show which begins next Tuesday. They secured the services of three local experts as judges in the heavy harness class. Francis T. Underhill, R. G. Cannon and Q. K. Bloodgood, the men selected to pass on the merits of the high steppers, tandem and the four-in-hands, started on Tuesday night for San Francisco.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 South Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"For several years I have recommended your 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results." EDWIN F. PARSONS, M. D., 125th Street and 7th Ave., New York City.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach." CARLOS MARTIN, D. D., New York City.
