

OVERWORK -INDUCED- Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

Concerning the Cascade Reserve.
The stockmen of Antelope have prepared a petition addressed to the acting commissioner of the general land office at Washington, asking that the order relative to the closing of the Cascade reserve be rescinded. The petition is being generally signed throughout the city and the list of names that will be forwarded to Washington will be very large. One of the petitions may be found at THE CHRONICLE office, where signatures will be received. Following is the text of the address.

We, the undersigned, interested in the stock industry of Wasco county, Oregon, feeling that your recent order prohibiting the grazing of sheep within the limits of the Cascade Forest Reserve, is based upon a misapprehension of the real facts involved, respectfully submit the following for your earnest and immediate consideration:

1. That the grazing of sheep on the higher elevations (or for that matter, on the lower slopes) is not injurious to the forest growths. The valuable timber of the mountains are, without exception, pines, firs and such allied species as are totally unfit for food for sheep.
2. That forest fires, whose origin has been ascertained, have never been started by the sheepmen or their employes, but by irresponsible and transient campers, hunters or travelers. The sheepmen, having an interest in the present and future growth of vegetation and an open eye to his own safety, is of all campers the most careful of his camp fire. A forest fire ruins the pasture for that and at least the two following seasons, and further, the wool on a band of sheep passing through a burnt tract (in that or the following season) is thereby appreciably deteriorated.
3. That sheep cannot be run on the bunchgrass plains during the summer season. The abundant water and the tender grass of the mountains are essential to the well being of the sheep during the heat of summer. Were all the stock to be confined to the plains during the dry season, the matured grass, destined for fall and winter feed, would be eaten, trampled down and wasted, and the stockmen left to face the winter with poor stock and no pasture.

Therefore, we respectfully pray that you rescind your order with regard to the grazing of sheep within the limits of the Cascade Forest Reserve.

The Chinese murder case is on trial today in the circuit court. Great interest is shown in the trial both by white men and Chinamen. The courtroom is well filled with lookers on. The work of securing the jury has progressed faster than was anticipated and by noon seven men were chosen as follows: S D Fisher, H J Mahear, P Risch, A W Quinn, Jno End, E Schanno and J M Filloon. A. F. Sears, jr. of Portland is assisting the district attorney in prosecuting the case, while Huntington & Wilson are the counsel for the defendants. There are two defendants, but only one of them, Lee Git, is now being tried. Two interpreters have come up from Portland, while several Chinamen, prominent in the secret societies, are in attendance from Portland and San Francisco. It is not believed the trial will continue very long, as there is not a great deal of evidence to be introduced.
