ST. LOUIS IS CHOSEN

Next Republican Convention Will Meet There.

JUNE SIXTEENTH IS THE DATE

Speeches by Her Representatives Before the Committee—Four Ballots Taken Before a Choice Was Made.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Republican politicians assembled at the Arlington early this morning to pull convention wires, and, incidentally, to promote the interests of their several presidential candidates. There is nearly as much presidential talk as there was about which city would win the prize.

The Pittsburg delegates were most conspicuous, because of the large badges displayed on their coats, the Chicago and St. Louis men were particularly enthusiastic in campaigning while the delegates from the Pacific coast, who had the interest of San Francisco in charge, were characterized by their unflinching optimism. They had authorized M. H. De Young to hold out almost any financial inducements without reason, and he announced that no question of money would stand in the way of California's success.

Shortly before 10 o'clock the politicians gathered in the flag-draped banquet hall of the hotel, and were seated in a semi-circle with the members of the national committee in the center. There was a noticeable sprinkling of colored men.

At 10:30 Chairman Carter rapped the meeting to order, and the roll of committeemen was called. There was no response for Alabama, California, Delaware, District of Columbia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, New York, North Dakota and Wyoming, but it was said there were committeemen or proxies for most of these states in the city. Alaska had a representative.

Chairman Carter, in impressive tones, addressed the meeting in an unexpected direction. He said he was not accustomed to notice many "silly, unfounded and malicious stories," put afloat with the purpose of arousing prejudices and exciting ill feeling, but a reflection had been made on the members of the national committee, and they had been placed before the country in an unenviable position. "Under such circumstances," said Carter emphatically, "I desire to state, in behalf of the committee, that at no time and under no circumstances, directly or indirectly, has any person or persons urged that the good graces of this committee should be influenced by any mercenary consideration whatever." There was a ripple of applause at the announcement. Carter proceeded to state that geographical considerations large influenced the feelings of the committee, and, aside from this, the only purpose of the committee was to consult the purposes and requirements of the great gathering and make a choice based wholly on fitness.

M. H. De Young, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, then announced that it was his duty to make a business proposition to the committee. He did not want to be mercenary, but he did want to influence the committee. The republican and democratic parties could not do business but for the subscriptions by their members. The people of San Francisco were so anxious to get the convention that they were subscribing big sums. They knew the party was in debt and were willing to pay its debts. They wanted to make the members of the national committee their guests while they were in the city. The railroads had been induced to make a rate from New Orleans or Chicago of $25 for the round trip for delegates and $50 for the others. The difference would be met by the San Francisco committee. No other city could claim any advantage over San Francisco in railroad rates. He continued:

"We will furnish a convention hall, as every other city will, and will place it absolutely under the control of the national committee. (Applause). We will guarantee that you will not be insulted as you enter the hall; that you will not be confronted by officials wearing the badges of any candidates and trying to swing the convention for their candidate. We will give you fair treatment and colorless treatment. Every delegate will be our honored guest."

In conclusion De Young said San Francisco would promise whether she gained the convention or not that she would swing the Pacific coast for the republican party.

Samuel Allerton and Mayor Swift then presented Chicago's claims. St. Louis was urged by Mayor Walbridge, ex-Congressman Frank and S. M. Kennard. The New York's attractions were set forth by General Butterfield and Murat Halstead. Then Pittsburg, the last of the big four, had her case urged by Representative Dalzell. The speech-making closed by Representative William I. Stone, seconding Dalzell's representation of Pittsburg claims.

The first formal ballot resulted: San Francisco 19, Chicago 6, St. Louis 14, Pittsburg 9, New York dropped.

Second ballot—San Francisco 19, St. Louis 18, Chicago 9, Pittsburg 5.

Third ballot—San Francisco, 19, St. Louis 22, Pittsburg 1, Chicago 9.

Fourth ballot—St. Louis 29, San Francisco 16, Chicago 5; necessary to a choice 28.

There is nothing that causes women greater discomfort and misery than the constantly recurring headache. Men suffer less with headache. "My wife's health was very indifferent having headache continually, and just two packages of Simmons Liver Regulator released her from all headache and gave tone and vigor to her whole system. I have never regretted its use."—M. B. DeCord, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

An Ex-Confederate's Offer.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 10.—Ex-Governor T. J. Churchill, a famous general in the Confederate army, telegraphed Senator James H. Berry at Washington, as follows:

"In case of war with England, offer my services to the president."

Senator Berry replied:

General Churchill said regarding the matter:

"I did this to show that the South and all the old Confederates are loyal to the Union, and are willing and ready to defend the government from all foreign foes. The crisis has come when we must uphold the Monroe doctrine or abandon it altogether. I, for one, am in favor of enforcing it, and I fully believe the whole American people are a unit on this point."

General Churchill was governor of Arkansas from 1880 to 1882.

Mrs. W. B. Meek, who resides at Camptonville, Cal., says her daughter was for several years troubled at times with severe cramps in the stomach, and would be in such agony that it was necessary to call in a physician. Having read about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy she concluded to try it. She found that it always gave prompt relief. It was seldom necessary to give the second dose. "It has not only saved us lots of worry and time," she says, "but also doctor bills. It is my opinion that every family should have a bottle of this remedy in the house."
