BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

See A. M. Williams & Co.'s advertisement for special priced macintoshes.

The final citizenship papers of Henry Fiege were filed with the county clerk today, and he is now a full-fledged citizen of this glorious republic.

A jewel of B. P. O. E. design was picked up on the street yesterday. The owner can have the same by proving property and paying charges.

John Crawford, the young man who was injured some time ago by the wagon tipping over while coming down the Klickitat grade, has sufficiently recovered to be upon the streets. He still carries his arm in a sling.

The Masonic lodge held its regular election last evening, at which the following gentlemen were chosen to serve in official capacity: Andrew Larsen, W. M.; Frank Clarke, S. W.; James Harper, J. W.; Frank Abernethy, Secretary; George A. Liebe, Treasurer; Richard Closter, Tyler.

The Elks from Cascades will visit The Dalles next Thursday evening. A hall has been secured for the occasion and an interesting session will be held. It is the intention of the lodge to hold a meeting in The Dalles at least once a month and the meeting next Thursday evening will be the second one held in this city. A large attendance is expected from the Locks.

The lecture at the Congregational church this evening will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Col. James Jackson, U. S. A., will speak upon "The People of the Pueblos." Col. Jackson is a speaker of ability, besides a man who has passed through many interesting personal experiences through his connection with the army. A large crowd should be present this evening to hear this interesting lecture.

The snow storm, which struck The Dalles yesterday, did not extend further than five miles in the country south of here. From that point to Bakeoven the ground is said to be frozen, which will seriously interfere with farming pursuits. Yesterday farmers between here and 5-Mile did not stop from plowing because of the snow. A few warm days just now would please the farmers very much.

The traveling public and people along the river should remember that the last regular trip of the Regulator will be December 30th. The boat will then be tied up to undergo some necessary repairs, and after a few weeks of rest will begin running again, weather permitting. The settlers along the river are laying in their winter supplies, the Regulator carrying large loads of groceries, flour and other necessities to way landings every day.

A big shipment of cattle went from The Dalles to Troutdale today. They were what are known as Christmas cattle, as their carcasses will be displayed in the Portland markets for the holidays. The cattle were fine specimens of Eastern Oregon stock, there being 102 cattle in the bunch, with an average weight of 1337 pounds. Monroe Grimms bought them from Messrs. Kelly and Kuneey, who have been feeding the cattle during the fall. Portland people will have some good meat to eat when these animals reach them.

The painters are at work on the rooms to be occupied by the Commercial and Athletic Club. The plastering is all done, and, with the aid of the large stoves, is rapidly drying. The papering in one of the social rooms is nearly done. The trustees held a meeting yesterday afternoon, and conferred with the agent of Mr. Grant regarding some changes in the interior of the building—partitions to be put in and similar modifications. The details will be settled today, and then the furnishings for the rooms will be ordered. From the way work is now being pushed it is believed the social rooms will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year, though the bowling alley will not be completed, nor the gymnasium fitted up till some days later. The trustees are working in harmony, and everything augurs well for the success of the club.

The Early Mission Building at The Dalles

Apropos of Father Mesplie's death mentioned in Saturday's CHRONICLE, an interesting bit of early history was told a CHRONICLE reporter by Mr. C. W. Denton. In 1851 or '52, just which year Mr. Denton could not determine, Father Mesplie came to The Dalles. In 1852 he began the erection of mission buildings, which were completed with the aid of C. W. Denton and Edward Crate. These two men did the greater part of the labor and the work was done in rapid time, considering the crude materials at hand. The matter of a steeple was easily settled, for close to one corner of the mission building stood a large tree, high in the branches of which the church bell was placed. Here it's sound was frequently heard through the many years the mission buildings were used. Father Mesplie was an indefatigable worker and soon his labors made a deep impress upon the savages who came under his influence. The site of this early mission is a familiar one to residents of The Dalles. The buildings were located about a mile west from town, a short distance from where the Catholic cemetery now is. The number of Indians baptized there runs up into the thousands. The Dalles being the headquarters of work for many years. After the mission was abandoned, the church building remained standing many years, till at last time and weather wrought its destruction.

Of the three men whose names are mentioned in connection with this reminiscence, two are dead, Edward Crate having joined the dead pioneers a year or so ago. With the death of Mr. Crate there passed one of the very first white men who made a permanent settlement in Oregon. He was a member of the Hudson Bay company, and when the company retired from business here, Mr. Crate remained and for many years lived on a farm at Crate's point, several miles below The Dalles. Mr. Denton is one of the oldest surviving pioneers of this region.

A Rector for the Episcopal Church.

Ever since the departure of Rev. Eli Sutcliffe, some two years ago, the congregation of St. Paul's Episcopal church has been without a rector. The bishop of this diocese has been for some time on the lookout for some man whom he deemed suitable for this charge; but up to this time no selection had been made. At last a call has been made to Rev. Mr. Mercer, who is a member of the Quincy, Illinois, diocese. No answer has been received to the call of the church, so it is not known whether or not Mr. Mercer will accept. It is understood, however, that some time ago he expressed a desire to come to the Pacific coast, and it is believed he will consider the call favorably.

In the meantime the church has prospered financially. By the careful management of the vestry a steady revenue has been coming in, which has been applied to the church debt, till it has been wiped out and the church is free from any financial obligation. This condition gives great satisfaction to the members of the congregation, and they look forward eagerly to the coming of a rector and the resumption of regular services.

The Day in Court.

The attention of Judge Bradshaw was occupied today with hearing the case of Z. F. Moody vs. W. D. Richards. The action is being tried before the judge without the aid of a jury. Huntington & Wilson appear for the plaintiff, while W. H. Wilson represents the defendant. Among the matters of importance done during the day was a confirmation granted in the case of J. C. Meins vs. C. J. Coatsworth. The case of A. Scherneckau vs. J. C. Murphy et al, was continued. In the case of E. G. Young vs. Charles Fryer, a default was entered and an order made to sell attached property. In the case of Mamie Strickland vs. August Buchler, judgment was given upon the verdict in favor of the defendant. A default was also entered in the case of J. A. Gullford vs. J. Topar. There are yet several matters of a routine nature, which remain to be finished up.

Death of Mrs. Phillips.

The death occurred at Kingsley last night of Mrs. P. P. Phillips, for many years known as "Grandma" Phillips. For several days she suffered from an attack of bronchitis, her sufferings before death being very acute. Mrs. Phillips was aged about 75 years and with her husband, was one of the first settlers of Tygh Ridge. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips crossed the plains with some of the early pioneer parties and made their home where the village of Kingsley now is. The house erected by Mr. Phillips was the first in that vicinity and its occupants saw the Tygh Ridge country develop from a vast area of untilled land covered with bunchgrass to one of the most prosperous farming communities in Eastern Oregon. For a good many years Mr. and Mrs. Phillips kept the hotel at Kingsley. Mrs. Phillips was a lady greatly beloved for her kind and generous qualities, and her death will be universally regretted by a large number of friends and acquaintances. The funeral services will be held at Kingsley.
