HOUSE BILL PASSED

The Senate Finally Refused to Amend it.

THE SUBJECT OF A LIVELY DEBATE

A Time Limit Not Included but Concurrence by the Senate Found in the Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The first silver vote in the senate was taken this morning on a motion to refer to the finance committee, Allen's silver bill directing an inquiry as to the advisability of opening the mints to free coinage, in view of the strained relations over Venezuela. The motion was defeated. Yeas, 24; nays, 36, the silver men voting no. Senator Morgan secured unanimous consent for the consideration of the Venezuelan commission. Morgan briefly explained the changes made in the house bill. After Morgan had explained the amendments, Platt said any delay would be construed in England as hesitation on our part, and it was not essential to change the bill. An amendment requiring the commission to only report the facts in the case would be construed as receding on the part of the senate, and the senate should notify Great Britain that America was behind the president. As to the confirmation by the senate, Platt said that was unimportant and unwise. It never had been questioned that the executive had a right to appoint agents to ascertain facts regarding foreign countries. He referred to the appointment of Blount to Hawaii, as objectionable, because he had created him an officer with power to act and supersede the officers confirmed by the senate. Sherman, who followed, said the president's action had been approved unanimously by both houses of congress. England was not making any fresh aggressions and was not taking the matter very seriously. He thought the dispute would be settled honorably and that no American blood would be shed in the dispute. The fact that the senate had amended the bill could not be construed in any way as meaning that the senate did not stand firmly by the president. The amendments would improve the bill and he had no doubt, if made, they would be accepted by the house. "It seems to me," he said, "that all this is too hasty; that we are too eager. Let us take our time, be deliberate and not rush into the matter." Mills of Texas said it was a very grave question. War with Great Britain would be no child's play. He was for peace if it could be obtained honorably. The two governments had arrived at a place where they could not agree and neither would yield. Where was the money to come from in case of war? Our first duty as we stood upon the edge of this crisis was to provide for an increase of revenues. Stewart said the president had made an American declaration and he favored giving him full authority over the commission. He didn't believe there would be a war. White upheld the president, but did not believe there would be any difficulty in the way of an honorable solution. It had not been clearly shown that England was attempting to usurp territory that belonged to Venezuela. Congress had put all the power to investigate it in the president's hands, when the president's recommendations were received, it would be time for congress to act. Mitchell didn't believe that any foreign nation could secure a foothold in this hemisphere that it did not own by treaty or cession without violating the Monroe Doctrine. Chandler said all drew their inspirations from these sources and answering the question, said he would vote for any sacrifice to sustain the national honor. The senate afterward laid the committee's amendments on the table and the house bill was passed. The vote was unanimous. Almost a Panic. New York, Dec. 20.—The stock market has been wildly excited today. The breakaway came to most people in the street as a total surprise, nothing being in sight over night to portend any extraordinary developments. The first quotations received for American securities from London prepared the bankers and brokers for a stormy day. The prices recorded showed declines extending to 5 per cent, and the London market was reported decidedly ragged. Each successive cable indicated still lower figures, and it was finally reported that many "jobbers" on the London stock exchange had refused to accept orders. The unfavorable news was coincident with preparations by gold-shipping houses for Saturday's exports to Europe. A sinister feature of the day was the advance in rates for call money to 75 per cent, reflecting the calling in of loans. Their failures were reported. Only one, that of S. S. Sands & Co., was of financial importance. The railway and miscellaneous bond market was demoralized, the declines ranging up to 15 per cent. It was rumored a single house had dumped $400,000, reading bonds on the market.

Brave Dunraven. New York, Dec. 20.—A dispatch to the World from London says: There is more general comment in London over the Venezuelan controversy than upon its possible effect on Lord Dunraven's reception in New York. He has been seriously advised by friends not to go, lest not only might he be subjected to personal ill-treatment from excited New York patriots, but lest his sustained accusation of fraud against the Defender syndicate might lead to serious international complications—might, indeed, serve as a spark to the tinder blazing into actual warfare. Nevertheless the World's Queenstown correspondent telegraphs that his lordship, Arthur Glennie and Joe Asquith sailed by the Teutonic in good spirits. The success that has attended the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment in the relief of pain and in curing diseases which seemed beyond the reach of medicine, has been truly remarkable. Hundreds supposed to be crippled for life with arms and legs drawn up crooked or distorted their muscles withered or contracted by disease have been cured through the use of this remedy. Price 25c, 50 and $1.00 per bottle. For sale by Snipes-Kinerly Drug Co. Subscribe for THE CHRONICLE and get the news.
