RECIPROCITY NEEDED.

One good move in the present congress is that in the direction of the revival of reciprocity legislation. Representative Beach of Cleveland is the author of a bill providing that the duties imposed by the tariff laws of the United States shall not apply to food products and raw materials from such nations as may make equivalent reciprocal concessions in favor of merchandise imported from the United States. The president, through the proper diplomatic agents, is authorized by this bill to negotiate commercial arrangements with foreign governments on such a basis as reciprocity.

There was a reciprocity clause in the McKinley law, which was the best feature of that otherwise unpopular measure. Under it reciprocity treaties had been made with a number of nations. The last congress, however, in its blundering way, repealed the reciprocity feature of the McKinley law along with the rest. In doing so it placed this country before the world as one without continuity for foreign policy, for treaties recently entered into were abrogated by this congressional action. Our disagreeable relations with Germany, for instance, were caused largely by the sudden abrogation of the reciprocity treaty with that country, the result of the sugar schedule placed in the Wilson-Gorman law at the insolent behest of the sugar trust.

After its vacillating course in the matter the United States is placed in a somewhat humiliating position, and can hardly urge its requests on other countries for new reciprocity agreements. Nevertheless, there can be no harm in congress re-inacting reciprocity legislation so as to permit of friendly agreements with those countries, especially in South America, which may desire to renew them. In the course of time the number of such reciprocal agreements may be increased.—Chicago Record.

THEIR POSITIONS.

The committee places which the Oregon and Washington men secured in the arrangement of the senate committee are as follows:

Mitchell—Privileges and elections, chairman; judiciary, rules, postoffices and post roads, claims and construction of the Nicaragua canal.

McBride—Transportation routes to the seaboard, chairman; commerce, public lands, coast defenses, Indian depredations and internal expositions.

Squire—Coast defenses, chairman; commerce, public buildings and grounds, immigration, territories, and construction of the Nicaragua canal.

President Cleveland has acted wisely in the appointment of the Venezuela commission. Justice Brewer is a member of the United States supreme court and an eminent jurist. Frederick R. Coudert, is the leader of the New York bar, and a man of high standing, in no sense trammled by the petty politics of the day. Andrew D. White has won recognition as president of Cornell University and as minister to Russia. Daniel C. Gilman has not figured so much in politics as the other members have, but is known to fame through Johns Hopkins University, of which institution he is president. Richard Alvey of Maryland is less prominent than his associates, but there are many who vouch for his fitness for a place on the commission. The interests of the country are safe in the hands of these distinguished citizens. There need be no worry but what the work they are to do will be well done.

The issue of the Oregonian yesterday reflects great credit upon that paper. The present conditions of Oregon are fully and truthfully portrayed, and no portion of the state left untouched. This edition is the best advertisement the state could get, and numerous copies should be sent to the eastern states. The Oregonian has issued several praiseworthy New Year's editions, but yesterday's is, we think, far superior to any of its predecessors. It is not flattery, but the truth, to say that we believe no New Year's edition of any paper in the country will contain more good reading and less trash than the journalistic triumph which Oregon's great newspaper achieved yesterday. The Oregonian treats the people of Oregon honestly in giving them a good paper, and that is the reason why another daily is not needed in Portland.

M'NEIL'S POSSIBLE RESIGNATION

La Grande Chronicle: The reported resignation of Receiver McNeil has not yet been verified, but if he has not yet resigned, there is a possibility that he will do so in the near future. The failure on his part to make traffic arrangements with connecting roads and the loss following the rate war has made dissatisfaction among bond and stockholders and they are, no doubt, making it uncomfortably warm for the receiver. If a change occurs, business on the O. R. & N. will pick up at once and more men will be placed to work. It would help all the towns along the road and lead to everyone's prosperity.

Pendleton East Oregonian: If Mr. E. McNeil resigns the management of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, as it is reported he is about to do, the property and the bondholders will miss his services and connection with it, and Portland, particularly, will feel the effects of it. The road should remain independent of all others. It is best for Oregon that it should; best for Portland; best for the people; best for those who own the road; and better for all the transportation companies that make connection with it. The East Oregonian hopes the report of Major McNeil's resignation is not true, and it does not believe that the report is true. The Oregon Railway & Navigation Company is in better condition physically than it has ever been in its history, and it is growing sturdy and strong under Major McNeil's management.

Geo. W. Jenkins, editor of the Santa Maria "Times," Cal., in speaking of the various ailments of children said: "When my children have croup there is only one patent medicine I ever use, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It possesses some medical properties that relieve the little sufferers immediately. It is, in my opinion, the best cough medicine in the market." "If this remedy is freely given as soon as the croup cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is also an ideal remedy for whooping cough. There is no danger in giving it to children, as it contains nothing injurious. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggist.

your child

You note the difference in children. Some have nearly every ailment, even with the best of care. Others far more exposed pass through unharmed. Weak children will have continuous colds in winter, poor digestion in summer. They are without power to resist disease, they have no reserve strength. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is cod-liver oil partly digested and adapted to the weaker digestions of children.

When persons are weak and languid from sickness or overwork, feel debilitated and depressed, it is an indication that the blood is out of order, and they need help to throw off the miserable feeling? The best remedy for this purpose is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It restores lost strength, gives vigor to circulation, promotes good appetite and a flow of cheerful spirits. Snipes-Kinersly Drug Co.

There are some people who are never positive in anything. It is always, "I don't know," or "I guess so." There is a word of such people, and it is refreshing sometimes to hear a person speak as one having convictions, like Mr. Chas. F. Snyder, of Bangor, P., who wrote: "I can heartily recommend Simmons Liver Regulator to all who are troubled with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint."
