OREGON'S ADVANTAGES.

During the winter months efforts should be made for inducing a large immigration to Oregon in the spring. What we, the Northwest, needs is development, and this can only come when more people fill the land. A stream of people pouring into the Northwest this year would mean also an influx of capital and the rousing of our dormant resources. The press of the state can do no better service than continually setting forth the advantages we possess, as is done in the following article, taken from the Salem Statesman. The statements made are true and show with what pleasant surroundings we are blessed:

The Pacific Northwest states need no other exposition of their advantages as to soil, climate and production over other parts of America than is furnished by truthful comparison. Passing over or discounting all private and local claims of assertions, take the official bulletins of the weather bureau in the various states as authority, and the press reports at large, and it will be found that all these sources of information are in favor of Oregon, as compared with other states of the union.

Here, in all this region west of the Rocky mountains and north of California, the winters are delightful and the spring salubrious, while the crops of all kinds promise exuberance of yield and perfection of quality. The fruit interest promise sufficient quantity to affect the markets of the world, for great numbers of new orchards are coming into bearing and the reports on their condition show that the yield will be immense. Our strawberries go to the cities of the mid-continent, and even further, netting the growers $2.75 a case of twenty-eight pounds gross weight. We have an abundant yield of cherries and the world is finding that Oregon and Washington grow cherries, that are without equal elsewhere. The plums, peaches, prunes and our unrivaled pears bring good returns.

The Oregonians read of cyclones, cloudbursts, sun-blights and devastating frosts, and the thousand ills that other climes are heir to, and can answer that the Northwest has never had a devastating storm, and knows nothing of vicissitudes of heat and cold.

If the people east of the Rocky mountains knew the delights of its air and scenery and mountains and valleys and streams, knew the fertility of its soil and the excellence of its products, the population of this region would be multiplied tenfold in less than ten years. The drawback is this, namely that they don't know, and with difficulty can be made to believe, what the real attractions and excellence of this country are.

Our own people indeed scarcely know or realize the truth until they have the experience of our climates and conditions. Then they find out. Persons who have been accustomed to life on the Pacific slope, when they visit other parts of the United States, at any season of the year, find uneasy, and at times almost insupportable. There is no comfort anywhere, winter or summer. Every person who has lived for a number of years on the change, relates the same experience, tells the same story. They who have become accustomed to this incomparable climate never will live anywhere else.

But how shall we make these attractions known? It is impossible to convince with words. Experience only will suffice. Yet there are those who know, and can induce friends who have confidence in them to come and make proof for themselves. But, even after a residence here, it always requires a trip or two from home to establish the conviction that life elsewhere than in our Pacific states is intolerable.

This is not the language of exaggeration or rapture. It is sober truth, to be learned by every person who will try life on our Pacific slope and compare or contrast it with life elsewhere. But even the loyal Oregonian is obliged to make trips East, and suffer the torments of climate there, in order to realize fully what he possesses and enjoys at home.

The Cuban Insurgents are in a position where they care little whether or not the United States recognizes their belligerency or independence. Havana is said to be within the grasp of the revolutionary party, and the Spanish authorities are in mortal terror lest an insurrection will arise within the city. The Cubans are fighting for liberty and principle, and such watchwords furnish an incentive to action, which Spanish money cannot supply. The end seems almost in sight, and the nations of the world can get ready to send messages of congratulations to the Cubans on the victory, which seems assured to them.

PENDLETON AND EUGENE.

Pendleton East Oregonian: Let it be known in every way that Pendleton is the right location for a meat packing establishment. If Pendleton can succeed in furnishing a market for what the producers in the country tributary to her have to sell, then Pendleton will grow to be an important city—the second in Oregon.

Eugene Register: The efforts of the committee on the organization of the Eugene Commercial club should meet with the encouragement of every citizen who has at heart the promotion of the social and industrial welfare of our community. For a year or so past, the leading towns of the state have enjoyed the benefits of some one of the various forms of social and commercial clubs. Pendleton has a thriving and useful organization of this kind; Salem has recently organized a similar organization; The Dalles and La Grande have fallen into line, and now Eugene is promised a club, which will combine all of the most desirable features of these plans. Our sister towns have secured manufacturing plants which would have been ours with a proper amount of concerted action. Our roads and streets have been poorly worked and improved. Our river transportation has been crippled and well-nigh ruined, where a small amount of effective work ten years ago would have given us as good a river transportation as Albany and Corvallis have enjoyed. These things must be considered by practical business men, and this club is backed by just this class of people, who will be able to accomplish much along these lines.

The Dalles Lodge No. 2, I. O. G. T.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the work being done by The Dalles Lodge No. 2, I. O. G. T., it has decided to make reports, from time to time, showing its standing. At the present writing there is a membership upwards of sixty. Much interest is manifested in the order, and a great deal is being done towards the upbuilding of this great work. Prizes have been offered for the best original essay on the subject of temperance, the awarding of which will be announced later.

Died.

Near this city, Jan. 6th, at 1:30 a. m., Mary E. Halvor, fourth daughter of George and Mary Halvor.

The funeral services, which will be held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, will be conducted at the Halvor farm, below town, by Rev. W. C. Curtis. The young lady was aged 15 years, and her early death is a severe blow to her relatives and friends.

Science is "knowing how." The only secret about Scott's Emulsion is years of science. When made in large quantities and by improving methods, an emulsion must be more perfect than when made in the old-time way with mortar and pestle a few ounces at a time. This is why Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil never separates, keeps sweet for years, and why every spoonful is equal to every other spoonful. An even product throughout.

In other emulsions you are liable to get an uneven benefit—either an over or under dose. Get Scott's. Genuine has a salmon-colored wrapper.

Summons.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Wasco County. William L. Isbell, Plaintiff, vs. Mattie J. Isbell, Defendant. To Mattie J. Isbell, the above named defendant: In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear in the above entitled court, and answer the complaint filed against you in said court and cause, on or before the first day of the next regular term of the Circuit Court for Wasco County, Oregon, following the expiration of six weeks publication of this summons, to-wit, Monday, the 30th day of February, 1896, and you will take notice that if you fail to so appear and answer, for want thereof, plaintiff will take judgment against you for the relief prayed for in his complaint, to-wit: A decree of divorce forever dissolving the bonds of marriage heretofore and now existing between plaintiff and defendant, and for such other relief as may be equitable and just. This summons is served upon you by publication thereof in the Dalles Chronicle, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, published at The Dalles, Wasco County, Oregon, by order of Hon. W. L. Bradshaw, Judge of the above named court. Dated at Dalles City, Or., December 24, 1895. G. W. PHELPS, Attorney for Plaintiff. dec25-5t

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution and order of sale issued out of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Wasco County, upon a decree and judgment, made, rendered and entered by said court on the 19th day of December, 1895, in favor of the plaintiff, in a suit wherein the Solicitors Loan and Trust Company was plaintiff and Sylvester Brooks was defendant, and to me directed and delivered, commanding me to levy upon and sell the lands mentioned and described in said writ and hereinafter described, I did duly levy upon and will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, on Monday, the 27th day of January, 1896, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the front door of the County courthouse in Dalles City, Wasco County, Oregon, all of the lands and premises described in said writ and herein described as follows, to-wit: The southwest quarter of section fourteen in township one, north of range fourteen, east of the Willamette Meridian, Wasco County, Oregon, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy the sum due upon said writ, to-wit, the sum of $198.54, with interest thereon at the rate of seven per cent per annum from the 11th day of November, 1895, together with the further sum of $11.00 costs and disbursements in said action and accruing costs and expenses of said sale. Dated this 9th day of December, 1895. T. J. DRIVER, Sheriff of Wasco County, Oregon. d7-5t
