BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Probate court began its session this morning. County court will commence Wednesday.

Hon. D. P. Thompson will lecture at the Congregational church tomorrow evening on "The Holy Places of Palestine."

A meeting of the Elks lodge will be held at the Cascades this evening, at which several applications from The Dalles will be received.

Tonight occurs the public installation of officers in the Knights of Pythias lodge. A large number of invitations have been issued, and the evening promises to be a very pleasant one.

The Congregational church has decided to observe this week as one of prayer. Meetings will be held every evening in the church, to which everyone is invited. The week of prayer will be observed simultaneously in all parts of the country.

The Regulator is being pulled out on the ways today. It is rather a ticklish job to take a steamer from out the water on to land, and requires careful work. Quite a number of people went up to Hungry Harbor today to see the progress that was being made.

A meeting will be held in the Lutheran church, on Ninth street, this evening to form a United Brethren class. The series of revival meetings will continue under the leadership of Rev. Mr. Adams. All people who are not worshipping elsewhere are invited to attend and take part in forming a class this evening at the place mentioned.

Hon. E. L. Smith of Hood River sends word to THE CHRONICLE that the annual meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural Society will be held at Portland on Tuesday, January 14, 1896. All friends of horticulture, as well as members of the society, are requested to contribute papers, music or presence at the meeting. Quite a number of fruit-growers from The Dalles and Wasco county will attend the session.

Truman Butler, the pursuer of the steamer Regulator, has been assigned to the Portland agency during the tie-up for repairs of the Regulator and Dalles City. Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Butler left Saturday for Portland, where he will remain for a month or six weeks, or until the boats begin running again, when he will resume his place in the pursuer's office of the Regulator. There are other boats landing at the dock of the Dalles City, and it is necessary that the office be kept open.

The members of the Gesang Verein held one of their regular socials last evening at the Baldwin theater. A large number of members were in attendance. In the early part of the evening the singers, under the leadership of Professor Birgfeld, rendered some pleasing selections, after which a time of sociability was spent by the members. The occasions of their monthly socials are very pleasant to the members of the society.

Hard times are beginning to make inroads on the legal profession. Last week an attorney from Butte, who was down on his luck, stopped in The Dalles and was assisted to Portland through the benevolence of local attorneys. This morning a barrister from our sister state appeared upon the scene and solicited aid because of his demoralized finances. Ill health and bad investments are what brought him to the condition of having to ask assistance from the profession. He was helped by some of his compassionate brethren.

The weather is all that could be desired for the work at the locks. So far this winter there have been but few days when outside work could not be carried on to advantage. When the snow storm of last month came, it was thought work would be hindered, and preparations were made to put things in winter quarters. The scare was not lasting, however, and the engines and men are at work again. Unless the rest of the winter is unusually disagreeable, the contractors cannot complain but what Nature has favored them.

Tomorrow evening the lecture of Hon. D. P. Thompson will occur at the Congregational church. The subject will be "The Holy Places of Palestine," and will be replete with personal observations of the lecturer. Mr. Thompson has traveled extensively, and used his powers of observation to their limit. This will be fourth lecture in the winter course, and will prove one of the most interesting. Mr. Thompson has lectured before Dalles audiences, and made a pleasing impression. Doors will open at 7:30 tomorrow night, the lecture to begin at 8.

January and February are generally regarded as quiet months in business circles, being between two lively periods, the holidays and the opening of the spring trade. The weather is generally more or less unpleasant, and the farmers come to town no oftener than is necessary, while city folk like the comfort of home better than the slush of the streets or the feeling of the atmosphere when the thermometer is lying low. With business quiet, more attention is given to social affairs, and these two months society rules. The latter part of December, with its three large dances, was a lively period socially, and the present month promises well in that line. Some large affairs are being contemplated, while a number of smaller functions will occur. Several afternoon parties are on the list, and altogether the devotees of society need have no complaint but that they will be treated well in the present season.

ett left Saturday evening for Washington, D. C., where he goes to argue some cases in the United States supreme court. Among the cases in which he will appear is the case of Skottowe vs. the railroad company, being an action for damages growing out of an accident which happened in The Dalles several years ago. While walking at night on the railroad bridge leading to the shops, Mr. and Mrs. Skottowe fell off the bridge and sustained injuries, from which Mr. Skottowe died, and which caused Mrs. Skottowe great suffering. The case was first tried in The Dalles, and has passed through various courts, till it is now in the highest tribunal in the land.

The clothing merchants have agreed to close their houses of business at 7 o'clock on evenings except Saturday from now until March 1st. In Saturday's issue it was said that Mr. Stephens would close his store at an early hour, but it should have been stated that the other merchants will join in the early closing movement. The mistake arose in misunderstanding the notice which Mr. Stephens gave the paper. This early closing movement is a wise one, one and will give employers and clerks more time for recreation, and just as much business will be done in the course of the day. We hope to see the early closing become general in all the business houses of the town.

The Indians up at Tumwater are falling in line with their more civilized brothers and sisters in The Dalles, and indulging in social festivities. Last night a dance was held at Tumwater, which was attended by the Celilo, Tumwater and Dalles Indians. Old Joe, who is our informant, says the dance was a "tennas" affair, as there are but few Indians now in the country, and judging from Joe's description, the dance did not have the eclat that such affairs possessed in the early days. The smell of salmon was more noticeable than the odor of war paint—if war paint has any odor—and the braves and squaws did not dance with the same vigor as did their ancestors of fifty years ago. However, the dance kept up all night, and the boys went home with the girls in the morning.

Last Saturday evening a meeting was held in the First Baptist church to see what could be done towards organizing a Lutheran church, at which both English and Lutherans could worship. Quite a number of people attended the meeting and the opinion expressed was unanimous that an endeavor should be made to form the organization. A temporary committee, consisting of Messrs. Nickleson, Hansen and Melquist was appointed to take charge of the preliminary arrangements. It is probable articles of incorporation will be prepared and filed within a few days. It is the intention to secure church property at an early date. Next Tuesday evening preaching will be held, after which the business session will reconvene and matters further discussed. So far the outlook is bright for the organization of the church.

The secretary of the Commercial Club has received a letter from Mr. J. H. D. Gray, of the Astoria Chamber of Commerce, relative to making arrangements for celebrating the opening of the locks. The letter states that the people of Astoria are taking great interest in the completion of the undertaking that will free the Columbia from The Dalles to the sea, and are anxious to co-operate in celebrating the affair in a fitting manner. Mr. Gray suggests that the Commercial Club of The Dalles appoint one or two gentlemen who will meet in Portland a like number from Astoria, and that this joint committee obtain all possible information as to the day when the contractors expect that boats will pass through the canal. Astoria people are anxious that our commercial club consider the matter at an early date and make ready to co-operate in a jollification. "Astoria," says Mr. Gray, "will send two or three boat-loads of people to witness the first boat go through the locks."

Ladies Please Read.
