THURSDAY, - - - JANUARY 9, 1896
SOME GOOD STATEMENTS.

To THE EDITOR:
I see by yesterday's Oregonian that we have another chance to purchase of Denmark the islands of St. Thomas, St. John's and Santa Cruz, in the West Indies, and the opportunity should not be allowed to pass, as was done in 1867-8. I was then, and in fact have always been, in favor of our government acquiring, by purchase or otherwise, all of such properties which lie adjacent to us.

The president, in his message on the Venezuelan question, stated, in the way the commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States should have done, the sentiments of the people of this country on the Monroe doctrine, and the determination of the government to insist on the settlement of this, and all other like questions, on the lines laid down in the celebrated document issued by his predecessor, a position in which he has, practically, the unanimous support of the people of the United States, and especially of "our friends the enemy" of thirty odd years ago down South.

The men who wore the gray remember, and have taught their sons to know and remember too, that it was England who encouraged them to rebel; England's promises of assistance on which they relied, and that it was England who filled them in their hour of need. These men have, in innumerable ways since the war ended, declared their devotion to the welfare of our common country, and only want the opportunity to show that they are sincere; and no part of our broad land would furnish braver or better soldiers in defense of its flag. These men will always remember, with grateful hearts, the prompt and unanimous action of the senate in passing the bill removing the disabilities from those who served in the rebel armies. I was born and brought up among them; they are my people, and I believe I know that the men who followed Lee and Jackson and Johnson and Hood and Stuart and Forrest will be just as prompt to rally, with their sons, as those of us who followed Grant and Sherman and Sheridan and Thomas and Buford and Stanley, and there will be a generous rivalry between their boys and ours as to which will be foremost in support of the old flag; which will be most ready to die for it.

I not only believe in the Monroe doctrine as generally understood, but I believe also in its expansion. This government should never rest on that subject until every foot of land in both North and South America is forever freed from ownership or occupancy by any power not American.
JOHN W. LEWIS.
The Dalles, Jan. 8, 1896.

As many people expected, a resolution has been introduced into the United States senate reviving the grade of lieutenant-general for the benefit of General Miles, at present in the command of the army. We hope the resolution will not pass; not because of any ill-wishes towards General Miles, but because the promise bestowed of this very honorable title will soon render it meaningless. The title of lieutenant-general has been held by few soldiers, and nearly all of them were men preeminent for military abilities. To confer it upon Washington, Scott, Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, was to give them what they had won, and by the common consent of the world deserved. Miles has proved himself a good soldier, brave and sagacious; but between his record and that of the generals mentioned, there are lacking those achievements which justify the bestowing of the most honorable designation a member of the army can receive. To many people the giving of this title to Schofield did not meet with approval. In the instance at hand it would be still more unfitting. Let this rank be given only to our greatest commanders—each a genius in military lines. In the war with England, if it comes, should General Miles win this title, the American people will gladly sanction its bestowal. Until that time let us not lessen its value by making it common.

A remarkable decision was rendered Tuesday in the federal court at Omaha. Judge Shiras handed down an opinion declaring that in all cases where Indians have become citizens the government is still bound by the treaty stipulations existing under the tribal relations. The wide scope of the decision is set forth in a declaration of the judge that it applies to all reservations. This judicial opinion is an important one and will further complicate matters regarding the Indian and his recently-acquired citizenship. A few more conflicting decisions, and the Indian will be able to lead a sort of Mr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence—a citizen while drunk and a ward of the government when sober and provisions scarce.

Superstitious people have figured out that no man who was ever nominated at St. Louis for the presidency succeeded in being elected. Both Tilden and Cleveland suffered defeat after being chosen candidates at St. Louis. No better opportunity for breaking the spell could be afforded than that presented by the republicans in designating that city as the place of holding the convention. It is a safe bet that the third time will destroy the charm.

Chairman Dingley, of the house ways and means committee, characterizes the December treasury statement as a palpable fraud, and shows that a true statement of the receipts and expenses of the government for December would show a deficit of more than $3,500,000, instead of the half-million surplus claimed by Secretary Carlisle's official report.

SPiRIT OF THE PRESS.
Spokesman-Review: The Washington correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle deserves the thanks of civilization for his efforts to preserve an honorable peace between England and the United States. His cable letters to London have been broad and liberal in their statement of facts, and most admirable in tone. Lord Salisbury needs this advice and if he is the great statesman men in America believe him to be he will be guided by it.

Evening Telegram: In a few days the Democratic national committee will get together to name a time and place for holding the nominating convention. It will be confronted by a mass of petitions from chambers of commerce, boards of trade and other business bodies requesting it to fix the date of the convention as late as possible, thus making a short campaign, but there is no reason to hope that the prayers will receive any more favorable consideration than they were given by the republican committee. The democratic moguls are practical politicians, and as such they do not desire a namby-pamby campaign. Popular composure is not what they want. It will serve their purpose better to stir up the people, to exploit their eloquence and advertise themselves and make use of the excitement which they arouse to promote their own selfish ambition. Therefore it is too much to hope that they will show sufficient consideration for the welfare of business to decide upon a late convention.

science

Science is "knowing how." The only secret about Scott's Emulsion is years of science. When made in large quantities and by improving methods, an emulsion must be more perfect than when made in the old-time way with mortar and pestle a few ounces at a time. This is why Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil never separates, keeps sweet for years, and why every spoonful is equal to every other spoonful. An even product throughout.

In other emulsions you are liable to get an uneven benefit—either an over or under dose. Get Scott's. Genuine has a salmon-colored wrapper.

A January thaw is always more productive of colds and coughs than a January freeze. Then is the time Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is needed and proves so extremely efficacious. Ask your druggist for it, and also for Ayer's Almanac, which is free to all.

Dr. Shields, an eminent physician of Tennessee, says: "I regard Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best blood medicine on earth, and I know of many wonderful cures effected by its use." Physicians all over the land have made similar statements.
