BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Weather forecast fair and stationary for tomorrow.

Every lady should learn the Kellogg system of dress cutting. Lessons not limited.

Ten car loads of hogs from Elgin passed through The Dalles for Troutdale today.

Ladies call and see the Kellogg French Tailor system of dress cutting at Mrs. Forward's dressmaking parlors.

The fine day brought a good many farmers to town today, and the streets have a lively appearance.

Services in the Episcopal church tomorrow (Sunday) at the usual hours, 11 o'clock a. m. and 7:30 p. m., Rev. J. N. Goss officiating.

Mothers you will not regret your daughters learning the Kellogg system of dress cutting. Call and see the system.

At the last meeting of Dalles Council, No. 19, Junior Order American Mechanics, nine candidates were elected to membership and two initiated.

The subject of the morning discourse tomorrow at the Christian church is "To Whom Shall We Go?" In the evening the subject will be "The Sealed Book." Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

It is reported that the Goldendale stage line has changed hands, R. H. Williams having sold out to Col. E. W. Pike of Goldendale. C. C. Alvord will have the active management of the concern.

The Elks will hold a caucus at 7:30 for the purpose of making selections of officers for the lodge. The caucus will be held in Forester's hall and will be preliminary to the main meeting, at which several novices will be initiated.

William Rasmus, who had charge of putting on the play of Damon and Pythias last June in The Dalles, is now arranging for the production of the same piece in McMinville January 24. Mrs. Rasmus will take the part of Calanthe.

The joint installation of officers of Jas. W. Nesmith post, G. A. R., and Jas. W. Nesmith Relief corps, No. 17, will be held this evening in Fraternity hall. A pleasant evening has been arranged for and music and refreshments will follow the installation ceremonies.

Preaching at 7:30; subject, "God's Gracious Proposal to His Enemies; Isaiah xxvii:4, 5.

George Herbert was in from Grants today. The distillery expects to start the 15th of the month, and the citizens of Grant are greatly rejoiced thereat. Already 200 cattle and 400 hogs have been purchased by the company and will be fattened and sold in the Portland market. Mr. J. W. Walker, the manager of the company, has been lying almost at the point of death, but is a good deal improved now. The company has been re-organized under the name of the Pacific Milling and Distilling Co.

Word was received in town today of an attempt at robbing Moore Bros. store night before last at Moro. The robbers broke in the side door leading to the office and brought with them tools for opening the safe. The miscreants must have been frightened away in some manner, for they relinquished the job, leaving their tools on the floor. Nothing of value was taken, but if the robbers had made good their intention, they would probably have secured enough to pay them for their trouble. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

Hon. D. M. French returned last night from Corvallis, where he attended a meeting of the Agricultural college regents. While there, Mr. French inquired concerning the Kaffir corn, mention of which has been made in this paper. He was told that the subject was one that had been considered, but the corn was not taken into much account as a suitable product for the Willamette valley. No reason was shown, however, why if properly cultivated the growing of the corn might not be a suitable thing for Eastern Oregon. Ex-Governor Moody, who is in town today, is thinking of trying the planting of some Kaffir corn seed as an experiment. The outcome will be watched with interest.

Since the discussion has begun about celebrating the opening of the locks, considerable interest is being occasioned in cities by the river. The matter of celebrating the event in a proper manner is being talked of in Vancouver, and the Columbian of that city suggests to the Commercial club the propriety of appointing delegates to meet those from Astoria and The Dalles for the purpose of looking up the matter of the locks celebration. The appointing of a committee would be a good thing, and we trust that the Commercial clubs of the three cities will take the desired action. The Dalles club, at its next meeting, should take some move with regard to Mr. Gray's request.

Down at the locks the contractors are preparing for a mammoth blast, one which will stir up things considerably. Over fifty holes have been drilled, and when filled with explosives will be set off all at once with the aid of electricity. The blasts are being put in at the lower end of the canal, where a lot of solid rock needs to be taken out. This blast is expected to loosen the rock so that the remaining work will be mainly to clean up the debris. The gates are all hung and the pipes for the hydraulic working of the locks are laid and ready for the connections to be made. During the good weather a large number of men are at work, and though a variance of opinion exists as to when the locks will be finished, the belief is becoming strengthened that March 1st will see the canal ready for the passage of a boat.

To the industries at The Dalles has been added, during the last two years, that of sturgeon fishing. These fish have recently been found to possess value in the eastern markets, and a ready sale is found for them both in the East and at home. Repulsive as the looks of the sturgeon may be, there seem to be many people who like the flavor of the flesh, and whenever a catch is made, the lucky fisherman is sure of a neat little sum for his trouble. From The Dalles to Hood River sturgeon lines are placed at intervals. The manner of catching the fish is rather peculiar. A long line is sunk in the river with hooks placed in a row at a distance from one another of about a foot. The line is sunk to near the bottom of the river, and the theory is that the sturgeon in their cavortings will run against the hooks and get caught. Not only is the theory good, but it works all right in practice, as some of the fishermen last winter are said to have made as much as $2000 for their season's work.

Monday will see the floor laid for the bowling alley, gymnasium and billiard room in the Commercial and Athletic Club building. The work has been delayed a few days on account of the lumber being damp, necessitating a drying out. The carpenters are rushing it now, however, and no further delays are expected. The gymnasium goods have been ordered, and are probably now on the way. Some of the apparatus comes from Providence, Rhode Island, but the most of it was ordered from Chicago. The appliances for gymnastics will be very complete, consisting of apparatus for light and heavy exercise. Chest-developers, rings, a trapeze, and all other suitable paraphernalia, has been carefully selected, and the gymnasium committee expect this part of the club to rank well with any other gymnasium in the Northwest. Several club members from Portland, who have visited the rooms in the Grant building, declare that the arrangements are very convenient, and The Dalles will have a club of which any city might well be proud.

Excelsior Club Masquerade.

A large crowd of spectators and a good number of maskers attended the masquerade ball given by the Excelsior Club at the armory last evening. The affair was in every way successful, and considerable interest was taken by the spectators in the costumes seen upon the floor. Some of the dresses were quite elegant, and the usual number of amusing characters were to be seen. The music was furnished by an orchestra under the leadership of W. A. Miller, some of the members coming from Dufur and Tygh valley. Last night's ball was the first masquerade dance given this season, and the novelty of it had much to do with the success. The financial outcome was satisfactory to the club. The prizes which were offered for the best sustained characters, were awarded to Miss Jacobsen and Mr. Charles Nelson.

Following is the list of maskers and the characters assumed:

- Miss Jacobsen, Norwegian servant girl;
- Chas Nelson, stone cutter;
- Arthur Hendershott, negro character;
