BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The weather bureau predicts snow and cooler weather for tomorrow.

The Red Men will hold installation ceremonies in their wigwam tomorrow evening. The exercises are promised to be very interesting, and corn and venison will be supplied in abundance.

Mrs. I. N. Sargeant, who is ill with pneumonia, is reported to be holding her own and the last two days see no change in her condition. Her friends are hopeful that her recovery may be assured.

The members of the Real Estate Exchange will be glad to receive the names of any people in the East who are considering moving to the West. Copies of the pamphlet just issued by the Exchange will be sent them.

A crowd of twenty-five skaters went down on the afternoon train to try the ice at Snipes' lake. A special engine and car will go down and bring them back this afternoon. Reports from the lake this morning say the ice is good.

A report was circulated around town last night that Dr. Sutherland was taken seriously ill and the rumor soon assumed an exaggerated form. The doctor was quite indisposed, due to over work during the past few weeks, but is himself again today.

In the county court today C. A. Stewart was appointed road supervisor of district No. 1. This district embraces Cascade Locks, and is the one in which there is a good deal of contention over the supervisor. Several arrests have been made on the non-payment of taxes, and a muss raised all around.

Robert Walters, who lives on Dutch Flat, brought to town this morning a bald eagle, which he caught in a trap. The bird, which is not yet full grown, measures seven feet from tip to tip. Mr. Walters wanted to dispose of the bird to the Commercial Club, but none of the trustees thought they had time to take care of it, so the bird remains unpurchased.

At the Relief Corps installation ceremonies Saturday night Mrs. J. M. Patterson, the retiring president, was presented by the members of the Corps with a pretty little remembrance in the shape of a gold Corps badge. Mrs. Patterson was much pleased at this expression of the regard in which her services were held by the members of the Corps.

E. H. Merrill and John Osborne, who are fishing near the rapids, caught a sturgeon yesterday which weighed over 600 pounds. When dressed, the fish weighed over 300 pounds. The head weighed 125 pounds. After one of these huge sturgeons is caught with the hook, it is no mean trick to land it safely on shore. The price of the fish in Portland is satisfactory.

The reports of M. Doyle, supervisor of road district No. 7, J. C. Egbert, No. 13, O. C. Paquet, No. 13, were received and accepted in the county court today. In the matter of the road petitioned for by German Sequie, the proof of posting and bond were filed and the petition read. George A. Liebe, John Filloon and E. P. Fitzgerald were appointed viewers and E. F. Sharp surveyor.

Yesterday afternoon the Columbia took a notion to rise, and for a time, swelled its waters at the rate of nearly an inch an hour. It has continued raising today, but the cooler weather will doubtless check it by this morning. The warm days of last week were accountable for the rise. The workmen on the Regulator would be considerably inconvenienced by any material rise in the river just at this time.

The petition which Douglas Allen has been circulating yesterday and today has received a large number of signatures. The petition is addressed to the postmaster-general, and asks that a daily mail service be established between Moro and The Dalles. The present route the mail takes is by railroad to Grant and by stage to Moro. The proposed change would give better service to three stations along the line—English's, which is eight miles from The Dalles; Allen's, fifteen miles, and Starnes, twenty-two miles. Moro is about twenty-eight miles from The Dalles, and it is said the change will accommodate more people at both ends of the line than the present arrangement.

It is time to get up interest in the meeting of the McKinley club, which is scheduled for Thursday evening in the council chambers. Matters of importance will come before the club, and it is earnestly desired that every member, who can possibly attend, will make an effort to do so. Delegates will be elected for the state meeting of clubs in Portland, February 4th, and matters of procedure decided upon. The McKinley club is composed of the representative Republicans of the city and should place itself in trim to do active work for the Republican cause during the coming campaign. Every Republican should make it a point to be present Thursday evening, and by his presence lend encouragement to the cause.

A good joke is told on one of the well-known bank cashiers of the city. Last night, while working in the bank at a late hour, he heard what sounded like a pistol shot, which a few minutes later was followed by another. An officer was summoned, but found no trace of the person who had done the shooting. This morning the mystery was explained. It seems the bank counter stands over the register and the heat caused the boards to open, causing a report like a pistol shot. The story sounds a little fairy like, we'll admit, but it is vouched for by one whose veracity is unquestioned. This is as near a bank robbery as any of our banks want to come. Pendleton can have its postoffice robbery and Portland its street car hold-ups—The Dalles is content with the popping of a bank counter.

Death of George H. Thompson.

George H. Thompson is dead! A telegram was received this morning, saying that Mr. Thompson died yesterday at Colfax. His death, while it will cause a shock to the vast number of people who knew him and were his friends, caused no surprise to those who were aware of his critical condition. For nearly a year Mr. Thompson has been ailing, and last summer went to California to see if the milder southern climate would not restore his shattered health. The trip did him little good, however, and a few months ago he returned to Colfax and grew worse. He has been confined to his bed for several weeks, much of which time he suffered great pain. His illness was described as catarrh of the stomach.

The death of Mr. Thompson occasioned deep regret in The Dalles. To few men has it been given to enjoy such popularity as George Thompson did. For six years he occupied the position of county clerk of Wasco county, being elected by what were considered phenomenal majorities. The first time that he was chosen county clerk his majority was a narrow one, being, if memory serves us right, but five votes. The next time it was nearer five hundred. Mr. Thompson had the faculty, to a remarkable degree, of winning friends, and the intelligence of his death will be sad news to hundreds of people in Wasco, Sherman and Gilliam counties, where he was known.

Mr. Thompson was aged about 40 years and leaves a wife and one boy. His widow is a daughter of J. B. Condon, Esq., of this city. For several years Mr. Thompson has been in the auditor's office of Whitman county. The remains will arrive in The Dalles tomorrow morning and the funeral will take place Wednesday at 2 o'clock, either from the Congregational church or the residence of J. B. Condon.

An Immigration Issue.

There has just been issued from THE CHRONICLE office an immigration pamphlet for The Dalles Real Estate Exchange. Five thousand copies have been ordered, and will be sent to places where it is thought the most good will be accomplished. The pamphlet numbers twenty-four pages of reading matter, descriptive of the resources of Wasco county and the natural advantages of The Dalles. Full statistics are given of the products of this section and our resources portrayed in a convincing manner. The work is profusely illustrated with cuts showing places of commercial and artistic interest. A bird's-eye view of The Dalles serves as a front-piece of the book. Following this comes a view of one of our warehouses, and then a picture giving some idea of the wool shipping business done at The Dalles. The other cuts show a stationary fish wheel in the rapids above town, a fish scow in the Columbia, a prune orchard near The Dalles, a view of W. H. Taylor's farm on Dry Hollow, the Court street school, the county courthouse, a band of sheep ready for shipment, the Academy Park school, St. Mary's Academy, Bridal Veil Falls, Mount Hood, from near The Dalles, Latourelle Falls, Hercules' Pillars, the Dalles City in the rapids at the Cascades, Cape Horn, Multnomah falls and Oneonta Gorge. Some tables prepared by Mr. S. L. Brooks give a good idea of the equable climate which prevails in Wasco county. The text of the book, which was written by J. H. Cradlebaugh, was creditably done and has left nothing out in the way of information for the intending settler.

The Real Estate Exchange is doing a good work in disseminating knowledge concerning our fair land, and the distribution of the pamphlets will undoubtedly be the cause of tending immigration towards Wasco county.

Good News from Senator Mitchell.

Late last evening the following dispatch, which contains good news for settlers on government lands who have made improvements, but not actually resided on the lands they wish to patent, was received:

ERROR CHRONICLE:
My bill protecting the rights of settlers on railroad lands, who have fenced or otherwise improved the same, but who do not actually reside thereon, passed the senate today.

JOHN H. MITCHELL,
Washington, D. C., Jan 13.

The provisions of this bill were published in a recent issue of THE CHRONICLE. Should the measure pass the house, it will undoubtedly receive the signature of the president and become a law, which will be very acceptable to settlers on railroad lands.
