WE WANT NONE OF IT.

It seems very strange that the Oregonian, which until recently has let no opportunity slip to vilify and abuse the last legislature, is now advocating a special session of that body, ostensibly for the purpose of having the unexpended appropriations rescinded. In view of the fact that it has always insisted that the members are irresponsible public plunderers, incapable of doing a patriotic or disinterested act for the public good, and offered thanks when the last session adjourned, the reason for this sudden conversion of sentiment has doubtless some connection with Multnomah county politics. It could hardly expect the legislature that voted the appropriations to withdraw them, unless, as in the case of the Oregonian, the members have suffered a recent change of heart. Certainly, after the bitter controversies of the last session and the strong antagonisms then engendered, it would be expecting too much to depend upon a majority being found in favor of any such measure of remedial legislation.

The special session of 1895 cost the state about $65,000, and a special session in 1896 would certainly cost no less, and would probably accomplish nothing. The taxes already levied and assessed will have to be collected whether or not the legislature is convened, so that the taxpayer will gain no relief by this measure. Moreover, if there is a true disposition to economize, it is easy for the state officers to withhold expenditures of money in many cases where the appropriation seems too large, until the regular session, when the same relief can be obtained without the expense of a special session.

Apparently the Oregonian and a few Multnomah politicians are trying to use the governor as a tool for their own purposes, the real plan being to amend the Portland charter for political purposes. We do not believe, however, that Governor Lord can be prevailed upon, with such transparent arguments for economy, to subject the state to the expense of a special session for the benefit of Portland lobbyists and politicians.

A treaty has been signed by Chili and Brazil which promises to be of commercial benefit to both countries. An agreement is made that a steamship line between the two countries shall be subsidized. It is stated that the successful working of this treaty will greatly impair the trade of the United States with both countries. Chili and Brazil are carrying out the idea that was part of James G. Blaine's political faith, and had his council been headed and plans perfected, the trade of this country with the South American republics, instead of being impaired, as threatened, would have assumed large proportions. This nation has destroyed, in the last three years, what it will take a much greater period of time to re-build.

An inter-collegiate debate has been arranged between the oratorical societies of Columbia College, New York, and the University of Chicago. Some question of national importance will be taken as a topic of discussion, and prominent judges of New York and Illinois will be invited to decide the argument. In former years inter-collegiate debates were not unusual occurrences, but in recent years the contest between the great institutions lay in the direction of muscle more than brains. New York and Chicago can possibly meet on the platform with safety, but were St. Louis a contestant, instead of the Empire City, it might be wise for each city to send its men of brawn.

The Bond Syndicate has dissolved its existence, and the members are released from any obligation to deliver gold for bonds. Meanwhile there is little doubt as to the success of the popular loan. Pierpont Morgan and his friends will not have the opportunity to make the large commission, as they did on the previous sale, but the interests of the country will be as well served. If the government must owe money, it is better that its own friends be the creditors.

MATTERS POLITICAL.

Albany Herald: There is some talk throughout the state of a special session of the Oregon legislature for the purpose of reducing state expenditures, and the matter has been presented to the governor. The only excuse for an extra session of the legislature would be to reduce state appropriations by abolishing useless commissions and other extravagancies, so as to reduce taxation. Heroic reform is needed along this line. Unless, however, the members of the legislature have themselves reformed since the last session and are ready to practice vigorous retrenchment, an extra session would only be an additional burden upon an already outraged people. It is said Governor Lord does not at present think favorably of the movement.

La Grande Chronicle: There are indications that there is going to be a red hot campaign directed against extravagant expenses incurred for state government. This was a campaign cry two years ago, but the demands of the public failed to fall on sympathetic ears after the offices had been secured, and the expenses of government have been piling up mountain high. All this might have been more easily overlooked and forgotten during prosperous times, but when there is a decline of about one half in everything else but state expenditures, the pressure comes too hard. Over three-quarters of a million dollars will be required for state expenses the present year. This amounts to about $2.25 per capita. When this is added to county, school and municipal taxation the effect of the pressure is more than the average citizen, without regard to party, is disposed to endure without a protest.

BAKE A BATCH OF BISCUITS

Sift one quart of flour, two rounded teaspoonsful of baking powder, and one teaspoonful of salt into a bowl; add three teaspoonsful of BUTTER and rub together until thoroughly mixed; then add sufficient milk to make a soft dough; knead slightly, roll out about half an inch thick and cut with a small biscuit cutter. Place a little apart in a greased pan, and bake in a quick oven for fifteen or twenty minutes. These biscuits should be a delicate brown top and bottom, light on the sides, and snowy white when broken open.

The secret of success in this recipe, as in others, is to use but two-thirds as much Cottolene as you used to use of lard.

Cottolene

will make the biscuit light, delicious, wholesome. Better than any biscuit you ever made before. Try it. Be sure and get genuine Cottolene. Sold everywhere in tins with trade-marks - "Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath - on every tin.
