BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Rain and a stationary temperature are predicted for tomorrow.

Four cars of hogs were loaded at the stock yards last night for Troutdale.

A marriage license was granted this morning to J. B. Walters and Miss Eliza Snow.

Eastern Oregon is the place to live.
Where could a more beautiful January day be found?

A slight snow, which quickly turned to rain this morning, has served to make the streets still muddier.

Smith Bros. will give two new dances, Trilby and two step, Thursday evening.
A class for ladies and new beginners Saturday afternoon. Jan 23-11*

Lisle Wagner, the boy who was committed to the reform school for larceny in a dwelling, was taken to Salem by Sheriff Driver this morning.

The new mast for the Regulator has been put in position. The piece of timber is an unusually good specimen and should stand the strain a long time.

Last night the sweet strains of serenaders' music were wafted upon the quiet air. Despite the slush and winter air, a number of our young men paid the compliment of staving to their lady friends. The party contained good singers and the music had a pleasing sound.

At a convention of the employees of THE CHRONICLE office it was voted unanimously that the candy shop across the street furnish delicious candies and the proprietor is a gentleman. A vote of thanks was tendered him for his liberal donation.

The revival services at the M. E. church continue with unabated interest.
Mrs. Wood, who is assisting in conducting these services, last evening delivered a forcible address upon the subject of "The Woman and the Lost Coin," which was listened to with rapt attention by a large audience. Deep interest was manifested throughout.

The Baldwin opera house will be opened for the theatrical year by the appearance of Effie Ellsler next Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The Baldwin has been having a season of quiet, in the theatrical line for some time, during which our people have been enjoying themselves with social pleasures.
The first play of the year will undoubtedly be witnessed by a large audience, as the fame of this actress and her competent company have gone before and theatre goers may expect to be well entertained by the plays presented.

The school meeting on January 31st will be an important one for the district. The question of providing more school room is a pressing one, and as every property-owner in the district is interested in the subject, at least to the amount of taxes he pays, the matter is not one which can be treated as of little moment. From the prospects now in view it looks as if the district will have either to build another school building or rent one. One of these alternatives will have to be selected. The subject is one that will be helped by a free discussion, and to that end THE CHRONICLE will be glad to hear from any citizen who may have any views to present.

It is in this way that a newspaper can be of much good to a community—by providing a means whereby opinions may be circulated and a subject discussed with profit. The columns of this paper are always open to communications upon matters of interest, and especially in this instance we believe good would be obtained by hearing the views of our taxpayers.

The ladies of Fern Lodge, D. of H., held one of their noted sessions last night at Fraternity hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Alden, who have recently returned from their wedding trip. After the regular exercises of lodge, the musical talent of the members was brought into requisition and discoursed sweet sounds for the entertainment of the guests. A solo by Miss Lizzie Sampson was beautifully rendered, and Mrs. Briggs delivered a recitation which was a combination of music and rhetoric in that happy form for which she is so well adapted. The tables were then spread and a sumptuous lunch prepared, when the Chief of Honor, Mrs. Ollie Stephens, in a few well-chosen remarks, called up the guests of the evening and Mrs. Capt. Wand presented them with an elegant silver spoon as a souvenir of the lodge's appreciation as members.
The wind was in the wrong quarter for Mr. Alden's speech, but like a true sailor he put the ship on the other tack and made a safe harbor under the lee of his beautiful and accomplished wife.
The whole affair was a complete surprise to them, and most highly appreciated by all present.

Tibbets-Buchler Nuptials.

Mr. Charles N. Tibbets arrived in The Dalles yesterday from Monterey, California and today departed, taking with him as his wife one of The Dalles' fair young maidens. The wedding ceremony that made Charles Tibbets and Miss Pauline D. Buchler one, was performed by the Rev. W. C. Curtis at the residence of the bride's parents shortly before noon this morning. The wedding was a quiet one, being witnessed only by the members of the family. After the ceremony, a wedding lunch was served.

Mr. Tibbets is well known in The Dalles, where for several years he made his home. During the time spent in this city he held a trusted position in the Pacific Express Company's office.
Last summer he went to Monterey, where he holds a good situation in a large mercantile house.

Miss Buchler is the accomplished daughter of our much respected and popular citizen, Mr. August Buchler.

The years that have brought her to womanhood have been spent in this city, where by her estimable qualities she has won many friends.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train for their California home, followed by the best wishes of all who know them.

The Honor of Being First.

The one question which lies deepest in the minds of the people of this city and of the country whose river port it is, is, "When will the locks at the Cascades be finished?" Although it may not be talked about upon all occasions, yet there is hardly any citizen who, in his leisure moments, does not turn this matter over in his mind and wonder if it is true, after all these years of waiting, of disappointment and hope deferred till almost gone—this great undertaking is really to be accomplished, and the waters of the Columbia, figuratively speaking, will flow unfettered to the sea. March 1st, the day which seems to be agreed upon as the time for the informal opening of the locks, is but a short while removed, and a little patience will determine whether or not the contractors have made their word good.
A little clipping from the Stevenson Pioneer says:

It is given out for a fact that the locks will be so far completed as to allow the passage of boats by the first day of March, and the cities of Astoria and The Dalles are preparing to celebrate the event in great shape. There will be big excursions from both these places, and probably from many other points, to see the first boat pass through the channel. Our own beautiful Regulator is to have the honor of being the first boat to make the passage, and for a little while the middle river will be without a steamboat, for the first time in just forty years. All this is good news, and we hope it will come to pass without any further delay. We have been disappointed so many times about the completion of the canal and locks that we are always afraid to make a statement regarding their completion at a certain date for fear it will amount to only another disappointment.

The Pioneer has been wrongfully informed as to the Regulator being the first boat to pass through the locks. A director of The Dalles, Portland & As-toria Navigation Company informed a CHRONICLE reporter today that the Dalles City would receive the honor of being first, and it is fitting that she should. For four years this staunch boat has steamed through the turbulent waters to the foot of the locks and stopped at the obstructions, not then removed. She has knocked at the door so often that it would be unfitting to let another enter first. Besides, the people of The Dalles would rather take no risks. We are not caring to have this river free from boats, even for once in forty years. We would rather be sought than seeking, and after other boats have reached the middle river, we are willing to let the Regulator pass through the locks.

The day that the locks are opened will be a time of rejoicing such as never was seen in Eastern Oregon before.

Good Words for The Dalles.

The Dalles is becoming known as a city of a steady, substantial growth, which, however bright its past has been, has a still more propitious future. The resources and advantages with which this place is blessed have been utilized to but a small degree, and with the return of material prosperity to the country, and the influx of capital and people to the Northwest—which conditions are coming as sure as the change of seasons—The Dalles will make great strides in wealth, population and commercial power. D. C. Ireland, who as a resident of this and other cities, has observed the conditions necessary to promise of growth, has, in the last issue of the Observer, these words to say of The Dalles:

Considerable is said about the possibilities of growth at The Dalles in the near future. With a country back of it surpassing rich in natural resources, yet in the experimental stage of development; with a water power superior to Minneapolis, we expect The Dalles to develop more within the next decade than Minneapolis has since 1860. All it needs is liberal views, fraternization and consistency.
