WON BY DIPLOMACY.

Whether or not the first news that came from Constantinople, stating that Russia and Turkey had formed an alliance for offensive and defensive purposes, should be modified into the statement that only an understanding of policy and action exists between them, the report is of the greatest interest to the civilized world. The dissolution of Turkey must be postponed for a longer time, though it is delayed now by Russia, and not by England, which in the past has been the preserver of this moribund monarchy. The alliance with Russia was the only way left for the sultan to act. Independence was impossible, and an alliance with any power save that of Russia would not have been permitted by the czar. As a vassal of Russia the worn-out government of Turkey can continue a while longer till some opportunity is presented, when the whole machinery of the sultan's administration will be stopped and Turkey lose its name as it has parted with its independence.

Time brings curious changes, and Russia has obtained by diplomacy what she could not by force of arms. Russia's attempt to gain an outlet from the Black Sea plunged Europe into the bloody Crimean war, a conflict that gave opportunity for the display of strategy and shining examples of heroism, but whose results were negative, only postponing the events for which the time was not then ripe, but which had to come and which, from the reports of the last few days, are now consummated.

The opportunity is opened for the clash of arms, for which Europe has been preparing for a score of years, and which needed a less occurrence than this "understanding" between Turkey and Russia to precipitate.

The Hood River Glacier, in a friendly spirit, favors The Dalles as the place of holding the next Republican state convention. Eastern Oregon is entitled to this honor, and the bunchgrass cities should be given a chance. As The Dalles is the first in geographical position, the convention, if it comes east of the Cascades, should be held here. Two years from now Pendleton would have a valid claim. If all the Eastern Oregon cities will give their support to The Dalles, this place can secure the convention. Next time we will return the favor. An earnest presentation of our claims at the meeting of the state committee, backed up by the solid support of Eastern Oregon committeemen, will secure the honor.

Much as this Yankee nation showed its determination and, in some instances, inclination, to fight over the Venezuelan affair, there are none of us who, if war is to come, would not rather see it fought on the fields of Europe. The enterprising Yankee is thinking that if a European war is coming, we Americans can occupy the position of disinterested spectators, at the same time taking the opportunity of bringing back gold in exchange for wheat and other necessities that those who go to war must have. "It is an ill wind that blows nobody good."

Wheat has become tired of waiting for a European war, and is taking a rise on its own account. Fifty cents a bushel will cause no complaint, but 60 will be better. Those who have held their wheat will have made good interest on the investment.

Mr. Peter Godfrey Makes Some Caustic Remarks.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:
Seeing in your issue of January 15th that the road through Thompson's Addition was in a fearful condition and has been the cause of numerous complaints, I would like you to state if its condition was any worse through '95 than it has been for the last ten or twelve years. I went over it every week, and whenever it needed repairs, they were done. Some of your streets in The Dalles are as bad, or even worse, than Thompson's Addition.

Now, if your Commercial Club is suffering so for exercise, and to do good for the country, let them get a dozen shovels at The Dalles and keep the money at home, in place of sending it to Chicago for a bowling alley, and start in at The Dalles, right at home. After they get the mud out there, if they want to do some more good for the country, come to Thompson's Addition and take the road on out with their shovels. That would have more effect than wind in newspapers. I kept the road through Thompson's Addition and ten miles out in repair through '95, and am willing to leave it to people who pass over it if the condition was not as good, if not better, in '95 than it generally is.

PETER GODFREY.

Mrs. M. E. Briggs wishes to announce to the ladies of The Dalles that she has taken the agency for the "Ideal Balm," a toilet preparation already used by several ladies here, who are unanimous in pronouncing it the best they have ever used. One application makes an agreeable change. For preventing chapped or rough hands it is the peer of anything on the market. It will positively remove freckles, tan, sun-burn and pimples without the least injury to the most delicate skin. We are willing to rest its popularity and its future upon the opinion of those who use it, and consequently know just what it will do. **
