Coroner Butts has just returned from the Wamic country. He finds the roads dry, almost dusty, the grass growing finely, stock getting fat, and farmers everywhere out with their plows. He remarks the contrast of a week ago when he was over the same territory.

Rev. Mr. Knight's lecture due here, according to the published change in the program of the lecture course, will not be on the topic indicated on the season tickets, but the title will be "The Practical Idealist." Mr. Knight never speaks on any subject without having something to say, and will be well worth hearing. Judge McArthur, whose place in the course had to be postponed, will be able to fill his engagement about the middle of March, the exact date will be advertised later. After Judge McArthur has spoken, it is to be hoped no one in The Dalles will ask, as one of the audience at a meeting of the Horticultural Society recently did, "Who was Senator Linn, anyhow?"

The Masquerade Ball.

About 250 ladies and gentlemen were present at the Woodmen and Workmen annual masquerade ball last evening, and gay music and gayer dancers enlivened the occasion until about 1 o'clock, when the throng began to disperse. The ball was a complete social and financial success. The prizes were won as follows: Gentlemen's first prize, a handsome oak rocking chair, was won by Messrs. W. H. Vanbibber, M. Hansen, W. Norman, Chas. Nielsen, and J. Chrisman, dressed alike as clowns, and representing the Workmen and Woodmen. As the rocking chair cannot be divided and retain its intrinsic value, the award committee have about decided to give it to the first one of the five who gets married. The second gentlemen's prize, Japanese leather cuff and collar boxes, was won by Henry Harper, representing an A. O. U. W. workingman, accoutered with pick, shovel and dinner pail. The ladies first prize, a pair of bisque vases of exquisite workmanship, was won by Miss Christine Phirman, dressed as a Grecian lady. Second prize, a jewel case filled with choice stationery, fell to Mrs. H. Lauretzen, representing the American Laundry. The lady had some difficulty in entering the hall with so complete an outfit, and washed clothes and hung them out while the others marched around the room. The complete list of masquers cannot be published today for want of space. There were forty-two in masque, and many of the costumes were very fine.

Branching Out.

A. M. Williams & Co. have almost completed the plans for a store building of magnificent proportions, shortly to be erected between their old building and the Miller building on Second street, to occupy the space at present used by Mr. E. Jacobsen's stationery store and the adjoining buildings. The dimensions of the new structure will be 50x100 feet, and it is to be a modern store building in every particular. The front will be of pressed brick. The entrance will be an inset from the sidewalk, paved with tiled brick, and the pavement in front will be of asphalt. The plate glass windows will be the largest in the city.

The building will be two stories high, both used by this enterprising firm, in connection also with their present quarters, with arched doorways between the two buildings. The central space of the first floor of the new building will be taken up with long counters behind which will be shelving. The same space on the second floor will be open, surrounded with a railing, and a skylight from the top will allow plenty of light for both floors.

This new building will be the most decided improvement since the great fire. The increase of business and press for room demanded the move, and the want is to be supplied in the most liberal fashion. Work is expected to begin early in March.

Colonel Nevius Dead.

A telegram to the Oregonian from Salt Lake, dated Feb. 12th, states that Colonel E. W. Nevius, formerly of The Dalles, was found dead at that place. Heart disease was supposed to have been the cause of his death. Col. Nevius left La Grande about six months ago. He leaves a family of a wife and two children, who are now residing in La Grande.

Col. Nevius was a war veteran and resided several years in Walla walla county, after which he removed to The Dalles, where he officiated for a long time as colonel of the Third Regiment, O. N. G. Two years ago he was engaged in campaign work for the Republican party.

The Clever Team.

The Gillam acrobatic dancers and sketch artists are as clever a team as ever appeared in La Crosse. Their work was thoroughly appreciated by the large audience. Miss Beattie, singing of the Pleasures of Paradise Alley, was the best done in this city by any show company. Harry Gilliam, "Song Move On" brought down the gallery. It was after repeated encores that the audience let them go. The entire company is a good one, and the Georgia University Graduates are as good a colored company as is traveling.—La Crosse Daily Press, Sept. 6th. At the opera house, Saturday, Feb. 15th. Prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Will Repeat the Entertainment.

A large number of children, and a considerable sprinkling of older folks as well, were amused, instructed and entertained at the M. E. church last evening by "Sanders' Wonderland." The grandeur of nature is most realistically produced on a screen, complete in detail and coloring. Next to a personal visit to Yellowstone National Park, with its sublime canyons and waterfalls, its wonderful geysers and glacial relics, a lasting impression can be better gained by looking at the immense pictures fifteen feet square that are so accurately reproduced on a plain muslin surface. Some scenes are shown as they appear at sunset, at noon day and at moonlight, a very unusual and sublime sight.

A glimpse of tonight's entertainment was given last evening by showing a few scenes from Malasia, including natural scenery, flora and fauna, queer buildings, and queer inhabitants of India, Malay, China and Japan. These are of intense interest and have been taken from life at considerable cost. Comic pictures (and songs at intervals enliven the interest. Last night the words and music of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" were enlarged to occupy the whole of the great screen. The notes were as large as hen's eggs, and the letters of the song about four inches in height.

Sayings of Children.

One of the pictures at "Sanders' Wonderland" last night represented the Portland University with a river steamer in the foreground. The lecturer turned to the little ones on the front seats and asked: "Now, children what is this?" The timid reply came from one of them, "The Regulator." The speaker was nonplussed for a moment, but regained his composure during the applause which spontaneously followed. This reminded a young lady of The Dalles, who has taught a Sunday school class for several years, of the unexpected answer given by one of her pupils when Mr. Maloney was marshal. "Who is president of the United States?" queried the lady. "Dan Maloney," was the prompt response. It was several minutes before the child could be corrected.
