First District Oregon congressional convention—Albany April 7th. Second district—Portland April 8th. People Party National Convention—St. Louis July 25th. State convention—Salem March 29th. ### WHY MCKINLEY IS POPULAR.

If the National Republican convention were to be held tomorrow it is more than likely that McKinley would be the nominee. Throughout the country there is an underlying feeling—more forcibly expressed in some places than others, but found nevertheless in all localities where the people are an intelligent, thinking class—that the events of the last three years have set the mark of commendation upon the course of the Ohio statesman with deeper impression than upon the other capable men of whose abilities and patriotism the party is proud to boast. In the West, where the removal of the duty on wool has caused especial distress; in the middle states, where the farmers are suffering from lessened prices because the markets for their products have been curtailed; and in the South, where the outlook for a great growth of manufacturing interests, under the workings of a Republican tariff bill, are bright, the sentiment is strong for McKinley. In the New England states, where local pride is strong and prejudice against the West not yet extinguished, Reed of Maine is in the lead, and has the support of those states where the favorite son dodge has not been worked so successfully as in Pennsylvania and New York.

The popular feeling for McKinley is easily explained—his name is linked with the policy of protection. Although a man of broad views and capable of mastering the problems that the questions of the day present, he has labored with the one end in view of bettering the American laborer, protecting the industries of the United States, and providing a sufficient revenue for the carrying on of the government, now so lamentably lacking. The soldierly qualities of McKinley, his spotless record as governor of a great state, his views and actions on other great topics, are all lost sight of for the instant, when the fact is stated that he stands as the representative and champion of the protective system.

The Republican party will go into the next campaign with the issue of protection in the foreground. Upon this, as well as other questions, the party will be united. The Republicans have made their declaration in favor of sound money, the writhings of Dubois, Teller, Jones, Stewart, and others of the senators who are determined for silver first, the country afterward, proving that they are no longer Republicans in accord with the universal sentiment of the party.

The enactment of a tariff measure which shall revive the stricken industries of the American people, and it is McKinley's championship of this policy that gives him popular prestige. It may be that when the convention meets Reed or Allison will be nominated, and either selection will make little difference in the vote cast. The people are eager for a return to the days of protection, and the man who is nominated will stand squarely upon such a platform.

Wasco county can issue a bulletin to the world that by fortune she is well favored. Upon our fertile fields the farmers are busy turning the sod and putting in the seed for a large harvest. The stock upon our "thousand hills" have suffered nothing from the winter; a good growth of grass is assured; the weather for fruit has been all that the growers could desire. In The Dalles the merchants are laying plans for a busy season. New buildings are going up, which represent an outlay of many thousands of dollars. But better than all these signs of material prosperity is the faith and confidence which the people have in the future of our city. The men who are increasing their investments have seen The Dalles under various conditions and deliberate judgment has told them that this is the place intended by nature and determined by man to be the metropolis of Eastern Oregon. The town could have no better advertisement than the faith of its citizens.

SCHOOLBOYS IN CHINA.

The Lot of the Celestial Youth is Not a Desirable One.
While modern educators are making the claim that the youths of to-day are held too close to their tasks and overfond mammas find in the confinement of the schoolroom the solution for the pallor on their children's cheeks, a knowledge of the course of study pursued by children in China might be of some value. At the age of five a Chinese boy begins his schooling. At daylight he rises, and after dressing as quickly as possible he starts breakfastless to school. He is given a task and after it is completed he is allowed an hour for breakfast. Again, later, he has an hour for luncheon, but he is at his study nearly 12 hours a day, seven days in the week.

All this time, when he is not reciting his lessons, he is studying aloud at the top of his voice. He is under the eye of his master both in school and on his way to and from school. The lad is taught rudimentary astronomy, physics and natural history, but greater stress is put upon writing and literary studies. "A Thousand Letters," a poem, is the study that forms the backbone of his literary education. In it are taught the duties of children to parents, and all such matters. Whatever the study may be—history, classics or science—every lesson is learned and repeated word for word.

ANTARCTIC CONTINENT.

Believed to Be a Land Full of High Mountains.
The hydrographic office has issued a new chart showing the limits, according to the numerous reports received at the United States hydrographic office, of the enormous ice fields encountered by mariners in those waters during the exceptionally severe years of 1892 and 1893, says the Washington Star. All of these reports agree in describing the icebergs seen during these years as colossal in height and extent and herded so closely together that any attempt to force a passage through the main body of the drift was attended by grave danger, many vessels being more or less damaged by collision and two lost.

Some of the bergs are high and perpendicular, and are regarded as of recent origin. Others are known to be old. Their character is such that they could not have been formed on low, flat lands. Scientists believe there are high mountains in the Antarctic continent.

If there is any one thing that needs to be purified, it is politics, so the reformer says, and many agree thereto. But blood tells, and as a blood purifier and liver corrector Simmons Liver Regulator is the best medicine. "I use it in preference to any other."—So wrote Mr. S. H. Hysell, of Middleport, Ohio. And Dr. D. S. Russell, of Farmville, Va., writes, "It fulfills all you promise for it."

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began to use Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all Kidney and Liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. "One trial will prove our statement. The exposure to all sorts and conditions of weather that a lumberman is called upon to endure in the camps often produces severe colds, which, if not promptly checked, result in congestion or pneumonia. Mr. J. O. Davenport, ex manager of the Fort Bragg Redwood Co., an immense institution at Fort Bragg, Cal., says they sell large quantities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the company's store and that he has himself used this remedy for a severe cold and obtained immediate relief. This medicine prevents any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia and insures a prompt recovery. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggist.

In a recent editorial the Salem, Or., Independent says: "Time and again have we seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy tried and never without the most satisfactory results. Whenever we see a person afflicted with hoarseness, with a cough or cold, we invariably advise them to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy; and when they do, they never regret it. It always does the work, and does it well." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggist.
