

A SPECIFIC FOR La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs, AND LUNG TROUBLES, AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband, reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

A CHEMICAL ENGINE.

Descriptive of Its Advantages and How It Affects Insurance.

The following explanatory letter has been received by the persons indicated concerning the chemical engine. Messrs. Saltmarsh, Lauer and Ross are the committee on fire and water of the common council, and Judd Fish, who also received a copy of the letter, chief of the board of fire delegates. Further information will be given tomorrow, which will enlighten our business men upon the details of the proposition:

R. E. Saltmarsh, Esq., Chairman Fire and Water Committee, The Dalles, Ore.
DEAR SIR:—At the request of Mr. J. S. Fisk, member of board of delegates, of The Dalles fire department, we write concerning reduction in insurance rate to be made if your city provides itself with a telegraphic fire alarm and a chemical engine.

Any general reduction in insurance rate has to be approved in writing by three-fourths of the managers of companies doing business here. This approval, however, has so far invariably been given for any reduction recommended by us.

When your city has additional protection of a properly installed fire alarm, telegraph and chemical engine, we will at once recommend a reduction of insurance rates on all property within the protection of the department, of 5 per cent.

I beg to suggest that in calculating the saving to the city, as compared with the amount to be paid out, from the installation and maintenance of above improvements, the amount of insurance premium should not be taken as a basis. Considering 5 per cent of the insurance rate as the measure or value of such improvement, it is only proper to regard the value as represented in figures by 5 per cent of, say 1 per cent of the whole value of destructible property in the city. For instance, if the average insurance rate in your city is 1 per cent, and the amount of insurance is only one-half the total value of the buildings and stock, and 5 per cent of the insurance rate (1 per cent) is the measure of the value of improvement, one-twentieth of 1 per cent of the total value of insurable property would be the amount saved by the improvement. In addition to this, however, a protection such as a chemical engine is a guard against conflagration of such magnitude as to interfere with the development of the city. If the improvement is worth to us 5 per cent of the premiums received by us, it is of equal value to such of our citizens as do not insure at all or only partially insure, and to the whole city it is worth considerably more, as it in some measure protects the city from ruin by a conflagration.

I have taken the liberty of making above suggestions, because in our experience we find that cities generally do not give sufficient consideration to the advantages of protection other than the reduction of insurance rates.

Number of fire alarm boxes necessary could, we think, be about ten, but the judgment of your fire chief should be good on this point. Horse chemicals are better than hand chemicals, because horse chemicals can carry two cylinders; while one cylinder is being exhausted, the other can be filled, and so the chemical can be continuously used throughout a fire. A chemical drawn by horses, however, should not be dependent on horses not always available, as the great advantage of the engine is in getting to a fire quickly and putting it out before it has assumed large proportions. Unless you can decide to use horses for no other purpose, we believe it will be better to have the large sized engine, which we understand, is a 100 gallon cylinder.

Please command this office if you at any time desire advice or information.
Yours respectfully,
ALFRED STILLMAN,
Chief Surveyor.

OLD GRIZZLY FINALLY KILLED.

Death of a Wild Boar Which Infested the Vicinity of Chico.

"Grizzly Bend" was the name borne for many years by that portion of the county lying along the Sacramento river southeasterly from Chico and embracing the Parrott ranch and other lands in that vicinity, says the Oroville (Cal.) Mercury. Of course, it is a long years since the grizzly held possession there, as, like the Indian, he was forced to give way before the pioneer settlers of that vicinity. A place, however, so well calculated for the home of the grizzly could not long be without its representative, even if it had to be an animal somewhat less wild and more domestic in its habits. Hogs turned loose in the swamps and morasses soon became so wild that it was dangerous for a person to be caught unawares by one of the patriarchs of the herds that infested the district.

So large and vicious had one of these fellows become that he was known and feared by all the residents in that vicinity, and for his wild nature and ferocious conduct generally had become known as "Old Grizzly," and it was claimed he was bullet-proof and couldn't be slain. Presently he fell a victim to a party of hunters who sought him with the avowed purpose of effecting his extermination.

The boar was an immense fellow and weighed 550 pounds. His tusks were long, one of them being partly broken off. The hide was over an inch thick and the shields on the shoulders were 2 1/2 inches thick. He had never been injured by dogs or gun before.

CANCER OF THE TONGUE.

How It Starts and How It Should Be Treated.

Malignancy in any part of the body is very often a provoked malady, says the Family Doctor. For instance, how frequently a malignant tumor of the mamma is ascribed by the patient to a blow—sometimes, perhaps, erroneously the Family Doctor. For instance, how correctly. Epithelioma in the upper lip is a very rare disease; in the lower one it is very common. The structure of the two lips is identical; the pipe of the smoker is equally in contact with both; but the lower one is movable and is often bitten or otherwise marred by the teeth, which is rarely the case with the upper. Thus long-continued irritation and slow inflammation of certain parts—the tongue being a conspicuous example—may, in a goodly proportion of instances, lay the foundation or be the earlier steps of a very terrible disease. Grant this, and it will be seen how essential it is to watch such chronic glossitis very closely, to allay irritation, and more especially to avoid all irritating applications. Thus, if the patient smokes, if he takes highly-spiced food, he should be directed to discontinue or greatly modify these habits; if he have rough and bad teeth, the defects must be corrected. In treating fissures, ulcers, etc., nitrate of silver or sulphate of copper must especially be avoided. The mouth should be washed after each meal; boracic acid or bismuth lotions may be used.

Cognac, the distilled liquor, takes its name from the small city of Cognac, in France. The spirit has made Cognac very rich; the population of no other city on earth can show as large a proportion of millionaires. The rich liquor is distilled from wine only, and experience teaches that excellence of quality is obtained only when the crude, old-fashioned distilling apparatus is used.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. You hear it almost everywhere, and read it in the newspapers, that Simmons Liver Regulator is the best liver remedy, and the best Spring medicine, and the best blood medicine. "Only medicine of any consequence that I use is Simmons Liver Regulator."—So wrote Mr. R. A. Cobb, of Morgantown, N. C. And W. F. Park, M. D., of Tracy City, Tenn, writes: "Simmons Liver Regulator is the best."

Geo. W. Jenkins, editor of the Santa Maria "Times," Cal., in speaking of the various ailments of children said: "When my children have croup there is only one patent medicine I ever use, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It possesses some medicinal properties that relieve the little sufferers immediately. It is, in my opinion, the best cough medicine in the market." If this remedy is freely given as soon as the croup cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is also an ideal remedy for whooping cough. There is no danger in giving it to children, as it contains nothing injurious. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.
