CUBAN RESOLUTIONS

The Senate Listened to Two Speeches Yesterday.

LINDSAY WOULD AID THE CUBANS

Even to the Extent of Intervention by This Country—Sherman Closed the Debate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The senate galleries were well filled today in anticipation of the culmination of the Cuban debate, the final vote being set for 4 o'clock. Shortly after the session opened Representative Hitt, chairman of the house committee on foreign relations, was in whispered conference at Sherman's desk.

Allen withdrew his resolution for the appointment of Mr. Lloyd as a senate official, after a discussion as to adding a populist official to the rolls.

Sherman then moved that the Cuban resolutions be taken up. This prevailed without objection.

Chairman Hitt remained alongside Sherman as the debate proceeded.

The floor was yielded for the adoption of a conference report on the pension appropriation bill, and also the passage of a bill relating to the anchorage and movement of vessels in St. Mary's river.

Lindsay then addressed the senate on the Cuban resolutions. He said the conflict in Cuba was being waged with such desperation that only one of two results could come, either the complete independence of Cuba, on one hand, or the utter annihilation of the Cuban people on the other. The senator said he approached the subject from the standpoint of humanity rather than the law. Declarations of sympathy would avail nothing to the Cubans. The declaration that they had progressed to the stage of belligerents would avail nothing.

"If the United States intends taking any steps that will avail these struggling Cubans, those steps should be in the direction of the ultimate independence of Cuba," declared Lindsay in stentorian tones. "In the past the United States has not hesitated to take a position recognizing the independence under circumstances similar to those now existing in Cuba, thus justifying the United States in considering the proposition for active intervention to restore public order in behalf of humanity. But the resolution, he urged, did not contemplate active intervention. It extended our good offices to Spain with a view of securing the ultimate independence of Cuba. Spain contemplated the annihilation of all able-bodied men in Cuba in order to crush this uprising. Spain owed Cuba as much as Turkey owes to Armenia, or as the United States owes to Venezuela, the duty of protection, and if this protection is not given then the point has been reached when the United States should move for the severance of Cuba from Spain."

At 1:15 Sherman began his speech closing the debate. He said he felt the time had come when the United States must intervene to put an end to a crime almost beyond description. He referred to the several pamphlets presented by Estrada Palma, agent and representative of the Cubans in this country, and said these statements overcame the misapprehension that the Cubans were scattered and unorganized bands. It showed the organization of the legislature of Cuba and the election of a president, the latter a man of high character. It was as complete an organization as the United States had during the Revolutionary war. In the course of his speech he declared he did not favor Cuba's annexation to the United States, but strongly favored annexation to Mexico, a kindred people.

In the House.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The house went into a committee of the whole today immediately after reading the journal and took up the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, thus temporarily postponing the Cuban discussion.

"GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN."
A Story Which, if True, Surpasses That of Damon and Pythias.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—A special from Springfield, Mo., says:

Professor Homer Fuller, of Drury college, announces that he has received a singular proposition from a wealthy Massachusetts man, whose identity he would not disclose. The man offers Drury a large sum of money if he will verify the truth of a war incident which is alleged to have taken place in Missouri, and which, if true, the Massachusetts man thinks, equals the story of Damon and Pythias. The president announces that the college will accept the offer and requests students to help him secure positive evidence if such a thing really did occur.

The story is that in the early part of the war a detachment of Confederate troops in Missouri took about 4,000 Union prisoners. Twelve of these prisoners were lined up and shot without provocation by the Confederate officers. Upon hearing of this act the commander of the federal regiment drafted 12 Confederate prisoners to be shot in retaliation. As the line was being formed a young man named William Lear, stepped forward and asked permission to take the place of one of the condemned men, who was his friend. The request was granted, and Lear was shot in place of his friend.

Vote Was Decisive.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—By the overwhelming vote of 64 to 6 the senate today adopted a concurrent resolution favorable to Cuban belligerency and independence. The resolutions adopted are as follows:

"Resolved, By the senate, the house of representatives concurring, that, in the opinion of congress, a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba; and, that the United States of America should maintain a strict neutrality between the contending powers, according to each all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territory of the United States.

"Resolved, That the friendly offices of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba."

If there is any one thing that needs to be purified, it is politics, so the reformer says, and many agree thereto. But blood tells, and as a blood purifier and liver corrector Simmons Liver Regulator is the best medicine. "I use it in preference to any other."—So wrote Mr. S. H. Hysell, of Middleport, Ohio. And Dr. D. S. Russell, of Farmville, Va., writes, "It fulfills all you promise for it."
