PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Cuban Resolutions Adopted by a large Majority.

PRESENTED BY CHAIRMAN HITT

Strong Feeling in Their Favor Throughout the Debate—Why a Substitute Was Offered.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The resolutions of the foreign affairs committee of the house were adopted today by a vote of 265 to 18.

THE DEBATE.

Resolutions Were Called Up By Chairman Hitt.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representative Hitt called up in the house the Cuban concurrent resolution. The motion to proceed to the consideration at once of the resolution carried—175 to 19.

Hitt in calling up the Cuban resolutions did not offer the last resolution pledging the support of congress to the executive in any action the president might take.

Several members were calling for recognition.

Boutelle renewed his objection of Friday. He was saying he regretted very much to be obliged to differ with his friend, the chairman of the foreign affairs committee, but on a matter of such gravity he must insist upon deliberation when there were loud cries of "Regular Order."

The temper of the house was indicated in his manner toward Boutelle.

The motion carried—175 to 19.

Bailey asked unanimous consent that the debate be extended to 5 o'clock. "No, No," came in chorus.

At Hitt's request, however, 35 minutes were allowed on it.

The speaker rapped the house to order, and Hitt opened the debate in a 10 minute speech. The resolutions had been considered with great care by the committee, he said, and was matured and ripened after weeks of deliberation. They presented what the committee thought the best possible action. As to the senate resolutions, for which these were offered as a substitute, the first was practically identical with the first of the resolutions. The second senate resolution directing the minister to use his good offices with Spain for the recognition of Cuba's independence was unwise in his opinion. How long would Great Britain or any other country, he asked, tolerate a request that she recognize the independence of one of her colonies. It would be accepted as an ineffectual interference. As to the fact that a state of war existed in Cuba, there was no question. Our consular reports proved that. The Cubans were desperate, unconquerable. There was no time in the 10 years' war when they were in such a strong position. Spain had but a third, possibly a fourth of the island. If we were neutrals, as between belligerents, Cubans could purchase in our markets as well as Spain. At present we were bound to exercise diligence to prevent a Cuban expedition leaving our ports. He argued that Spain could take no offense. Spain recognized the Confederacy before the battle of Bull Run. Belligerency, he said, would give Spain the right to search American vessels. They could carry men, but not munitions of war.

McCart expressed the opinion that we should do all in our power to give independence to Cuba against the cruel despotism.

Adams said the time had unquestionably come for action. The most illustrious Spanish general had failed to put down the revolutionists, and General Weyler, a butcher, had been sent to annihilate them. The patriots of Cuba had called on the mother of republics, and we should not hesitate.

Sulzer said the Cubans had a government. They maintained 4000 troops in the field and had won decisive battles. We did not know what was going on, because Spain had established a censorship of the press and cable that was an insult to the civilized world.

Americans in Spain.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Spanish-American situation, growing out of the reports of riots at Barcelona and other cities in Spain, was regarded so seriously by the president that a special meeting of the cabinet was held last night, though the call was issued under the guise of a dinner at Secretary Olney's.

Secretary Olney read a letter from Minister De Lome, inclosing a cable message received from his government, directing the Spanish minister to inform the United States government that Spain was exerting all her power to amply protect the United States legation and consuls, and he could give an assurance that they would be protected from any harm. Also Americans visiting and residing in Spain would be safe from the attacks of mobs and other riotous assemblages.

Another communication created profound surprise. It was a message from the Spanish minister of foreign affairs at Madrid, insisting that the United States government disavow the action of the senate as a condition to continued friendly relations between the two governments. The president and cabinet ministers present were inclined to excuse the message, to some extent, upon the basis of ignorance of the United States and their form of government.

The only result of the conference was a practical agreement that the secretary of state should promptly respond in kindly terms to the communication of Minister De Lome, and thank his government for its readiness to protect Americans and American interests in Spain. The demand for a disclaimer of the senate's resolutions will be ignored.

The secretary of the navy, purely as a measure of precaution, will bring an efficient fleet of war vessels near enough together to mass them promptly at any point that may be threatened.

A cablegram from Minister Taylor reached Secretary Olney early yesterday evening as follows:

"The minister of state has just called to express his deep regret that the mob insulted the Barcelona consulate by breaking the windows, and offered a complete reparation. He informed me the government, on its own motion, had taken every precaution to guard the legation and my residence. I have asked for no protection."

It is, perhaps, in part owing to these official advices that the excitement in Spain over the action of the United States senate, leading up to the insult to the United States consulate at Barcelona, fails to find a corresponding reflex in Washington, at least in official circles.

Almost everywhere the feeling is that the affair is not one which necessarily must lead to hostilities.

BUDS, Society buds, young women, just entering the doors of society or womanhood, require the wisest care. To be beautiful and charming they must have perfect health, with all it implies—a clear skin, rosy cheeks, bright eyes and good spirits. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, backache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best restorative tonic and nerve tonic at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy especially indicated for those delicate weaknesses and derangements that afflict womanhood at one period or another. You'll find that the woman who has faithfully used the "Prescription" is the picture of health, she looks well and she feels well.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic displacements common to women, where there are symptoms of backache, dizziness or fainting, bearing down sensations, disordered stomach, moodiness, fatigue, etc., the trouble is surely dispelled and the sufferer brought back to health and good spirits.

"WOMAN'S ILLS."

Mrs. W. R. BATES, of Danvers, Vermont, writes: "A few years ago I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has been a great benefit to me. I am in excellent health now. I hope that every woman, who is troubled with 'women's ills,' will try the 'Prescription' and be benefited as I have been."
