MITCHELL'S ONE MISTAKE.

Political attention throughout the state is being centered upon Multnomah county, where a battle royal is in progress between the friends of Senator Mitchell and those who are opposing his re-election. From the declarations made on both sides, the contest must be a bitter one, and it will take a large application of political salve to soothe the wounds the fight will cause. Not only are the interests of Senator Mitchell involved, but the question who is to be the Republican boss of Multnomah county will be decided at the coming primaries. A feeling has grown up against Joe Simon which has assumed threatening proportions, till it looks as though the days of the little boss were over. Simon, while he has made no public statement, it is understood is not friendly to the re-election of Mitchell.

For the reason that Portland dominates the politics of the state to a large extent, because of its greater representation in representative bodies, the situation elicits general interest, and the coming primaries will have a direct bearing upon the choice of senator. While it is true that no man has possessed popular favor to a greater degree among the people of Oregon than Senator Mitchell, yet his election this time is by no means free from difficulties. It is believed, and rightly so, that however well Mitchell represents the people of Oregon upon other questions, his course regarding the national finances has been at variance with the best judgment of the people in the state. Oregon is not a free silver state, and were a vote to be taken tomorrow, such a proposition would be overwhelmingly defeated. The idea of a sound currency—one that will not fluctuate as the market price of silver changes—is prevalent, and upon no occasion has there been an epidemic of free silver such as has overtaken some Western states. For these reasons Mr. Mitchell enters the senatorial race handicapped, and his friends—and no man has more active ones—will have a task made difficult by Senator Mitchell's own actions, and which otherwise would have been easy.

WHO WILL LEAD IT?

Who aspires to be the Democratic Moses to lead the tribes of free trade out of the bondage into which they have placed themselves, asks the Spokesman-Review? Scarcely four months more and the remnants of the legions who placed their faith in Grover Cleveland, irreverently called by many the "stuffed prophet," will seek for light in the same halls which heard the third nominating speeches for the gentleman in the White house. Some strange spell has fallen over the Democracy, for history fails to reveal a campaign where candidates have been so scarce and the supporters so cold as in the one approaching.

There is timber in the Democratic party for a candidate of average caliber; there are astute politicians in the ranks who understand all the tricks of the trade, but there are none who have yet developed an overmastering desire to be led up to the inevitable slaughter which will follow the rout of next November.

Bland of Missouri has been mentioned in a few quarters, but he was unable to carry his own district in the last election; ex-Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania is another, and the East is asked to flock to his support, but he was overwhelmingly defeated for the mayoralty of Philadelphia, his home city; Secretary Carlisle finds favor in the councils of those who would rule the country through the money power, but he is not considered by the masses, and William Whitney, the millionaire and ex-cabinet officer, is also a possibility, but a reluctant one. There is no talk of David B. Hill, Democrat, for he is a dethroned leader in his own state, and the country has had enough of New York Democracy to last it for awhile.

Where, then, does the Democracy expect to find its political Moses? It would confer a lasting favor on the country if some leader possessed enough blind ambition to announce his candidacy, for the Republicans could then figure on their majority with better grace.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:
