BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Forecast—Tonight and tomorrow, fair and warmer.

Rev. A. Bronsgeest will hold services next Sunday at Kingsley.

Free to any of our friends who call at our store tomorrow, a shamrock. A. M. Williams & Co.

Hit-or-Miss social at the M. E. church tonight. See program in another column. Admission 15 cents.

The Elks will hold a meeting tonight, at which two or three young men of the city will have horns adjusted to their heads.

Remember the entertainment at St. Mary's Academy Tuesday evening. A fine program, including a dramatic production, with proper stage setting and all accessories.

Mrs. J. J. Hogan has again opened her photograph gallery with a complete new stock, and is prepared to show the latest in photography to the public. The general public is invited to call.

THE CHRONICLE will commence a serial story in its weekly issue of Saturday next, entitled "A Question of Courage." It is of thrilling interest and should be widely read. Watch for it.

Rev. Roland D. Grant, who will address the citizens of The Dalles on the subject of "Romanism" next Friday evening, announces that he will have something to say regarding the late school elections throughout the state, and Portland in particular.

Several sheepsman of the Antelope section have pledged themselves to pay not more than five cents a head for shearing sheep, exclusive of board. At the meeting they also discouraged the use of poison in killing coyotes, by withdrawing the bounty, on account of sheep dogs being killed by strychnine.

Workmen in tearing down the warehouse next to Williams & Co.'s store observed that the foundation was charred, and had been through fire. Inquiry developed the fact that it was the last building attacked by fire in the big conflagration of 1888, which destroyed the old Baptist church, the Congregational church and several business and residence blocks. The firemen succeeded in putting out the blaze at this old warehouse, saving the foundation only, and this was used in erecting a new building.

Republican Club's Good Work.

A large number of Republicans met in the council chambers Saturday evening to be present at the McKinley club meeting. This club bids fair to be an active element in the coming campaign, and its membership is increasing very fast. A spirit of good will and fellowship is apparent among Republicans this year that will make them a mighty engine of reform. Prominent in the work are the Republican clubs of the country under the various names they adopt of prominent American Republicans. And prominent in The Dalles is the McKinley club. At the Saturday night meeting many good speeches were made. It was decided by a vote of 9 to 7 that a rally be held the night before the county convention, at which the country delegates are invited. A motion was also carried that hereafter no initiation fee will be charged for membership in the club.

"Hit or Miss."

The following is the program for the "Hit-or-Miss" social at the M. E. church this evening:

Another Old Pioneer Gone.

News was received in this city today of the death of Col. James Fulton at his home at Des Chules. He died at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Col. Fulton would have been 80 years old had he lived until tomorrow. He was one of the very oldest of Oregon pioneers, having come to the state in 1845, settling in Yamhill county. In 1849 he went to California during the gold excitement, returning to Oregon with considerable wealth, gained by his success in the gold fields. He removed to Wasco county in 1858, and has lived here ever since. He laid out Fulton's addition to The Dalles, and the old house where he used to reside yet stands, but a little back from its former position. For many years it was the only house upon the bluff. He also laid out the town of Fultonville, in Wasco county, and the orchards which he planted are vigorous and flourishing. Col. Fulton was an old Indian war veteran and commanded a company at Yakima, which did valiant service in the early struggles with savage foes. He was also prominent in political life, having been a member of the Oregon legislature in earlier years.

His children are James Fulton, David Fulton and Frank Fulton of Sherman county, one of whom is county judge and the others prominent stockraisers of the county. Miss Anna Fulton and Mrs. Isaac Scholl are daughters, also Mrs. H. P. Isaacs, late of Isaacs' mills, in Walla Walla, a large flouring establishment. The latter was also a proprietor of the Umatilla House before the days of Handley & Sinnott.

Col. Fulton has served his country faithfully for over two generations, and now full of years and honors, willingly surrenders his life to Him who gave it. His usefulness has been accomplished, his life work done. He departs this life with few regrets for the past, and now enters into that rest earned by a life of toil and hardships and duty performed to himself and fellow-man.

Mr. A. Bunnell Suffers Paralysis.

Mr. A. Bunnell, formerly of The Dalles, suffered a complete stroke of paralysis at Lewiston, Idaho, on the 9th inst. He seemed to be in perfect health up to the time of the stroke, and had just recovered from an attack of la grippe. The stroke deprives him of the use of every muscle and of speech.

Mr. Bunnell had been in the tinware business in The Dalles since 1861 until seven years ago, and resided here four years after that time, when he removed to Lewiston. Mr. Dennis Bunnell received the sad news Saturday that he was no better.

Woman's Relief Corps.

A most enjoyable event of past week was the entertainment given Saturday evening by the Woman's Relief Corps. At an early hour the hall was filled with young and old. The program was not only carried out as published to the satisfaction of all, but additions were made to it that rounded out a delightful evening. Mrs. Alice Varney presided. Miss Georgia Sampson rendered a delightful piano solo. The Misses Edna Van Dyke and Pearl Jones gave a duet, while Nellie and Lora McHaley contributed with sweet childish voices a war song. The recitation by Miss Jennie Russell was warmly applauded. "Asleep at the Switch" by Wm. Rasmus emphasized his ability to depict tragedy, pathos and humor, for the recitation abounded in all these. The reading by Mrs. Phillips and recitation by Masters Webb Varney and Walter Reeves was well received. A beautiful collation was served, and old army songs were sung. A goodly sum was taken at the door, which will be used for the benefit of the needy.

Saw the Wrong Show.

A small boy of The Dalles worked hard all day and got together 15 cents to see the orang outang, which has been on exhibition at the opera house for several days. He was in a perfect fever of anticipation, and when he entered the door was so intent upon being delighted that he looked neither to the right or left, but supposing the show was in the opera house proper, passed through the room where it really was, opened a door which communicates with the main hall, and went in through the wings of the stage and dressing rooms where the "Spanish Students" were preparing to give their entertainment, down the stage stairs, and took a front parquet seat where he could get a good view. He listened through the two hours of musical entertainment, ever looking for the introduction of the orang outang, but the nearest to any gymnastic antics he observed was the dancing of the Taylor sisters, and he was disappointed. He went away puzzled and undone. When he went home his parents asked him how he liked the orang outang. "Well," says the boy, "I got it wrong some way. I seen the whole show, and if there was any orang outang about it I don't know where it came in. 'Peared to me like it was just a drama of some kind."
