BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Forecast—This afternoon, tonight and Friday, rain and cooler.

The east approach to the D. P. & A. N. Co.'s warehouse is completed.

The Pacific Corset Co. will occupy the upstairs of the old Chronicle building on the 1st of April.

Mr. C. M. Grimes shipped three carloads of cattle and one of hogs to the Union meat market last night.

Today is ladies' day at the Commercial club. The conditions of admittance have previously been published.

The residence and contents of Mr. J. A. Soesbe at Hood River was totally destroyed by fire yesterday; insurance $550; net loss $850.

A quiet marriage took place last night at the Methodist parsonage, the contracting parties being Mr. S. L. Young and Miss Virginia Ordway, both of Hood River.

Contractor Ehrichsen, two foremen, W. G. Fleming and E. J. Bryant, and a force of men started this morning for Wapinitia to commence work on the McCoy ditch.

Wm. A. Langille and Ed. Williams of Hood River began a survey today of a suitable route to Clond Cap Inn, preparatory to establishing between Hood River and that point a telephone line.

Mrs. Edith Judy, wife of George Judy, died at Mosier last night of consumption. She is the daughter of Mr. Rees Prathar, and has numerous relatives in that section. The funeral will take place tomorrow.

The Commercial Club comes in for a share of the congratulations over the good news from Washington. It illustrates anew the fact that when a number of men combine to make a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether, the desired result is achieved.

News is received today that Hon. A. S. Bennett has some very formidable opponents in his case before the United States supreme court, which was to have been tried Saturday, being no less persons than Senator Thurston and Attorney Dillon, the leading railroad corporation attorney of the United States.

Mr. Ed. Egbert and brother brought in a mastodon tooth last night, which they found in excavating for a grade one and a half miles this side of the new bridge crossing the Deschutes. The bones of the animal were traced, though they crumbled on exposure to the air. The skeleton was found in a bed of clay.

Crook Hansen, a well-known miner, who spends his winters in The Dalles and summers in the British Columbia mining district, left this morning on one of his annual trips. He took three pack horses laden with camp supplies and crossed the ferry to the Washington side. His location is the Silver creek country, and it will require ten or twelve days to accomplish the trip. It is said he has been very successful.

A telegram came today announcing that Joseph Fox of Salem had died, informing Miss Nellie Fox of this city of the event. She was in considerable distress of mind this morning, but there was a faint hope that it was not her father, owing to the first name. The telegram said Joseph Fox, whereas her father's name is F. C. C. Fox. A telephone message came this afternoon that the real name is Jerome Fox, hence it was not Miss Nellie's father. Mrs. Fox lives out in the country near Hood River and will be spared the anxiety of the first news, which terminated so happily for her and the daughter.

Good Intent Society Resolutions.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Good Intent Society of the Methodist church at their regular meeting yesterday:

WHEREAS, On the 11th day of March, 1896, Sister Julia Taylor, our beloved sister in the church and co-worker in the Good Intent Society, bade adieu to family and friends on earth, and went from us to be at home with the family of God in heaven; be it

Resolved, That while we mourn the irretrievable loss which we suffered in the death of Sister Taylor, we lift our burdened hearts in prayer to Him who doeth all things well, for grace to say, "Thy will be done," and bless Him through our tears, for we would not have it otherwise, as we know "earth is poorer for her going, but heaven is richer."

Resolved, That we praise our Father in heaven for that Christian faith and strength which armed our sister with courage to look without dread into the "unveiled face of death," and in the last hour sound the note of triumph. "All is well."

Resolved, That we, the members of the Good Intent Society, pray the Lord of the harvest that He raise up some one of our number upon whom the mantle of our departed sister may fall, and show that God buries His workmen, but carries on His work.

Resolved, That we kneel with the grief-stricken husband at God's altar and say: "The Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord," whose mercy endureth forever and whose voice is ever whispering to the disconsolate, "I love thee, I love thee, pass under the rod."

Resolved, That our secretary be instructed to spread the resolutions on the records of our society and request their publication in THE CHRONICLE and Times-Mountaineer and a copy sent to Mr. Henry Taylor.

OPENING OF THE LOCKS.

Senator Mitchell's Bill Passes the Senate for the Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mch 19, '96. Special to THE CHRONICLE.]

EDITOR CHRONICLE, The Dalles, Or.;

My resolution providing the immediate use of twenty thousand dollars to construct safeguards essential to the early opening of the canal and locks to traffic, passed the senate today and goes to the house for action, where it will doubtless pass. This will insure the opening of the locks to boats, the engineers and contractors assure me, early in May.

The above special telegram was received by THE CHRONICLE office shortly after noon today, and is the most substantial encouragement which has arisen since the agitation began. It covers the whole ground, and nothing THE CHRONICLE can say would offer added encouragement or give further information. Senator Mitchell deserves the greatest praise for his heroic efforts, which were brought to such a prompt and satisfactory issue.

Mr. Gourlay's Lecture.

A large audience greeted Mr. Hugh Gourlay last night to listen to his lecture on "Civil and Religious Liberty vs. A. P. A. ism." Father Brongeeest and many Catholics were present, as well as members of all or no denominations. Taking up history and showing the carnage on the field of battle over religious wars, he concluded with this climax: "If the Catholic church had its St. Bartholomew, Protestants also had their Smithfield; if the Catholics had their Torquemada, Protestantism also had its Henry VIII." The speaker denied the pope's interference in politics, quoting authorities as far back as the Eighth century. Pope Gregory, Mr. Gourlay claimed, speaking to the emperor of Rome, claimed the state must not interfere in ecclesiastical, nor would the church interfere in temporal affairs. Daniel O'Connor of Ireland said: "We take our religion from the church of Rome, but no pope nor priest has the right to dictate our politics."

The following are some of Mr. Gourlay's statements crystallized:

If I thought the Catholics owed primary allegiance to the pope, I would go farther than the A. P. A. and deny them even the franchise.

The civil or religious liberty of no protestant was ever denied in any American colony under Catholic jurisdiction. No Catholic was ever a traitor to the United States.

Half of Geo. Washington's army were Catholic.

Father Corby, chaplain of an Irish Union regiment in the civil war, thus addressed his command just before entering one of the bloodiest carnages of the rebellion: "I now grant absolution to all who fall fighting on the battle field before us, and I deny absolution to any one of the Catholic faith who shall turn his back to the Stars and Stripes."

Mr. Gourlay also made the following challenge: "I have $100 for the public charities if any A. P. A. of this county will prove before a committee of three lawyers of this city, selected as an arbitration committee, that the pope ever recognized the Southern Confederacy other than the mere polite form of address in a letter to Jefferson Davis, "To Jefferson Davis, president of the states of the Southern Confederacy." The lecturer spoke nearly three hours and was frequently applauded.

PERSONAL MENTION.
