

LOSS OF VOICE After Acute Bronchitis CURED BY USING AYER'S Cherry Pectoral A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.

W. E. BUNNELL DROWNED.

Blown From an Open Boat at Taylor's Landing.
W. E. Bunnell, a rancher, 35 years old formerly of The Dalles, and well known to many of our citizens, was accidentally drowned in the Columbia river at about 12:40 yesterday afternoon, near Taylor's landing, and his body was carried away by the current, and may not be recovered for some time, if ever. The following particulars are gleaned from the Oregonian.

Bunnell and his brother-in-law, M. G. McCary, had been up to Cascade Locks, to which place Bunnell had arranged to move his family, and both were returning in an open boat, to Taylor's landing, near which place Bunnell has a ranch. The wind was blowing almost a hurricane down the river at the time, and one gust carried off McCary's hat, landing it on the shore. The boat was pulled to the shore, where McCary jumped off, leaving Bunnell alone in the boat.

The boat drifted out into the stream a little way, and while standing up in the boat, through some inexplicable reason, Bunnell either lost his balance or was blown overboard. Anyhow, McCary and others on the shore were horrified to see Bunnell struggling in the water, and making vain endeavors to reach the shore. The heavy wind had created a choppy sea, that appeared to choke the drowning man, and, after struggling for nearly ten minutes, he sank for the last time, and was not seen again.

The men on the shore were powerless to render any assistance, there being no other boat near, and the poor man was seen to drown within sight of all, though several desperate efforts were made to reach him.

The dead man leaves a widow and two children—a boy about 14 and a girl about 11 years old. Dennis Bunnell of this city is a brother of the drowned man.

TWINS ON A DOORSTEP.

A Portland Man Surprised as Mr. Farley Was.

Mr. J. G. Farley thinks he isn't in it now. Thursday morning Mr. B. F. Mansfield of Snymside was presented with a beautiful pair of twins under extraordinary circumstances. The Telegram relates the following particulars:

Miss Lucy Mansfield, the eldest daughter, stepped to the front door for the morning milk about 7 o'clock. Beside the can she beheld a large and handsome wicker basket holding two very handsome infants. The sight startled her, and she called for her father, who came out and carried the basket into the house. The bedding in the basket and the dresses of the babes—a boy and a girl, both about a week old—were of the costliest material. Pinned to the pink coverlet beneath a gossamer blanket, was a note written in a beautiful hand, and evidently penned by a woman of some education. It read as follows:

"Kind Friends: These children were born in holy wedlock, but their father is far away from the scene. I also am a stranger in your midst, having lived in Portland a month only. For reasons I cannot explain, I am compelled to consign my little ones to your care, and I pray you care well for them, so that the blessing of God may rest upon you.

"Herein I inclose $20 for their first month's care, and a similar sum will be transmitted to you on the first of every month hereafter.

"Should anything befall my children, or should you at any time remove from your present home, communicate such fact to 'Alpha and Omega,' care of the Anglo-Californian bank at San Francisco, Cal.

"In time, if conditions permit, I will make myself known to you. But should such time never arrive, I assure you that the children will have a good competency when reaching their majority. You also shall be better rewarded for what kindnesses you may bestow upon them. May God bless you and my little ones from whom I am parted by cruel fate."

The letter bore no signature, and the Mansfields are at a loss to account for their selection to carry out the mission imposed upon them. They haven't the remotest idea who the mother of the twins is, but as they are not well provided with worldly goods, the promised $20 a month will prove a help to them. The mother is presumably well to do, and from her fortune rewards are expected.

THE CHURCHES.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. O. D. Taylor, in his morning sermon at the Baptist church spoke from Exodus xiii:18, "And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him, for he had straightly sworn the children of Israel saying, God will surely visit you, and ye shall carry up my bones away hence with you." In his youth Joseph was taught the promise of God that he would bring Israel into the land of Canaan. God also visited him in a dream in which he was told of his mission to his own people. The promise of God he never doubted, and though his people had been brought down to Egypt and he was about to die by faith he commanded that his bones should be carried to the promised land. While he was confronted by the promise, he did not neglect the duties laid upon him in the vision, and as a brother to his own brethren, a slave in the household of Potiphar, a prisoner in a dungeon of Egypt, a next in power to the king on the throne, he maintained his integrity and was diligent in his service. The people of God, like the Israel of old, have regarded themselves as pilgrims and strangers in this world. Here we have no continuing city, but we seek the city whose maker and builder is God. By faith we lay hold upon the exceeding great and precious promises, and meet the trials of life with fortitude, even as Moses endured as seeing him who is invisible, while we wait the promised coming of the Son of Man in his glory who shall take us across the Jordan of death to dwell with him forever in the paradise of God.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Rev. W. C. Curtis took for his evening text, "No One Has Hired Us." Familiarizing the scriptural idea by an application from practical life, he stated that in times of industrial depression there are people who wait for labor and apparently accomplish no purpose in life. But this period of inertia is to be regarded as a preparation, and the trial as a blessing in disguise, fitting their minds to do the work appointed them in a more satisfactory manner when the time ripens for them to do it. The music at both morning and evening services was exceptionally good, Miss Gladys Jones volunteering to assist with vocal solos. In the evening Miss Jones and Mr. R. G. Davenport sang a duet to a very large and appreciative audience.

An Ingenious Representation.

Ernest Jensen has ingeniously fitted up a representation in miniature of Pease & Mays' store, which will be on exhibition in the window on the Federal street side of the store this evening. Don't miss it. Just step around the corner and you will get a sight of something worth seeing. The representation is made entirely of groceries, showing the two stories of the building, three door fronts, plate glass windows, street, sidewalk and all. The familiar face of R. B. Hood will be seen gazing out of one of the upper story windows and other windows will show various domestic arrangements. Ernest is a genius.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed on exhibit at the world's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the world's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."
