OUR ENMITY TOWARDS ENGLAND

History has continually noted, and the events of the past few months have emphasized the dislike which Americans, as a people, feel for England. Since the days when the first mutterings of discontent were heard among the colonists at the exactions of the mother country, the attitude of the people on this continent towards the English nation has been one of antipathy. One of the conclusions to which the children of our schools first come is that America and England are arrayed against one another in enmity. The causes that led to the Revolution are grasped by the childish mind far better than the important occurrences of later times. While not the result of intention on the part of historians, the effect upon the minds of the school children from the study of history is to create prejudices against England which later years do not overcome.

Such conclusions are right, and are justified by the treatment England has given our people since the beginning of American settlement. A good deal has been written of late about this universal feeling on the part of Americans, (the class known as Anglomaniacs alone excepted) and some writers have sought to ascertain the cause of this unfriendly feeling which the Americans possess. The real cause of enmity between these peoples of the same blood can, as is stated by one historian, be expressed by the figures 1861-5. The action of the government during these years of trouble for the United States was most reprehensible.

We remember with gratitude John Bright, Mr. Cobden, and those other statesmen, few in number, who refused to sanction the efforts for disunion. We shall never forget the friendliness of the Queen and the Prince consort who used their great influence to allay the British feeling which threatened war after the Trent affair. But the list of our friends in that hour is soon exhausted. On the other hand we are compelled to remember the pronounced feeling of the social and political leaders of both parties.

The "Alabama" got to sea in spite of the warnings of our representatives at the English court, the sympathy of the statesmen being understood by the silent approval that attended the action of Mr. Laird, who, as a member of parliament, rose from his seat and boasted that it was he who built the Alabama. The building of iron clads for Confederate service went boldly on in England, and was not checked till our minister, Mr. Adams, wrote to Earl Russell: "It would be superfluous to point out to your lordship that this is war."

These actions of England during the civil war did untold damage to the North. Our commerce was swept from the seas and the place it occupied has never been regained. The struggle was prolonged longer than it otherwise would have been had it not been for the encouragement given the South by England.

The material injury done this country by England was supposedly adjusted by the Geneva conference, but the reparation could not be made alone by money. Those who suffered the horrors of that deadly war; those who lost father, brother or friend, and those of the younger generation who read the story of that black period will remember England's culpable deeds and think of her still with feelings of dislike. All talk of good feeling between these nations will prove vain. England has always been our enemy; she is now, and unless the economic and political conditions change, she always will be.

OLD TALES RE-TOLD.

The work of the scraper on Third street revives hopes long since supposed to be dead. May these hopes be faithfully and constantly nourished in the soul of every true lover of our town and country, till their brightest fruition will be realized! In roads, as in many other things, "the shape's the thing." Given a well-rounded form, no chuck holes, a place for rain to drip over into and be carried off without obstacle, and the problem is solved. Some soils make better roads than others, it is true, but the above conditions assured, and the rest will easily follow.

Who that has listened to a traveller returned from a Scandinavian town can ever forget the enthusiasm that follows every reference to the perfect roads. In that strip of sea sand we call Denmark the problem was a different one. Many expedients were tried before the sand was successfully combated. Finally, upon the well-shaped road bed, fagots of twigs were laid, the trimmings of trees, such as in The Dalles we have carted down to the beach for bon-fires. This has proven eminently satisfactory, is inexpensive, easily repaired and far more enduring than gravel.

An approach to this method of treating sandy soil is made by our neighbors of Walla Walla county, the surplus of whose straw stacks is being spread upon the roads, greatly modifying the dust and the liability of rut and chuck-hole cutting.

DO YOU EXPECT To Become a Mother? If so, then permit us to say that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is indicated, a true "Mother's Friend," FOR IT MAKES Childbirth Easy by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening Labor. The painful ordeal of childbirth is robbed of its terrors, and the dangers thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted.

Send 2 cents for a large Book (163 pages), giving all particulars. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

PAINLESS CHILD BIRTH. Mrs. FRED HUNT, of Glenville, N. Y., says: "I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription being so good for a woman with child, so I got two bottles last September, and December 13th I had a twelve pound baby girl. When I was confined I was not sick in any way. I did not suffer any pain, and when the child was born I walked into another room and went to bed. I keep your Extract of Smart-Weed on hand all the time. It was very cold weather and our room was very cold but I did not take any cold, and never had any after-pain or any other pain. It was all due to God and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Compound Extract of Smart-Weed. This is the eighth living child and the largest of them all. I suffered everything that flesh could suffer with the other babies. I always had a doctor and then he could not help me very much, but this time my mother and my husband were alone with me. My baby was only seven days old when I got up and dressed and left my room and stayed up all day."

You hear it almost everywhere, and read it in the newspapers, that Simmons Liver Regulator is the best liver remedy, and the best Spring medicine, and the best blood medicine. "The new medicine of any consequence that - use is Simmons Liver Regulator." - So wrote Mr. R. A. Cobb, of Morgantown, N. C. And W. F. Park, M. D., of Tracy City, Tenn. writes: "Simmons Liver Regulator is the best."
