THE TEARING-DOWN STATESMEN

While the Republican party is embarrassed with riches, Democratic candidates for the presidency are neither numerous nor pervasive, says the New York Tribune. The worshippers of Mr. Cleveland continue to represent that nobody else can save his party, but there are men who would like to save it if they could. Secretary Carlisle might be persuaded, though it is questionable whether he could command either the delegation or the electoral vote of Kentucky. Secretary Olney has a chattel mortgage on some delegations from New England if he wants them, but it is to him extremely doubtful whether he wants any delegation whatever. It has occurred to him more than once that a distinctly un-American administration is not calculated to lift a secretary of state toward glory. Mr. Whitney, whose honorable service as secretary of the navy should not be forgotten, would probably prefer not to have that service remembered too obtrusively this year, and Mr. Morrison of Illinois, who has lost himself in his relations with the railroads, might perhaps be as strong as any other candidate of his party if he had not been conspicuous years ago in framing a tariff bill.

The Democratic history has been one of negatives. It has threatened and more or less tried to tear down many things. It denounced, but was not able to stop, specie redemption of legal tender notes. It has been reviling every step taken toward honest money, a sound currency, a safe and uniform banking system; but the higher powers have mercifully saved the nation from even a touch of Democratic destructiveness in that regard. It has continually threatened to tear down the protective tariff, but, coming into power in all branches of the government, was not able to muster enough sincerity or definiteness of purpose to get that done either, though in the effort much was torn down and a great deal of damage was done.

The tearing-down statesman does not fill a large place in the public mind. Indeed, everybody knows that he has only a torch for destroying, but no hammer for building, and must therefore be not the sort of man a progressive nation needs. The difficulty with the Democratic party is that for more than thirty years it has cultivated that kind of statesmen, and no other—and the practical results are obvious.

The National Liberal Federation has confidence in Lord Rosebery. But not all the former Liberal party has confidence in the National Liberal Federation. It is ominous that only forty members of the house of commons were present at the meeting, at which the vote of confidence was passed, including not a single member of the late cabinet, beside Lord Rosebery himself.

Did He Borrow This?

Hartman of Montana in the house the other day, incidentally reviewed the populist platform. He knew, he said, that it had thirteen different ways of restoring prosperity to the country, and he understood that it was about to add three additional planks. One was to encourage the propagation of honey bees by crossing them with lightning bugs, so that the bees could work at night; another was to cross centipedes with the genus hog, so that every hog would have a hundred hams, and the third was a project of grafting strawberries on milkweed, in order to raise strawberries and cream.—Boise Democrat.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began to use Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all Kidney and Liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price 50c and $1.00. At Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store.

How to Cure Rheumatism.

ARAGO, Coos Co., Oregon, Nov. 10, 1893.—I wish to inform you of the great good Chamberlain's Pain Balm has done my wife. She has been troubled with rheumatism of the arms and hands for six months, and has tried many remedies prescribed for that complaint, but found no relief until she used this Pain Balm; one bottle of which has completely cured her. I take pleasure in recommending it for that trouble. Yours truly, C. A. Ballard. 50 cents and $1.00 bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store.

LONDON DOGS OUT CALLING.

Their Cards Go Up with Those of Their Mistresses.

It appears, from an article in the Figaro by M. Paul Megnin, that in London at the present time it is not only the fashion for a lady to provide her lapdog with a little wardrobe and even a handkerchief, but to have visiting cards made for it, too. When a fashionable lady pays a visit, taking her lapdog with her, she sends up the dog's card along with her own.

M. Megnin says he was visiting the editor of one of the leading sporting papers in London, when the servant brought in two cards, one that of a lady and the other as follows:

MRS. FRIVOLITY.
Collie.

Asked if he knew the name on the card, M. Megnin said he presumed it was some dog fancier. He was greatly surprised to see a lady come in, accompanied by a handsome collie. M. Megnin went to a stationer's shop and ordered 100 cards for his little dog. He was again surprised to find that the stationer had some ready printed, neatly packed in pretty little card cases.

BEN FRANKLIN'S BIG HEAD.

How He Wore His Wig in His Pocket at the French Court.

The difficulties encountered recently by the lineal descendants of that great man, statesman, patriot and everything else that men properly hold in estimation—Benjamin Franklin—in having themselves enrolled among the Colonial Dames, recall an anecdote of him, says the Washington Post, embalmed in the family records of the sage of Monticello, but which, so far as the writer knows, has never been published. When about to present himself for the first time at the court of Versailles he was informed by the master of ceremonies that a wig was a sine qua non. Now, his head was so large that no ordinary wig would begin to fit it, and the situation was embarrassing in the extreme. However, one was found sufficiently large to pass him through the antechambers, after which he was permitted to remove the ridiculous conventional appendage and place it in his ample pocket, whence it never again emerged to public gaze.

Cox and His Brownies.

Palmer Cox says the idea of writing about the brownies came to him from reading Scotch traditions concerning these amusing little elves. They were, he says, almost unknown in America until he began writing about them, but in Scotland they had existed in the folk lore for 500 years. The Scotch brownie, according to Mr. Cox, was a beneficent sort of sprite, whose only three emotions were joy, wonder and terror. It was supposed they were never seen by human beings, but went about at night performing helpful deeds for the country folk, at the same time getting a deal of fun themselves out of kindly pranks.

"Give me a liver regulator and I can regulate the world," said a genius. The druggist handed him a bottle of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. For sale by Snipes-Kinnersley Drug Co.

In the fall of 1893 a son of Mr. T. A. McFarland, a prominent merchant of Live Oak, Sutter county, Calif., was taken with a very heavy cold. The pains in his chest were so severe that he had spasms and was threatened with pneumonia. His father gave him several large doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which broke up the cough and cured him. Mr. McFarland says whenever his children have croup he invariably gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always cures them. He considers it the best cough remedy in the market. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton's Drug store.

Buckley's Arnica Salve.

It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Blakeley and Houghton, druggists.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City Ill. was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which there are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Blakeley & Houghton desire us to publish the following extract from a letter of Chas. M. Guilford of Reedley, Fresno county, Calif., as they handle the remedy referred to and want their customers to know what a splendid medicine it is: "It is with pleasure I tell you that by one day's use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy I was relieved of a very bad cold. My head was completely stopped up and I could not sleep at night. I can recommend this remedy." A cold nearly always starts in the head and afterwards extends to the throat and lungs. By using this remedy freely as soon as the cold has been contracted it will cure the cold at once and prevent it from extending to the lungs.
