WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The funeral of the 8-year-old son of Daniel Daffron took place at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Catholic church.

The Woodmen will give an entertainment at Fraternity hall Friday evening next. The Woodmen and their wives are invited to attend.

Mrs. Kinney will hold a parlor meeting for women at the home of Mrs. Smith French on Tuesday at 3 o'clock p. m. All women are cordially invited.

Mrs. C. L. Phillips presented each member of the Home Dramatic Co. with a handsome rose bud boutonniere last evening. Mrs. Stubling contributed some choice ferns for the decoration of the stage.

Rev. F. A. Powell will give a valuable lecture this evening at the Christian church entitled, "The Value of a Laugh." The admission fee is 15 cents and it is very likely that sum will be earned many times over, placing each laugh at 15 cents.

Sheriff Driver returned today noon with Wm. Landes and Ida Walters. The pair are charged with adultery by the former husband. They are at present at the county jail and will have a preliminary examination before Justice Davis at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The fruit crop of the Dry Hollow section is said to be injured by the recent cold weather. A loss of part of a crop is frequently a blessing in disguise. In this country the trees are inclined to overbear, and even if the entire crop was killed the renewed growth of the trees would compensate for the damage to the fruit.

The Chinook work "alki" is pronounced alky, and not al-ki, as it is spelled. The word is never used by the Indians to signify anything except some time in the future. It means after awhile, or by-and-by. Tenas alki means in a little while, and has alki signifies a long time in future. The seal of the territory of Washington contained the word "alki," signifying that after awhile the territory would merge into statehood, and the designers of the state seal very properly omitted it, for the prophecy which it had signified had finally been fulfilled.

The suggestion in THE CHRONICLE and the request of the Rathbone Sisters concerning the removal of ladies hats, we were pleased to see so generally acquiesced to by the ladies last evening. The native good sense which our ladies possess must assure them that it is a fitting respect for the rights of others to remove their hats when assembling in large numbers at a theater with a level floor. We believe that it is only regard for the conventionalities that they have not done so before, each waiting for the other to inaugurate the custom. About a hundred ladies removed their hats last evening, thus setting an example or a fashion which will become universal. It will soon be the part of good taste to take the hats off, rather than to keep them on. Custom is responsible for law, and a large hat will hereafter attract distasteful attention.

ANOTHER PROMISE.

Senator Mitchell Says Ample Provision for Lock Walls Will Be Made.

On Monday The Chronicle Publishing Company wired to Senator Mitchell regarding the $20,000 appropriation, claimed to be due to Messrs. Day by Capt. Fisk. In view of the conversation held by Messrs. Mac Allister, Judge Bradshaw and Capt Gray with Capt. Fisk, a very unsatisfactory state of mind resulted in the minds of the people in regard to these appropriations. An answer was received this morning. Following is the text of both dispatches:

Hon. J. H. Mitchell, Washington, D. C. Captain Fisk claims $20,000 appropriation unavailable for building walls in inner lock at Cascades. Does river and harbor bill contain other appropriation for building temporary or permanent walls. Wire answer.

THE CHRONICLE.

Here is the reply: The Chronicle, The Dalles Oregon: Ample provision will be made either in sundry civil or river and harbor bill to build walls in inner lock.

JOHN H. MITCHELL.

An Able Lecturer Soon to Appear.

Tuesday, the 21st, our city is to be favored with an address by Mrs. Narcissa White Kinney. Mrs. Kinney is not an entire stranger to our people, having spoken here most acceptably when she was simply Narcissa White. She is state president of the W. C. T. U. and in her official capacity has visited many parts of our state, everywhere proving herself an able, efficient worker in temperance. From the many flattering press notices at hand it is hard to choose. All report her as exceptionally eloquent, persuasive, witty, pathetic. One says, "The mantle of John B. Gough has fallen upon her shoulders." Come out and hear our Gough on Tuesday evening.

Conductors Hurt.

Two railroad conductors, says the Oregonian, old friends and brother Elks, had the misfortune to each suffer a fracture of a leg a few days since over in Washington. J. W. McNamara, one of them met with his mishap in stepping from a train at Troy, and was taken to Kallispel. The other unfortunate is Lon Curtis, brother of Anson Curtis, of The Dalles, also well known, who met with his misfortune one day before McNamara. He was badly injured, but, at last accounts, was doing well. He is a member of the lodge of Elks at Seattle, a Knight Templar and Royal Shriner. Both men have a host of friends all over the coast, who will regret their misfortunes.

Judge Bennett Accepts the Nomination.

The published report in the Oregonian and the Northwest press that Judge A. S. Bennett had declined the Democratic nomination for congress was premature. A reporter of THE CHRONICLE saw Mr. Bennett today in regard to it. He replied:

"There was a foundation for such a report, caused by my unwillingness to accept the nomination at the time the convention was in session. I hastened to make known my desire not to accept the candidacy, but the convention had adjourned before I could do so. I have been debating with myself whether or not to decline, and have reached the conclusion this morning that I will not, since it is practically too late to select another.

"Do you propose to take the rostrum during the coming campaign?"

"Most certainly."

"And will you voice your free silver sentiments?"

"I will if occasion requires. I believe that will be the issue of the coming campaign, and I am ready to champion that side of the cause adopted by our state convention, and in which views I readily concur."

"What about the tariff?"

"That is of lesser importance, in my opinion. You will observe, however, that the Portland Democratic platform allows plenty of scope for a reasonable tariff on raw material, including wool, as well as that on the manufactured product."

"Have you reached any definite conclusion as to when or where you will commence your canvass?"

"I have not, only that it will be soon."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Dr. Siddall went to Portland yesterday.

Mr. F. W. Helm went to Portland yesterday.

Prof. Rasmus leaves for Portland in the morning.

The arrival of Hon. J. H. Cradlebaugh is daily expected.

Mr. Thos. Wood, the butcher, went to Portland today.

LAST NIGHT'S PLAY.

One of the Most Successful Ever Undertaken by Home Dramatists.

While it may be true that The Dalles has had stronger dramatic productions than "The Confederate Spy," it is an indisputable fact that no company ever appearing here had as strong support throughout the whole cast as those who played last night to a crowded house at the Baldwin. Never before has the writer witnessed such perfection in detail in the histrionic line as upon the presentation of the war play—"The Confederate Spy." Each filled his appropriate niche to a nicety, displaying rare good judgment in not exaggerating its importance, but improving to the full the demand. This may be due in part to the excellent drilling of Prof. Rasmus, but again without the material his efforts would have been in vain, and the material we are proud of. We have listened to them oft before, have cried and laughed with them, we have applauded them when they pleased us, and that has been many, many times. It is no exaggeration to say that the play last night was as good as two-thirds of the dramatic productions that visit The Dalles.

Of the acting of Mr. Harry Lonedale, who took the title role, nothing new can be affirmed. As always, he invested the character with great dignity and power and his representation was so perfect as to lose his own identity. A new sensation must have been experienced in the minds of men who were purely in a Northern environment, who believe the word "rebel" stands for a spirit of malignity, and they must have admitted there was as high a regard for the principles of honor, integrity and manhood south of Mason and Dixon's line during war times as north of it.

Mr. N. J. Sinnott as "George Waterman," was a character well sustained. Without affectation or stiltedness Mr. Sinnott took the part of the lover with consummate tact and grace. His rare dramatic abilities found ample expression in the third act in the rather stormy interview with the spy.
