SHAME! SHAME!

Mr. I. N. Day has been talking to an Oregonian reporter. The paper, which through cowardice or connivance has refused to lend its influence to assist the people of Eastern Oregon in waging warfare against the unscrupulous men who have perpetrated an injustice that cries to heaven because of its foulness, now listens to the siren voice of I. N. Day, and in an article remarkable for its one-sidedness and which has every earmark of I. N. Day, attempts to further mislead a people whom, God knows, have already been deceived enough.

No better endorsement of the position taken by The Dalles papers is needed than an extract of the article mentioned. It is an ex parte statement, misleading, false and insulting in the insinuation that the people who would read it would be influenced by the statements it contains.

In the first place there is no misapprehension in Eastern Oregon regarding the effect of the $20,000 appropriation. There may have been once, but there is none now. It is generally considered that the $20,000 resolution was simply a ruse inspired by the Days, and in the carrying out of which our delegation in congress were either knowing or unknowing tools. (For the sake of maintaining our belief in human nature, we hope the latter.) That the people once had reason to believe that the resolution was introduced in good faith is evidenced by the sentence in a telegram from Senator Mitchell to THE CHRONICLE, published March 19th: "This (meaning the $20,000 appropriation) will insure the opening of the locks to boats, the contractors assure me, early in May."

This resolution was to authorize the contractors to divert $20,000 from the unexpended balance and use it for building the inner walls. Mr. Day says that when the matter was first broached there was a sum sufficient for such purpose, but when the resolution was passed and signed the money had already been exhausted. Of course it had been. It was necessary, as a part of the game, that by the time the resolution should become effective there should be no money available, since if there were what excuse would be left for not proceeding with the work. These two statements dovetail in perfect harmony and show the design which at all times the Days and the engineers had in view—namely, the obstructing the completion of the locks.

Mr. Day says that on January 27th a letter was written to Senator Mitchell advocating such a resolution as the $20,000 one purported to be. On February 10, two weeks later—when the committee from The Dalles Commercial Club visited the locks—nothing was said about any such move having been made, and no suggestion proffered that the representative bodies of The Dalles and Astoria should lend their influence in strengthening such a request.

The committee came home and the Commercial Club took independent action, asking for an emergency appropriation. Possibly Mr. Day wrote the letter at the time mentioned. If he did so he was careful not to say anything concerning it to the committee, for if he had the committee would have asked him, "Have you funds left unexpended?" and when he had replied "Yes" he would have been stopped from spending the entire amount, leaving nothing for the $20,000 resolution. "For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, the colonel named Day is peculiar." It takes no very penetrating eye to see the motives that underlie the actions of Messrs. Day and the engineers.

Furthermore, Mr. Day says, in the Oregonian, the resolution was introduced, referred to a committee and passed the senate the same day. Either Mr. Day or the telegraph reports from Washington are in error. As we would not believe Mr. Day's statement as to what time of day it is, we are inclined to trust the wires, which say that on March 12th Senator Mitchell introduced the famous resolution into the senate. On March 19th Senator Mitchell telegraphed THE CHRONICLE: "My resolution providing for the immediate use of $20,000 to construct safeguards essential to the early opening of the locks passed the senate today." Only a matter of seven days difference, the occurrence itself being of little moment except to show the unreliability of Mr. Day's statements.

The Oregonian says the locks are completed and a boat could be put through in twenty-four hours notice. This may or may not be so. There is no means of telling; but if true it is only because the water is sufficiently high to allow a boat to pass over the lower bulkhead, which at an ordinary stage is high above the water. Such a statement is but half the truth, a shambling to make a point regardless of right or wrong.

The main point in the whole matter is this: If the Days were sincere in their efforts to have the inner walls built (and which we grant were not provided for in the contract), why did they not, knowing that such a resolution would certainly pass, hold back a sum sufficient to make the resolution effective? Why did they not do this, and then come out like men and explain the situation to the people, who would have lent them every support possible? They did not because they had an ulterior object in view, which, in spite of every law of justice, against the wishes of thousands of people who have hoped and prayed for the consummation of this great work, they have carried to their own satisfaction.

The engineers and the Days have throttled the will of the people. Shall we say they were aided by the Oregon delegation? We will not, though there are circumstances which can be explained only through ignorance or connivance.

There are those who say the Days are but men and working for the stuff that is in it. Truly so; but they are to be condemned for holding out a promise which in their hearts they knew to be a lie.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed on exhibit at the world's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the world's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

In the fall of 1893 a son of Mr. T. A. McFarland, a prominent merchant of Live Oak, Sutter county, Calif., was taken with a very heavy cold. The pains in his chest were so severe that he had spasms and was threatened with pneumonia. His father gave him several large doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which broke up the cough and cured him. Mr. McFarland says whenever his children have croup he invariably gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always cures them. He considers it the best cough remedy in the market. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton's Drug store.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City Ill. was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Blakeley & Houghton desire us to publish the following extract from a letter of Chas. M. Gutfeld of Reedley, Fresno county, Calif., as they handle the remedy referred to and want their customers to know what a splendid medicine it is: "It is with pleasure I tell you that by one day's use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy I was relieved of a very bad cold. My head was completely stopped up and I could not sleep at night. I can recommend this remedy." A cold nearly always starts in the head and afterwards extends to the throat and lungs. By using this remedy freely as soon as the cold has been contracted it will cure the cold at once and prevent it from extending to the lungs.
