WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Forecast—Monday and Tuesday, continued rain.

The rain of yesterday will prove of inestimable benefit throughout this section of country.

A carload of choice Burbank potatoes just received by The Dalles Commission Co. The last of the season.

Victor Sandoz, 12 years old, dislocated his ankle while playing in the school grounds today, and Dr. Hollister was called to attend to his injuries.

A woman and two men were arrested for fast driving and disorderly conduct yesterday, and were brought before the recorder who fined them $10 each.

At the close of the service in the Methodist church last evening, four young ladies and two young gentlemen were received into full membership with the church.

Members of the Jackson Engine Co. are reminded to attend their regular monthly meeting at the court house tomorrow night. There will be business of importance.

Dr. Gregory de Kannel, a lecturer on Russia, is in the city and may make arrangements for a lecture in The Dalles. He is an eminent Russian traveler, lecturer and journalist.

Klamath Falls is to form a Crater Lake club to co-operate in the summer excursion and induce the Mazamas to return to the valley by way of the fort, agency and Klamath falls.

Governor Lord, Secretary of State Kincaid and Treasurer Metechan have been inspecting the portage road at the Cascades, and are going on to do some inspection and investigation at the site of the proposed Eastern Oregon asylum near Union.

Circuit court sits at Prineville today, with a murder trial on the docket, and a prospect of a longer term than usual. This will be the trial of Isaac W. Mills for shooting James E. Wagner in the southeastern part of Crook county, the early part of February.

The Good Templars gave a photograph social and public installation Saturday night, which was a complete social and financial success. Some of the young ladies put photographs in the baskets taken of themselves at very tender ages, which occasioned much perplexity and many a laugh.

MAUDE PRABODY, Teacher.

SLEPT THIRTY-SIX DAYS.

Remarkable Experience of Lena Hansen of The Dalles.

Lena Hansen, who left The Dalles for the hospital in Portland several weeks ago, has just finished a remarkable sleep of thirty-six days. In that time she has become very pale and thin, and fears were entertained that she would die while in that comatose state. An Oregonian reporter has visited her, and ascertained many interesting facts.

The extraordinary feature about Miss Hansen's case is that she is not in a state of coma, a not uncommon condition, but that she is actually sleeping, just as any person sleeps who is reading this, only she does not awaken. And, during her thirty-six days' nap she has so wasted away as to be little more than skin and bones.

Miss Hansen is a young lady 20 years old, a native of Denmark. For the last two and a half years she has been living at The Dalles, and up to March 24th she earned a livelihood by doing household work for families of that vicinity.

About 3 o'clock on the afternoon of March 25th Miss Hansen was brought to the Good Samaritan hospital. When Mrs. Wakeman, the superintendent of the hospital, came into the receiving room she found Miss Hansen, accompanied by Miss Sophie Ebbersen, a bright and attractive young country-woman of her's, and Mrs. Wilson, of the city board of charities. Mrs. Wilson informed the superintendent that Miss Hansen needed hospital treatment, and, as she had very little money, Secretary Walpole, of the city board of charities, wished to have her cared for during one week at the city's expense. Miss Ebberson, who had brought the girl down from The Dalles, then explained that Miss Hansen was suffering from a peculiar ailment, which affected her so that she was always falling asleep. This strange craving had come over her only in the last month, said Miss Ebbersen, during which time it had become almost impossible to keep her awake. The Dalles family in which she did household work managed to get her up sometimes at noon, but oftener not until afternoon. And yet she went to bed early in the evening.

"Dr. Shackelford of The Dalles treated her for it. She, however, would not take his medicine, and so, after a short while, he said that she had better go to a hospital in Portland. That is how I came to bring her down." After working with her in various ways the Portland doctors succeeded in awaking her, but she yet lies in a stupor with eyes wide open and seldom responds to a question.

From yesterday's Oregonian additional particulars are learned concerning Miss Hansen. She was moved Saturday morning in the hospital ambulance to the Portland hospital at Sunnyside. The cold water baths prescribed by Dr. Saylor, so far as he was able to note, have had a wonderful effect upon the girl, and yesterday morning she voluntarily talked and read a little, but in the afternoon she became quieter and finally went to sleep. From the beneficial results of the cold baths the physicians expressed hope of her speedy recovery from the peculiar ailment that produced such a remarkable slumber.

NO LOCKS TO FRET ABOUT

If the River Rises Unusually High, Which Is Threatened.

The minds of the citizens of Eastern Oregon have been racked and troubled for months past over the to-be or not-to-be of the locks at the cascades, and now a new danger looms up to totally annihilate hope as to the Columbia ever proving a waterway for the commerce of the Inland Empire. After more than twenty years of effort, the expenditure of appropriation on appropriation, the oft-repeated promises that the completion of the locks was practically an accomplished fact, and when latterly we have been assured that they could even now pass boats, the entire work stands in great danger of being lost by the coming rise of the Columbia river. When the flood of 1894 occurred, it was considered an unparalleled event, and that it would not occur again during the lifetime of anyone now living. The present conditions, are, however, indicative of a rise equal to that of 1894. The river so far this spring has been but a very few feet above low water mark; the season is close at hand when the great amount of surplus water must pass through the channel, and still the weather is cold and the river low.

It is a conceded fact that another unusually high water will destroy the locks. This time there will be no one there to fight the destructive current. The men are gone and the Days have no longer even a passing interest in them. Such inroads were made in 1894 that the bank next the river would fall an easy prey to the erosive action of the water. It will tear away and destroy the bank, and finally working in behind the walls they will melt beneath the flood as if they were wax. The situation will then be worse than if the work was never begun, for there will be no foothold left to again construct them.

Twenty-five years of effort, of the people's wasted money, of hopes and fears, of jobbery in high places, of dilatoriness, of false assertions and fictitious representations will have come to a logical end. Great is a government of the people by the people to the people.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. H. S. Wilson went to Portland this morning.

Mrs. E. M. Wilson returned from a short visit to Portland today.

Mr. G. W. Johnson and wife returned from Portland on the noon train.

Mrs. Gill and daughter of Portland spent Sunday with Engineer Gill of the Regulator.

Mr. Thos. Lynch of Goldendale is in the city. He was a former resident of The Dalles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Peters went to Portland this morning for a couple of day's absence.

Mr. John Campbell of the Deschutes is in the city today. The present rains are helping things wonderfully in that country, and crops are looking well in consequence.

SUNDAY MORNING HOLD UP.

Mr. William Vanbibber Stopped in the Road by a Would-be Robber.

Mr. William Vanbibber, who has driven a milk wagon for about thirty years, from his ranch to The Dalles, was held up about 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning while on his way in. He was ordered to stop, and Mr. Vanbibber did so, not realizing it was a command, and thinking it was some friend of his. He was undecieved when he was ordered to throw up his hands, and he refused to do it, though a pistol was thrust at him, pointing toward his leg. The order was repeated, and this time was accompanied by a blow with the pistol across the fleshy part of the leg. Mr. Vanbibber has for the past few months carried a weapon, but he did not have it on this trip. He, however, expressed defiance, and whipping his horse, started briskly off. After he had gone about 20 feet, a pistol shot was fired, and the horse crouched down as if shot. He was probably "creased," that is the ball passed so closely to his head, that the effect is temporarily the same as if shot. He recovered and started again, when another shot was fired with the same effect. Four or five shots were fired, bringing the horse to a stand each time until the last, when he went ahead.

Mr. Vanbibber said he did not get a view of the face of the hold-up, but was confident of the voice, and later swore out a warrant for the arrest of a well known young man, whose name we are requested not to mention until the result of the preliminary trial, so that in case the defendant is discharged the publicity may be no greater than possible.

A preliminary trial was held this afternoon, at which Mr. Vanbibber swore to the identity of the pistol and the voice of his assailant.

The Only Difference.

The only difference between imported cigars and the Regulator brand is in the price. The duty on raw material is much less than it is on the finished article; so also is the freight. Leaf tobacco comes 4th class, while cigars come as 1st class freight. Smoke Regulator cigars and give American workmen the benefit.
