

WILL MAKE A RECORD

Battle-Ship Oregon's Fine Run to Santa Barbara.

FASTER THAN THE MASSACHUSETTS

The Trial Trip Will Probably Be Delayed Until Tuesday—Getting Stakeboats into Position.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 10.—The battle-ship Oregon dropped anchor in the channel at 11 o'clock this morning, outside the kelp. An Associated Press reporter was the first aboard. In an interview, Irving M. Scott said:

"It will be Tuesday before we get off on the trip. The stakeboats have to get into position of the ranges. This must be carefully and accurately done. The position of the stakeboats will be as follows: At the eastern end, opposite Goleta wharf, the Unadilla; the McArthur at the western range, 31 miles north from the start; the Albatross off Gavita wharf; the Gedney at a point midway between the Unadilla and the Albatross, about 10 miles apart.

"The run down was most satisfactory. We left the whistling buoy off the bar at 10:15 Saturday, the engines making revolutions of 95 1/2, with an average speed of 13 1/2 knots. We arrived at Port Harford at 12 o'clock. From Port Harford to Point Conception, we loafed along until daylight, to catch beacons and become familiar with the course. Here we 'hit her up' and made time from this point to the lower range at a rate of 16.34 knots, for a distance of 15 or 18 miles."

Enthusiasm aboardship is unbounded, and the record of the Massachusetts, of 16.15 knots, is doomed, crowning the Oregon queen, and placing her at the very front among ships of her class, in all the nauties of the world.

Admiral Beardslee, Captain Cotton, Captain Goodall, and all the members of the trial board, corroborated the statement of Mr. Scott. "The Oregon behaved admirably and we will beat the Massachusetts or beat something," said Chief Engineer Forsythe.

A WAR CANDIDATE.

John Bookwater Believes Cleveland Will Be Nominated.

CINCINNATI, May 10.—A special to the Commercial Gazette from Springfield, O., gives an interview with John W. Bookwater, the democratic candidate for governor of Ohio in 1877. He predicts that Grover Cleveland will be nominated for the fourth time at the Chicago convention. He eulogizes the president as the leader of tariff reform, and says he is now wanted as the leader of the war party in this country. Mr. Bookwater believes the condition of foreign affairs, especially with Great Britain and Spain, will be such, two months hence, as to compel the democracy to take up President Cleveland, and that the war sentiment will be in his favor in November. He says the administration will be heard at the proper time on the Cuban question, and also on the Venezuela boundary, and then it will be Cleveland's call. Mr. Bookwater also predicts a free silver platform, and that the party will thus be kept together for a great struggle. Mr. Bookwater is away much of his time, but is now cultivating his old home constituencies, and expects to go to the Chicago convention as a delegate.

MR. STAGGE GONE.

Denver People Said to be Looking Anxiously for Him.

Blood will tell. Lionel Stagge turns out to be a rogue after all. Some two years ago a good deal of sympathy was wasted upon this gentleman, who with a penitentiary record, was appointed receiver for a prominent Portland bank.

The experiment of covering a wrongdoer with a mantle of charity, has in this case proven a failure, and re-establishes the truth of an old saw: "Once a rogue, always a rogue."

The Denver Post of Tuesday, May 5th, has the following, which will be of interest in Oregon:

"The police are looking for Lionel Stagge and a dozen or more mining brokers are mourning his sudden departure from the city. Under a pretext of publishing a manual of mining he gulled the brokers for a total of $150, but he used an afternoon political organ as a cloak to cover his transactions, and the brokers are even more wrathful because of this. One broker said yesterday: 'It is certainly exasperating that, from quarters where honesty should be paramount, we encounter smooth crooks.' The afternoon organ was captured by the snave manner and handsome appearance of Lionel, and the cash drawer is nearly empty. It was touched up to the tune of $175, and the building is in mourning. Lionel drifted into this city about two months ago. He is a decided brunette, minus a mustache. The name under which he sailed is no doubt an assumed one. The police will for that reason have difficulty in locating their man."

"Lionel proposed the publication of a book devoted entirely to mining, and secured the cooperation of a Denver daily paper, and the principal mining brokers of the city. He worked for several weeks and used the hotel corridors as a scene of operations with out-of-town mining men. How many of them he caught no one will ever know. As he was well dressed and a good talker, he likely convinced many that his scheme was a great one. Without warning he left town on the 25th of last month, and the data collected went with him. His name has been removed from over the door of his office in the building of the Denver newspaper which had gone into the scheme with him."

AUSTRALIAN BEE HUNT.

How the Natives Find the Well-Filled Hives.

An Australian savage comes up to an Irishman's idea of human skill, for "he bates the bees." A native seldom fails to get honey when he discovers the bee has been watching for him. The following description of a native's bee hunt is given in Mr. Arthur's "Kangaroo and Emu":

Warruyallah, the chief of a tribe, went with two little nets to a small pool, filled his mouth with water, and then lying down, his head hanging over the pool, he remained quiet for an hour, apparently looking at his own reflection in the water. Then the hum of a bee was heard. Buzz-z-z it went over the pool, round the black's head, now on one side, now on the other, and now close to his ear; but not a motion betrayed the bee hunter. But when the bee, dropping close to the water, gave notice by the change of its tune that it was about to sip, the chief, with a snort, squirted the water from his mouth over the little "buzzer." Before it had time to recover from the unexpected douche, he seized it dexterously by the wings.

Then he prepared it for the chase by fastening to it a bunch of wild cotton with some gum. The bee was let go; it made for its hive, slowly at first on account of its novel burden, which impeded its progress and showed a sign in the air for the chief to follow. Over bramble and brake went the chief, accompanied by the men of his tribe, and in half an hour halted at the foot of an immense gum tree, into whose top the bee had gone.

The chief mounted quickly, by cutting notches into the bark with his stone tomahawk. In a short time he brought down a quantity of honeycomb, a small piece only of which contained honey. The Australian bees are stingless.
