

CANCER CURED
—AND A—
LIFE SAVED
By the Persistent Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improve. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A. FIELDS, Bloomfield, Ia.

NARROW ESCAPE

Mother and Two Children Nearly Drowned in the Umatilla River.
Mrs. Harrala and her two children had a narrow escape from drowning in the Umatilla river recently, says the Pendleton Tribune. Mrs. Harrala has the lease of some land near Cayuse station, and seeing Charles Dering cross the river with a four-horse team with no apparent difficulty determined to make the trip herself. She hitched up two horses to a light spring buggy, placed her two children inside, mounted and started. When the deepest water was reached, one of the animals laid down, causing the vehicle to capsize and precipitating its occupants into the running stream. With great presence of mind Mrs. Harrala clutched for her children, took one in each hand and held their heads above the water, at the same time calling loudly for help. Fortunately, Mr. Dering who had made the crossing but a short time before, was within hearing distance. He turned his horse round, started to the rescue, and arrived not a moment too soon. Mrs. Harrala had become unconscious and was losing her hold of the children. He reached for the little ones first and then, with difficulty, succeeded in lifting the mother into his wagon. The latter soon recovered after being taken home. The only loss to report is that of the horse that lay down in the river and was drowned, and a quantity of provisions and supplies which Mrs. Harrala was taking across the river to her hired hands on the farm.

The majority of cigars sold in this town are made in the filthy tenement houses of New York where whole families eat, sleep and cook and make cigars in the same room. These filthy and disease-infected cigars are put up in fancy boxes under high-sounding titles, such as "General so-and-so," or "Senator somebody" and distributed in the Northwest through Portland jobbers. The writer of this knows whereof he speaks, as he has been in the business over 18 years and is familiar with every phase of the cigar industry.

Beranger's Terse and Clever Characterization of Victor Hugo.

A terse and clever characterization was that by which Beranger, the poet, summed up Victor Hugo's relation to the great republican spirit of France. Hugo, although it is said that he was not a republican at the very beginning of his career, became a most enthusiastic and outspoken one. He represented the pictorial, dramatic side of popular feeling, and became so picturesque a figure in French politics that he could not have failed to serve as a popular idol.

Beranger, who was a republican of the simplest type, notwithstanding his share in establishing Louis Philippe on the throne, denied the poet's attitude in one line.

One day, says the Contemporary Review, shortly after the revolution which overtopped that throne, an acquaintance of Beranger met him coming out of the Palais-Bourbon. "I shall feel obliged," said the poet, "if you will see me home, for I do not feel at all well. Those violent scenes inside there are not to my taste. I am not at all well," he continued, with a wistful smile; "I have been accused of having held the plank over which Louis Philippe went to the guillotine. I wish I could be the bridge across the Channel on which he would return. Certainly I would have liked a republic, but not such as we are having in there."

He pointed to the home of the Constituent assembly. "You ought to be pleased," said his friend, "Victor Hugo is in the same regiment with you."
"Victor Hugo is not in the regiment," was the quiet reply. "He is in the band."

of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, be cured. This may seem like a bold assertion to those familiar only with the means generally in use for its treatment; as, nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy emulsions, extract of malt, whiskey, different preparations of hypophosphites and such like palliatives. Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience.

THE NAME OF THE NEXT

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN THE
New York Weekly Tribune

Of November 4th, 1896.

Public interest will steadily increase, and the question how the men whose votes turned the scale at the last election are satisfied with the results under the administration they elected, will make the campaign the most intensely exciting in the history of the country.

The NEW YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE,

the leading Republican family newspaper of the United States, will publish all the political news of the day, interesting to every American citizen regardless of party affiliations.

Also general news in attractive form. Foreign correspondence covering the news of the world; an agricultural department second to none in the country; market reports which are recognized authority; fascinating short stories, complete in each number; the cream of the humorous papers, foreign and domestic, with their best comic pictures, fashion plates and elaborate descriptions of woman's attire, with a varied and attractive department of household interest. The "New York Weekly Tribune" is an ideal family paper, with a circulation larger than that of any other weekly publication in the country issued from the office of a daily. Large changes are being made in its details, tending to give it greater life and variety, and especially more interest to the woman and young people of the household. A special contract enables us to offer this splendid journal and the "Semi-Weekly Chronicle" for

ONE YEAR FOR ONLY $1.75.

CASH IN ADVANCE. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.75. Subscriptions may begin at any time. Address all orders to Chronicle Pub. Co. Write your name and address on a postal card, send it to Geo. W. Best, Room 2, Tribune Building, New York City, and a sample copy of The New York Weekly Tribune will be mailed to you.
