INHUMAN WRETCHES

Dastardly Deeds of Spanish Soldiers in Cuba.

TALES OF BLOOD AND CARNAGE

Crimes of the Middle Ages Rivalled in Horror—Murder and Violence Rampant.

New York, June 3.—The World publishes the following special correspondence from Matanzas, Cuba, dated May 10.

Reports have reached here of a number of unwarranted murders and outrages by bands of Spanish guerrillas under Colonel Luis de Oliveras.

Beliadrio Nodarizo, of this town, relates the particulars of a fiendish attack upon a Cuban woman.

"The guerrillas of Colon," Mr. Nodarizo says, "while on their way to Calimite, stopped at the house of Matto Martinez, who had been forced to enlist in a body of insurgents under the command of Juan Pablo Jabo. The officer in command inquired from Senora Martinez the whereabouts of her husband.

"Indeed, I cannot tell," she replied, "I'll make you," said the Spaniard, and he proceeded to tear off her clothing. He then questioned her anew, and receiving no answer from the woman, who was crying hysterically, he unheeded his sword and fell to cutting and slashing his victim until her blood covered the floor and she fainted in a corner. Her shrieks and entreaties only served to provoke the brutal laughter of the soldiery."

Mr. Nodarizo said he laid the facts in writing before Colonel Molina. The chief replied by sending a squad to arrest and shoot the complainant. His brother, Bruno, a tobaccoist, heard of the order in time to notify Beliadrio. The brothers fled and joined the rebel forces of Teotide Garcia.

Colonel Molina's force a few days afterward stopped at the home of a farmer. Only a woman and baby were in the house. Molina demanded that she tell where the men were. She protested she did not know. He called for a platoon of soldiers. As the platoon entered the cabin Molina pointed to her and said:

"Pull out that rebel hag and shoot her."

The mother and child were dragged some 25 feet from the hut and a squad moved away a few paces.

"Will you speak now?" the colonel demanded.

"For God's sake, I don't know," cried the woman.

"Then fire," ordered Molina.

The woman tried to shield her baby with her body, but merciless bullets did their work. The baby was not killed outright, and one of the soldiers, moved by a sort of barbarous pity, crushed the little one's skull with the butt of his rifle. The bugle sounded "fall in." Molina after setting fire to the house coolly mounted his horse and gave the word "march."

In one of the outskirts of San Jose de los Ramos, and about three miles from the village, there is a small house occupied by Frederico Fuentes. Fuentes had two large canefields. He complained because Spanish soldiers destroyed his cane instead of simply taking the fodder. The same command, en route to protect the "Espansa" plantation a day or so later, stopped at his home, having sacked a town en route, and drunk heavily. The commander accused a chief named Maza. Fuentes thought it useless to defend himself. The officers then bade the soldiers to punish him and his companions as they deserved. A score of machetes flashed and in a few moments the prisoners were a mass of blood and rags. A drunken fancy seized the murderers.

Cutting off the heads of their victims, they hung them to the key of the grocer's door, while the horror-stricken neighbors looked on without daring to interfere. Only under cover of night were the ghastly remains removed and buried.

A resident of the town of Cascajal says one of Molina's guerrilla bands was marching to Reglita, the sugar plantation of Senor Sardinias for the purpose of escorting a train of pack mules. As the guerrillas approached the town of Cascajal they passed the farm of a Cuban named Garcia, whose two brothers were in the insurgent forces under Dimas, which was operating in the district between Recreo and Roque. A portion of this force occasionally camped near Garcia's house, and he was then visited by his brothers. When the guerrilla band arrived, however, the insurgents were not in the neighborhood. Garcia was alone in his house.

"Where are the insurgents encamped?" the lieutenant demanded of Garcia.

"I really don't know," the man replied.

"Tie him to that chair," the officer commanded, and the soldiers lashed Garcia securely.

"Now will you tell me where your brothers are?" the lieutenant angrily inquired.

"I can't say; I have not seen them," Garcia replied.

"Ha, I know they stopped here last night, but since your eyes seem to be useless I will relieve you of them."

"Pat them out," the officer cried, turning to his soldiers.

The sergeant thrust the point of his bayonet under each of the unfortunate man's eyes and burst them out, despite the agonizing screams of the victim. As they left the house the lieutenant jokingly remarked that the next time Garcia would be able to say truthfully what he had not seen the insurgents.

Killed His Father.
MINOT, N. D., June 3.—J. A. Baker, ex-county commissioner of Ward county, was shot and killed last evening by his son William, a boy 17 years old, at his ranch 20 miles north of Minot.

Just before the killing Baker had given his son a hard whipping, after which he started to abuse the boy's mother, which was more than the boy could stand. He took his rifle and shot his father twice, killing him instantly.

The Discovery Saved His Life.
Mr. G. Caillouttee, Druggist, Bearersville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store.

How to Cure Rheumatism.
ARAGO, Coos Co., Oregon, Nov. 10, 1893.—I wish to inform you of the great good Chamberlain's Pain Balm has done my wife. She has been troubled with rheumatism of the arms and hands for six months, and has tried many remedies prescribed for that complaint, but found no relief until she used this Pain Balm; one bottle of which has completely cured her. I take pleasure in recommending it for that trouble. Yours truly, C. A. Bullard. 50 cents and $1.00 bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store.

It May Do as Much for You.
Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began to use Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price 50c and $1.00. At Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store.

STILL VERY CLOSE. Kills a Probable Winner and Tongue Has a Bare Chance.

The vote for the Republican and Populist congressional candidates in both districts is now so close that it is impossible to say who are the successful men.

In the Second district, the returns so far received, give:
Ellis, 10,365; Quinn, 10,257; Northup, 7,793; Bennett, 5,362.

In this district, the counties from which complete returns have been received are: Columbia, Baker and Morrow. There is yet one precinct to hear from in Wasco, three in Umatilla, seven in Multnomah, and nine in Union. The counties yet to hear from are Grant, Harney and Malheur.

Blakeley & Houghton desire us to publish the following extract from a letter of Chas. M. Gutfeld of Reedley, Fresno county, Calif., as they handle the remedy referred to and want their customers to know what a splendid medicine it is: "It is with pleasure I tell you that by one day's use of Chamberlain's Cough remedy I was relieved of a very bad cold. My head was completely stopped up and I could not sleep at night. I can recommend this remedy." A cold nearly always starts in the head and afterwards extends to the throat and lungs. By using this remedy freely as soon as the cold has been contracted it will cure the cold at once and prevent it from extending to the lungs.
