UNTOLD MISERY RHEUMATISM Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the test physi-cians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left orm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relicit only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two mouths. I was able to walk Inside of two mouths, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith.'

ROBBING THE DEAD.

Mrs. Prevest Formerly of The Dalles Despoiled of Her Jewels.

A recent issue of the Portland Tele gram had the following:

"Another horror has been added to who, unable to gain a footing on the doomed car, waved a pleasant trip to the dear ones considered more fortunate in having secured seats, arrived on the drive to find mothers, sisters, wives not only dead, but despoiled by that ghoul

E. Farrelly, of 327 Salmon street. Miss Evelyn, a younger daughter, was a guest of her sister at Seattle, and together with Dr. Prevost and a gentleman friend the four attended the queen's birthday festivities at Victoria. In the great crash at the Point Ellice bridge the 50 cents and $1 00. party became separated, Mrs. Dr. Prevost and the escort of Miss Evelyn rethe car she had worn a pair of diamond earrings, diamond ring and plain gold wedding ring, gold watch and chatelaine and carried a purse containing a small amount of money, possibly $15. All of these were gone. On the finger wearing the wedding ring was a wound as though the ring had been violently drawn from the hand. Likewise in the lobes of the ears where had been the diamonds were marks of rude violence, one ear being badly torn. Every article of value about the dead woman's person had been taken.

" 'There can, of course, be no blame attached to the Victoria authorities for this horrible thievery," said The Telegram reporter's informant, 'but the extreme rapidity with which it was accomplished brings up an awful question: Is it not possible that desperate wretches, akin to the train-robbers of the United States, planning to take advantage of the crush of travel by the Point Ellice electric cars, have tampered with the bridge supports and thus hurled to death nearly three score of people that advantage of the accident might be taken for robbery?

"It seems hardly credible, but neither does it seem probable that thieves should arrive on the scene in such incredibly short time without some preconcerted arrangement."
