WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The river stands at 41.9 Meeting of the Macabees this evening. Forecast—Tonight and tomorrow, fair and warmer. Mr. Ernest V. Jensen took out his final papers of citizenship today. Seventeen militiamen of Co. C, Pendleton, were court martialed, and fined for non-attendance at drills. Mr. J. W. Jenkins left today for the Christian missionary convention, which meets at Turner, Or., tomorrow. There will be a Children's Day exercise by members of the Sunday school tomorrow night in the Methodist church. The Degree of Honor have chartered the Regulator for a trip to Hood River tonight, and will visit the lodge at that place. Phil Bregan, Jr., lost about 150 head of sheep by poisoning at Dry Hollow yesterday. They have been herded there waiting to be ferried across the river. Mr. Hayward Riddell took a fainting spell today at L. S. Davis' office and Dr. Sutherland was summoned, who restored him to consciousness by a hypodermic injection. The champion bowling record of 583, which has been held by Victor Schmidt for the past two weeks, was broken this morning when Harry Liebe made a score of 61 points. Ward, Kerns & Robertson have disposed of their barn and livery business to the Wasco warehouse, and will not be found in person or by telephone at the barn hereafter. The Regulator will make three trips per week until further notice. Will leave The Dalles at 7 a. m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and will make through connection. This afternoon the sale of a strip of land 47 by 100 feet, adjoining lot 2, Baird's addition to Antelope, was sold to F. M. Dial for $1,545.33, at administrator's sale. E. Jacobsen is administrator. An individual named McDonald, a trifle "under the influence" fell from the bridge into the water while trying to avoid the train today. He was rescued by Mr. Will. Moody, and was found to be considerably bruised. One of the ancient philosophers said that one man would sow and another reap. This has come true in Grant county. A dozen or fifteen years ago Major Magone found a lake away up in the mountains that had been formed by a landslide across a deep canyon. He caught a few thousand little fish from the river and tributary streams and carried them in pails across the desert and stocked the lake. Now the gallant Major is not there and people go from all parts of the country and catch loads of fine fish from his lake.

The contractors have kept the water from injuring the locks by hauling and placing stone at the exposed portion. Several carloads have been used in this manner. They were two feet higher with the rock wall than the river yesterday.

The boys who were arrested for cruelty to animals, were dismissed today by Justice Davis. Bert Phelps and Hayward Riddell were attorneys for the prosecution and N. H. Gates for the defense. The case was dismissed on motion of attorney Riddell for the prosecution.

Since The Dalles will not celebrate, many of our citizens will perhaps go to other fields to commemorate the nation's birthday. Among those places near at home is Moro, where there is to be ball games, dancing, etc. Douglas Allen, the proprietor of the stage line, proposes to leave The Dalles Friday morning, at 5 o'clock. He is prepared to carry as many as sixteen. Round trip, $2.50. For further information inquire of Blakeley & Houghton.

The Oregon hog law provides that when 100 citizens of a county petition the county court to have the question as to whether or not hogs shall run at large voted on, the court shall order the clerk to place the same upon the ballots at the next regular election. Such a petition was prepared and circulated and signed in Union county. The result is that a very large majority of the people of that county desire that hogs shall not run at large.

Mrs. Stubling had many visitors last evening to see the "flower of the gods." It was found to be a large, white flower of very delicate appearance and with a strange but pleasant perfume. The flower was as curious as the plant which bore it. This was a cactus plant, an African variety. It had no foliage, but is a rope-like vine, covered with barbs. It will have other flowers at various times throughout the year. The one which opened last evening closed late this morning and is dead. There will be another in a few days judging from the bud. It takes a bud nearly a year to mature. The plant is a very curious one. It resembles a snake in appearance, and the buds look something like a serpent's head. The flowers, however, have a rare and surprising beauty.

MARRIED.

At the bride's residence, in this city Saturday, June 20th, by Rev. W. C. Curtis, pastor of the Congregational church, Dr. Silas H. Frazier and Mrs. Alida Dunham.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

CHINESE DOMESTIC TROUBLE.

Meeting of Two Husbands of the Same Woman in The Dalles.

The city recorder had an interesting charge today—a Chinawoman around whose personality there is waged a fierce struggle for possession. She originally lived in San Francisco and was married to a Chinaman there, upon payment of $400 to her father. Later she was stolen by another Chinaman, with whom she has lived until today. The two husbands met this morning in The Dalles and husband No. 1 had No. 2 and wife arrested. The wife was rejoiced to find her first husband, and will undoubtedly live with him if possible, as her affections are with him. This afternoon the recorder gave the wife the privilege of selecting the one she most desired and she chose the first. There may be trouble in Chinatown over the event, but the facts are in no shape for adjustment at present. The Chinawoman was kept apart from both men until the hour for judgment arrived, and not understanding a word of English was very much frightened on finding herself shut up alone.

Questions the Truth.

In a recent issue of the East Oregonian appeared an item in which two ladies, Mrs. H. C. Lewis and Miss Kay Robbins, asserted that they had been robbed of $168, the proceeds of a lecture they alleged they gave in Baker City. The ladies stated to the East Oregonian as follows: "Their misfortune was caused by some alleged thief who robbed them of $168 cash, which the ladies had as door receipts for a lecture they gave in Baker City. They came from the opera house in the evening with the money in a sack, when some one in the darkness snatched the sack, leaving them almost without funds. They came on to Pendleton, where they expected to give an entertainment similar to that given in Baker City, but here received word that caused them to go on to Portland on the Friday evening train. Efforts to apprehend the thief whom the women allege stole their money at Baker City, were unavailing."

In answer to the statement of the ladies, the Baker City Democrat replies: "The women referred to were in Baker City last week. Mrs. Lewis gave a lecture at the opera house and her subject was: 'A Theory in Tatters.' Her audience was a slim one and the receipts were more likely $1.68 than $168.00. So small, indeed, that Mrs. Lewis very probably borrowed the funds necessary to pay her expenses. How she could have been robbed and no one here being advised of it, is strange."

An Englishman's View.

A well-known Englishman writes to a friend in this country: "Your entire financial difficulty is in this: You cannot maintain a sufficient balance of exports over imports to pay the three hundred million dollars which you require to meet: first, the interest on your foreign loans; second, the enormous expenditure of your tourists and residents in Europe; third the freights you pay to British ships. This is a difficulty not at all confined to your community; it is today the case of all debtor communities."
