

(4)

Nervous Prostration Complete Recovery by the Use of

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."-H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and

Ayer's THE Sarsaparilla

Tongue Safe on the Money Question.

Both before the recent election and since, the Populist newspapers, and several Democratic ones too, are considerably exorcised over the views entertained by Mr. Tongue on the silver question. Some contend that he is, or has been in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, others that he is an extreme gold bug, others that he has been inconsistent with himself-at one time for free silver, and then against it. The Hillsboro Independent has inquired into the matter and pronounces all of the above the veriest kind of nonsense. There has been no doubt about Mr. Tongue's position on the silver question to any who have known him or have

In the campaign two years ago, and again in every speech that he has delivered during this campaign, he has stated as clearly and unequivocally as words could state, his views upon that meaning of the platform adopted by the national convention four years ago. He campaign can have any reasonable excuse for undertaking to say that there was any question about where he stood on this subject. People who favor free coinage of silver understood so well his position, that they not only voted against him, but worked against him, and united their forces against him. It was for this reason that thousands of Oregonian and other leading newspapers throughout the United States were advocating that a large quantity of our paper money should be retired and destroyed. That we should adopt a policy with reference to silver that would permit it to wear out and be destroyed and thereby contract the circulation. Mr. Tongue opposed this policy in a wellwritten letter to the Oregonian. Immedistely that journal desiring to move as much as possible any senatorial candi-Mr. Tongue as being in favor of free coinage. Newspapers favoring this doctrine were anxious to receive with open arms a convert and began also to claim coinage. He immediately wrote to the mistaken and disclaiming that any such his letter, and calling attention to the fact that there was not one word in it in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, or that could by any reasonable intendant be so construed.

-each other. He does not believe that this could be done under a system of free and unlimited coinage of silver, and therefore opposes it.

bluff. Euquire of A. S. Mac Allister, this office.