WEDNESDAY. - - JULY 8, 1896

IN A DILEMMA.

The situation of the Democratic party is perilous. No matter what action the politicians at Chicago may take, dissension is imminent. The expected triumph of the silver forces will result in a bolt, open or concealed, by the gold men. Whitney, Hill and [Russell may not be expected to publicly forswear temporary allegiance to the party through which they expect future political preferment, but it is altogether likely that they and their followers will vote against the free silver candidate next November. If a straddle is effected at Chicago it will cause great dissatisfaction among both silver and gold men, since there is an earnest desire all over the country that a plain, direct issue be presented.

Should the convention nominate Teller, he will be repudiated at the polls by thousands of loyal Democrats who will refuse to support a renegade Republican, and the Greeley campaign of 1872 will be repeated with like result. Should Teller not be nominated, the ticket will not receive the support of the Populists, without which success is impossible. From any point the view may be taken the scene is dispiriting enough to make the life-long Democrat who has seen better things, cry "All is vanity and vexation of spirit."

The Democratic party has suffered disruption before, and it looks as though history were to repeat itself now. The party dissensions in the election preceding the war gave the Republican party an unbroken lease of power for twenty-four years. The signs of the times point to a Republican victory which will insure Republican rule for many years. In such an event lies the only hope of national prosperity.

Since it is conceded that the political conditions now resemble in many ways those of 1860, the followers of Pennoyer can hope to see a further reproduction in the vice-presidential nomination. In 1860 Joseph Lane of Oregon was nominated for the vice-presidency along with Breckenridge. Lane was no more widely known than Pennoyer and Oregon rot half the state then it is now. The Pennoyer worshippers should not be discouraged, but press every effort to secure the nomination for our Democratic-Populist-demagogical-states-rights ex-governor. He should be right in the swim with the Chicago crowd.

The silver men showed their strength yesterday in the vote defeating Hill for the temporary chairmanship. If the mob of silver agitators can be held in any sort of control, there is no reason why they should not dominate every action of the convention. The country will then have a plain issue before it, and the people can decide whether or not we shall slump to the silver basis.

Four years ago the Democratic party wanted the country to try a free trade policy. It did so, and behold the results! Now this same Democratic party wants the nation to experiment with free silver. Is there any reason to believe the Democratic party is nearer right now than it was four years ago?

The coming campaign promises to be fought for principles, not men. It is just the same to the Republicans. They are willing to rest their case on their candidate or platform. They are ashamed of neither.

The speech of Garrett Hobart in accepting the vice-presidential nomination shows him to be a man of courage and force. As the campaign progresses the wisdom of the convention in naming the ticket it did will be all the more apparent.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed on exhibit at the world's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the world's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."
