

TURNING GRAY AND THREATENED WITH BALDNESS

The Danger is Averted by Using
AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Neb.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

As you did me the honor of recognizing my communication yesterday and replying to it at some length, I make bold to ask for a little more space today, believing as I do that the issue is an important one and well worthy of our consideration. In speaking of the relative commercial value of the two metals yesterday, I presume you mean that silver is now so much cheaper than formerly that it cannot be coined at the same ratio as before. It is just here that you get the cart before the horse. Silver is worth as much as it ever was except when measured by gold. Silver is not worth less, but gold is worth more on account of the exalted position it occupies.

Our own government created this breach between the two metals by debasing the one and exalting the other. Statistics show that there is less silver being produced now in proportion to gold than there was prior to '73. At the present time the two metals are being produced in the proportion of about 16 to 1, and at no time has silver exceeded this proportion to any great extent. The doctrine that the white metal is becoming cheaper on account of over production is a snare and a delusion. Silver is not worth less, but gold is worth more—exactly what was desired by those who caused silver to be demonetized. What other object did they have except to enrich themselves? Will you tell me, Mr. Editor, why it was necessary to demonetize silver at all and create the greatest panic the world ever saw? It was a scheme on the part of those who had the gold, to destroy one-half of the money in order that the other half should be worth twice as much. You may say that there is as much silver in circulation as ever. Very true, but it is not money in the true sense of the word; it is simply a commodity, the value of which is measured by gold. Let our government restore silver to its true position among the metals; let us open our mints to its free coinage, and I believe that the parity of the two metals will take care of itself. What man is fool enough to sell so much silver at 60 cents when he can go to the mint and get a dollar for it. The 60-cent dollar will then be a thing of the past. Our own mints being the market and offering 100 cents for it would certainly have a tendency to fix the price at about that figure.

Perhaps you will say that free coinage would benefit only the debtor class at the expense of the creditor. That is it exactly. That is just what we want. In 1873 the creditor classes were enriched at the expense of the debtor. Turn about is fair play. It is our turn now and we are going to win this fall just as surely as the sun shines and truth prevails.

People are getting more intelligent every day. They are getting into the habit of reading both sides of a question, and are gradually coming to the conclusion that our mints must be opened to silver as well as to gold before prosperity can return to us. This, Mr. Editor is my honest opinion after giving the subject much thought, and studying both sides of the question for a number of years fairly and conscientiously, having had no preconceived ideas to warp my judgement. None but those who have gold to lend can consistently favor the single gold standard, and then only for selfish reasons, not that it would benefit the great mass of people, especially those who earn their livelihood by their daily toil. Our forefathers certainly did intend for silver to be a unit of value on an equality with gold or they would not have made it so. It fulfilled its mission admirably and I have never yet heard anyone give a good reason why it was demonetized.
