

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla

For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

QUEENSLAND. It Is Hot There, But the People Are Happy.

"No rain had fallen for eight months, and the hot air was thick with a stifling haze of dust. The mighty Flinders, a vast river, of sand, with water beneath, mocked the parched township, the dusty downs and the burning limbs of the population.

"Frequently all the doors and windows of the wretched tin and wood houses had to be hurriedly closed to keep out the hateful sirocco. The almost bare downs, raked away into the distance, with pillars of dust a thousand feet high, traveling along in the scorching whirlwinds, at a few miles distance from each other, like giants striking through the land, rearing their dim heads into the brass-colored sky. These dust spots are only a few feet in diameter for hundreds of feet up. They come eddying along, sometimes lifting even oil tins and corrugated iron; and would betide the houses they take in their track, for they fill them with dirt and rubbish, making a clatter on the roof. Even if people are on the alert to close all the apertures as they see a column of dust approaching, they are filled with fine dust, and the very book-covers curl up with the heat. The people are as happy as anybody else. They live and toil, make lots of money, marry and are given in marriage. They have their excitements—the shearing season, dancing and race meetings. All the vices and a few of the virtues belonging to the rest of the world are to be met with in that dreary, scorching wilderness."

SOMEWHAT MIXED.

He Knew There Was Trouble Waiting for Him at Home.

He was a pale-faced, red-whiskered man, and he was leaning against a horseless wagon, which was lying on its side near the road fence, says the New York World.

"Stranger," he began, as I approached him, "ken ye tell me wher' I am at?" "You are about three miles from Grassville village and four miles from Lidford town," I replied.

"Kin yer tell me the time?" "Seven o'clock."

"Mornin' or evenin'?" "Morning."

"Then it's me," he said, with a sigh. "What do you mean?" I asked.

"Well, stranger," he began, "jis' fore you come along I woke up an' found meself lyin' under this yere wagon, an' fer the life of me I couldn't tell which one of two things I had gone an' done—lost a horse or found a wagon. Now I know that I have lost a horse; now I know that I'm the great big gawk that left Grassville for Lidford with a load of faters yesterday mornin', an' left Lidford for Grassville with a skinful of whisky last night."

"Stranger," he continued, "take a good look at my face now, an' then jis' wait here till I come back from Grassville with the horse, an' you'll git a purty good idee of the fightin' qualities of my ol' woman."

I did not wait.

New Trial Ordered.

Among the twenty-five opinions handed down by the supreme court at Pendleton Saturday, was the following in the case of Z. F. Moody, respondent, vs. W. D. Richards, appellant, from Wasco county. The lower court is reversed and a new trial ordered. This action was brought to recover money alleged to be due on the breach of a contract. The plaintiff alleges that he advanced to defendant $439.81 on account of delivery in Portland a given amount of wheat of specified grades, on the condition that if the wheat was not up to the standard agreed upon, the plaintiff should be reimbursed, according to the ruling difference between the grade furnished and specified. The defendant alleges that the wheat was not up to the standard agreed upon, the plaintiff should be reimbursed, according to the ruling difference between the grade furnished and specified, and upon this it was contended the findings did not support the judgment. The court holds that the alleged promise to repay the difference between the values in the grades of wheat was material, and that the parties were entitled to a finding upon this issue. Such finding is held to be indispensable, even without a request therefor, hence a new trial is ordered.

Hogan Johnson, of Riverside, in Pacific county, Wash., put a rope around a bull's neck and started to lead him home last Tuesday. On the way the bull made an attack upon Mr. Johnson from the rear, goring him in the back and trampling him under foot until he was nearly dead. One horn penetrated the lung, entering the body about five inches. Mr. Johnson's right arm was broken in three places, and from his hips down he is one mass of severe bruises. He is 62 years old, but it is thought he will recover.

When you find a person who has tried Simmons Liver Regulator you are sure to hear them say something in its favor. Mrs. G. T. Judy, Blue Grass, Ill., recently wrote: "I cannot do without Simmons Liver Regulator since I know the value of it as a family medicine." And Dr. W. P. Gibbs, of Beaufort, S. C., says: "I prescribe Simmons Liver Regulator, and know it to be a first-class liver medicine."
